ADMITS SWINDLING BANKS ON LOANS

Adolph Rothbarth's False Statements Caught Mercantile National and Liberty National.

THEFTS FOOT UP $128,000

Prisoner Lost All in Speculation—He Now Hopes to Get the Full Limit of Punishment.

After pleading guilty to committing grand larceny in the first degree in obtaining loans of large sums of money from both the Mercantile National Bank at 193 Broadway and the Liberty National Bank at 139 Broadway, for which he did not put any security beyond mere time notes, Adolph Rothbarth, a middle-aged German hop merchant with a small office at 28 Whitehall Street, was locked up in the Tombs yesterday afternoon in default of $20,000 bail. It is his own wish that he receive the extreme penalty of the law, which is ten years in State prison, and it is not likely that he will make any effort to obtain bail.

As a result of his operations the Mercantile National Bank, according to Assistant District Attorney Manley, stands to lose about $58,000 and the Liberty National about $70,000. Officials of the former institution said last night that Rothbarth did not owe them more than $34,000. The National Park Bank of 214 Broadway, which also lent the hop merchant large sums, was more lucky than the other two. According to its cashier Rothbarth paid off all his indebtedness there, and even has a balance in his favor.

Rothbarth in several ways is one of the most interesting swindlers the District Attorney's office has had dealings with in a long time. He not only made a clean breast of his offense, but seemed anxious that he be severely punished. Owing to this peculiar attitude the prison officials fear that he may commit suicide, and an extra watch was placed on him.

Rash speculation in Wall Street, the prisoner said, was the cause of his downfall. It was his ambition to acquire millions, and he was "long" on a number of stocks when in 1907 the big slump struck the market. The resultant panic that Fall wiped out every cent he had. Even after this drawback, however, he did not have any difficulty in borrowing large sums of money. His method of getting it was simplicity itself, but not more simple than the way he was caught.

His Method of Swindling.

His method was to turn into the banks a false statement of his assets and liabilities. The foreign firm he represented, which is composed of his three brothers, had good ratings and seemed to the bank officials to be thoroughly reliable. By working the three banks against each other Rothbarth was able to draw all the money he wanted.

Having established an account at one bank, he obtained credit on notes, many of which were not even signed by the firm he represented, but by himself, as having power of attorney. Then he would discount these notes and place them with equal ease to his credit at another bank. When he made two different false statements regarding his income, however, and these were compared, almost by mere chance, they were so glaringly at variance that an investigation immediately followed.

Rothbarth's arrest came yesterday afternoon after Assistant District Attorney Manley had descended upon his office and carried away his books and accounts. He made a complete confession when confronted with the evidence against him and said he was glad he did not have a wife and children to share in his disgrace. His confession and the statements of the bank officials with whom he did business pieced out the full history of himself and his manipulations, and the case looked so dark against him that James W. Osborne, after a consultation with him, could not make up his mind whether to represent him or not. By Rothbarth's own admission he succeeded in deceiving his brothers as easily as he did the bank officials.

There are four Rothbarth brothers, Justus, Leopold, Martin, and Adolph, the man under arrest, and two firms make up their business, which is a long-established one. Rothbarth & Co. is the European concern and Martin Rothbarth & Co. the American. Justus has chargeof the London office, which is at 18 St. Thomas Street, and Leopold and Martin have chargeof the Frankfort office, which is at 28 Meisengasse. There is also a branch office at St. Petersburg. Adolph is not a member of the firm, but has full powers to represent it as an agent in this country. The main office is at Frankfort.

Lost All In Wall Street.

Adolph, the youngest of the four brothers, is a bachelor, 57 years old, and has fine apartments at the Sherman Square Hotel. He began speculating in Wall Street in 1905 and was more or less successful during that year and the next. His business, too, was in a prosperous condition. In 1907, however, he was caught in the market with stocks including Union Pacific and lost so much money that he went to the Liberty National and Mercantile National Banks and negotiated loans on notes.

He got $100,000 credit from the Liberty National Bank, giving four times notes of $25,000 each. These he discounted and opened an account at the Mercantile National Bank. Instead of collateral for the loans he showed the bank officials a statement of his assets and liabilities. On this statement he obtained $100,000 from the Mercantile National Bank between August, 1908, and March, 1909, according to Assistant District Attorney Manley.

His statement showed that he had more than $420,000 due him from brewery concerns, and that his cash on hand and stock amounted to $14,000 more. As a matter of fact, there was less than $20,000 due him, he had no cash, and his stock was practically worthless. His liabilities he gave as only $1,000, while he was indebted to the Liberty National Bank for $100,000.

Rothbarth from time to time, as the notes fell due at one bank, renewed them by borrowing from another. During this time he also got loans of $110,000 on false statements from the National Park Bank. These loans, however, were all taken up subsequently when they fell due with money borrowed from his three brothers in Europe.

Hard pressed for money, Rothbarth early this month again applied to the National Park Bank for a loan of $125,000. He submitted another statement showing his assets and liabilities. The officials of the bank, knowing that Rothbarth had borrowed money from the Mercantile National Bank, called on President Willis G. Nash of that institution and a comparison of statements was made. Many discrepancies were found.

The National Park Bank then refused the loan, and President Nash consulted the law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell. William N. Cromwell is a Director of the bank, and H. H. Boyesen of the firm was asked to make an investigation. With Mr. Nash and two detectives Mr. Boye-

LIFT BAN FROM FOOTBALL.

Board of Education Decides to Permit the Game Under New Rules.

Football won a victory in the High School Commitee of the Board of Education yesterday. The game, tabooed last year by the board, will be permitted under the revised rules this Fall.

The High School Committee met prior to the meeting of the Board of Education to take up the subject. Commissioners George W. Wingate and James E. Sullivan, both warm advocates of the game in school athletics, urged its reinstatement under the rules of the Intercollegiate Association, and when the meeting was over both were jubilant. The news of victory spread rapidly among the Commissioners and others in the boardroom.

"They can begin practice as soon as they like," said Mr. Sullivan, "but if it is found that accidents continue to occur the Committee on Athletics will prepare new rules, under which the boys will be allowed to play."

Those interested in the game expressed admiration for the manner in which Mr. Sullivan, who is an ex-President of the American Athletic Union, and Gen. Wingate have saved the game to the boys. Last Fall the Board of Education was deluged with protests against the game when several players were killed and many hurt. Wingate and Sullivan waited until the storm subsided before attempting anything.

Now, not only have they got permission for the game to be played under the new rules, but if these prove unsatisfactory the High School Committee is committed to the stand that other rules may be formulated before the game is to be abolished.

CHOLERA IN NAPLES?

Advices Say It Is Only Gastro-Enteritis —Dr. Doty Taking No Chances.

Stories that cholera is raging in Naples and that already the disease has caused eight deaths there have reached this country in the last few days, and as a result the health officials of this port are using extra care in dealing with incoming steamships from Naples.

An Associated Press dispatch from Rome yesterday stated that the so-called cholera had turned out to be nothing worse than gastro-enteritis, which is common at this season, but the precautions taken here will not be relaxed until it is made certain that cholera has not broken out in the Italian port.

The Hamburg-American liner Hamburg and the Italian liner Duca di Genova, each of which reached here on Tuesday and carried 1,000 immigrants apiece from Naples, were submitted to rigid examinations before their steerage passengers were passed on to Ellis Island. These examinations consumed so much time that the immigrants were kept aboard the ships all Tuesday night, and were not landed at Ellis Island until yesterday morning.

Dr. Doty, after giving the two ships clean bills of health, explained, for the benefit of the public, that there was absolutely no danger of infection in this country, even should it prove that it really was cholera which is causing trouble in Naples.

"That cholera exists in Naples," said he, "is no news to me. I have suspected as much for a month and have conducted my examinations of ships from the port with this information in mind. Then, three days ago, I received a notice from the Federal Government cautioning me that cholera existed there, and yesterday a private cablegram from abroad conveyed to me much the same information.

"A factor of safety in our favor, however, and one on which I have counted much, is the length of voyage from Naples to New York. The ships seldom do it in less than twelve days and as the period of incubation of cholera is only four or five days this time in transit provides a very good insurance against the disease.

"Mild and irregular cases which do not follow the beaten track must be looked out for always, but I am sure there can be no danger so long as extremely careful examinations are made of ships from the infected districts. I can assure you that our examinations are of this sort."

GOSPEL QUELLS TRAIN FIGHT.

Hearing Profanity, the Young Preacher Took Out His Bible and Read.

Special to The New York Times.

BUTLER, N. J., Sept. 14.—Gospel preaching as a means to quell rowdyism was tried with success here to-day by Benjamin Kober, a young minister of Paterson. Not that he induced the rowdies to read the Gospel themselves, but read it to them. They were on a train of the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad, when they suddenly broke out in a rough-and-tumble fight, using profanity that would have shamed the vocabulary of a canal driver.

While women trembled with fear and men frowned with timid impotence, young Kober rose to the situation. First he mildly rebuked the men. Then before they could recover sufficiently from their amazement he had fished a Bible out of his pocket and was reading from the fifteenth chapter of Isaiah.

The trouble-makers, recognizing him as a minister, listened with respectful attention till he finished. They had absolutely no further remarks to offer from that time until they left the train.

The youthful preacher told questioners afterward that he felt called to speak when he heard the profanity.

WOMAN POLICEMAN ON BEAT.

Brooklyn Woman Begins Duties at Los Angeles with a Chaperon.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 14.—Chaperoned by Officer Leo Marden, Mrs. Alice Stebbins Wells, formerly of Brooklyn and familiar with Settlement work in New York, to-day performed her first day's work as the first policewoman in Los Angeles. Wearing star No. 105, Mrs. Wells went on her beat after receiving instructions as to her duties from Chief Galloway. When the day was over, Mrs. Wells was weary, but confident and enthusiastic.

"It will take me some time to become familiar with my duties," she said, "and I expect the work will become easier when I have done so. I am not armed, and I don't know whether it will ever be necessary for me to carry a weapon, but I hope I shall not be compelled to do so. I recognize that I must do what I am told without question. My duty is first of all to obey my superior officer.

"No, I don't expect to have a chaperon always. I expect after awhile to work alone. I suppose my chief concern will be with young girls venturing into unsafe places. I may sometimes be compelled to make arrests."

HAMMERSTEIN'S SON WEDS MRS. HOAGLAND

Second Mrs. Arthur Hammerstein Was Divorced from John A. Hoagland Only Last Friday.

WAS FORMERLY GRACE WEIR

A Pupil of De Reszke—Marriage at Greenwich, Conn.—First Mrs. Hammerstein Got Divorce in April.

Arthur Hammerstein, son of the impresario, Oscar Hammerstein, was married yesterday afternoon in Greenwich, Conn., to Mrs. Grace Weir Hoagland, the former wife of the wealthy John A. Hoagland, whose family was identified with the Royal Baking Powder Company. The announcement of the wedding furnished the first general knowledge of the fact that Mrs. Hoagland had obtained a divorce decree from her husband on last Friday in the Supreme Court. John A. Hoagland is at present in Europe.

The wedding yesterday took place at the home of E. Buttrick Root, nephew of Elihu Root and attorney for the Hammersteins. Mr. and Mrs. Root were present and Oscar Hammerstein acted as best man. The entire party motored to Connecticut yesterday morning from the Plaza Hotel, where the bride had been staying since her return from Europe last August. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. De Witt C. Eggleston, pastor of the Congregationalist Church at South Beach, Conn.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hammerstein returned by automobile, stopping only to call on Rida Johnson Young, the playwright, at her home in Bellehaven. They went to the bridegroom's house at 1 West Sixty-eighth Street. He said last night that owing to the production of the first of the light operas at the Manhattan Opera House next week the honeymoon would have to be postponed for some time.

Mr. Hammerstein and his present wife met first at a Sunday afternoon reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Bull, when the former was alive, in February, 1908. She had married John A. Hoagland three years previously in London. They met several times subsequently, and this Summer, when Mrs. Hoagland was in Europe traveling with Jacques Coini, his father's stage director, and the latter's wife, and Arthur Hammerstein was with his father, they met again. He returned on the Rotterdam with the party, which arrived in New York on Aug. 2.

On Aug. 19 it was rumored in Greenwich that Arthur Hammerstein had arrived there and that he had been married. When asked as to the truth of the report he said he had not been in Greenwich on that day, but had been at the bedside of Mrs. William Hammerstein, who was seriously ill.

As Grace Weir the present Mrs. Hammerstein attracted considerable attention with her voice when she was soprano solosit at Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn. As a result of her progress with her singing she was encouraged to go abroad, and was accepted as a pupil by De Reszke. It was while she was abroad studying that she met and married her first husband. Oscar Hammerstein has heard her, and said she possessed a wonderful voice. Arthur Hammerstein said last night that she was still very much interested in operatic study, and it was not altogether impossible that at some future time she might go on the operatic stage.

Arthur Hammerstein's first wife, Jean Allison Hammerstein, obtained a divorce in Nevada last April. They were married in Jersey City in 1893, and separated in 1905. Two years later she obtained an interlocutory degree, signed by Justice Fitzgerald in the Supreme Court of New York. Their differences were at that time adjusted, however, and no request was made for a final decree.

In April she began a suit in Reno, alleging non-support, and on this ground a divorce was granted. There is one daughter by this earlier marriage. She is about 14 years old, and is at present at school in Wayne, Penn., where, her father said last night, she would remain for two years more. In her suit the former Mrs. Hammerstein did not demand the custody of her child but asked that she be left free to choose whom to live with in later years.

Arthur Hammerstein has been his father's right hand man in the operatic ventures of the Hammersteins. When the Philadelphia house was building, he was sent there as manager. It was he who negotiated the sale of the Hammerstein interest to the Metropolitan Company last Spring. And he is now the manager of the Manhattan Opera House for the season of light opera. The couple will make their home for the Winter at Mr. Hammerstein's house, 1 West Sixty-eighth Street.

FEAR GIRL IS KIDNAPPED.

Mary Dunn's Parents Say Suitors She Spurned Threatened Her.

The parents of Mary Dunn, a 16-year-old girl, living at 252 Elton Street, East New York, say they have reason to believe their daughter, who disappeared last Monday, has been kidnapped by Italians. They say that several months ago an attempt was made by some Italians to kill her with a small bomb, resembling an iron ball, which exploded in the hands of her two small brothers, to whom it was given with the request that it be given to Mary. The boys, John, 9 years, and Martin, aged 6, were badly lacerated about the hands, head, and body.

The Dunn family lives in a section largely populated by Italians, and Mary's comeliness attracted the attention of many Italian youths. She rebuffed them disdainfully, and her father aided her with his boots. As a consequence, some of the more ardent of her admirers made threats.

Mary received a letter last March, written in poor English, that she would be killed for treating the writer cruelly. His love for her had made him desperate, he said. The girl started for a shirtwaist factory in Brownsville, where she had obtained employment as a stenographer. She never reached there.

SAYS POLICE SHIELD A GAMBLING HOUSE

Widow of a Gambler Who Was Killed in Harlem Tells of a Madison Avenue Resort.

IN OPERATION FOR MONTHS

Poolroom and All Kinds of Games of Chance Going on Under Police Eyes.

A woman, gowned in deep mourning, who said she was Mrs. Anna Jacobs, widow of a bookmaker and gambler, who was shot and killed in Harlem last Spring, startled Magistrate Murphy and the attendants and visitors in the Women's Night Court last night by declaring that with money which had belonged to her husband and now rightfully was hers, a gambling house was being maintained in Madison Avenue, Harlem, and that in last month alone the managers of the house took in $17,000 in profits.

Mrs. Jacobs declared that the police knew of the existence of the house and that it was marked upon the police records as "suspected," but that, nevertheless, it was never molested, although it had been in operation for months.

Mrs. Jacobs appeared in court as a prisoner, charged by Joseph Falney, who says he is a wine salesman of 78 Broad Street, with having smashed one of the windows in the basement of his home at 1,939 Madison Avenue by poking a cane through it and then smashing two other windows by throwing a hammer through them. This occurred at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Jacobs did not deny Falney's charge. She declared, though, that she had been trying to collect the money that had been her husband's which was due her.

"These people murdered my husband," she exclaimed to Magistrate Murphy. "Now they won't give me any of the $1,500 which belonged to him and which they stole. This man is not living in that house. He is just one of the gamblers who frequent it.

"Six months ago my husband was going to open a gambling house in 116th Street. He gave a man named Hogan $1,500 and told him to meet him at the house with the money. The house was all furnished with gambling paraphernalia.

"On the way to the house my husband met a man known as 'Shorty' Mansfield, who asked him for $250, and when my husband told him he did not have the money Mansfield shot him. My husband died in Harlem Hospital and I was with him to the end. He told me all about it.

"Hogan took my husband's money and furniture and opened a game in Madison Avenue. They have been coining money ever since. Last month they made $17,000 and they won't give me a cent. They run a poolroom in the day time and a roulette wheel and crap game at night. I have asked them for the money time and again, but they have just kept me standing on street corners and won't even pay me $10 a week, although they promised that as long as I had trouble with my knee, which forces me to walk with a cane, they would look out for me."

Magistrate Murphy asked Falney if he were running a game in the house or if he knew of a game being operated there

BUILDER UNEARTHS $25,000.

Heirs of Former Owner of Property Have Him Arrested for Theft.

BELLAIRE, Ohio, Sept. 14.—W. J. McClain, a wealthy contractor of this city, was arrested to-day on a charge of stealing about $25,000, unearthed while he was excavating for a building in Wheeling, W. Va.

McClain's find was made on what is known in Wheeling as the "Dr. Schuckhart property." Several pots of gold were exhumed by his workmen, and their contents, according to the best information obtainable, totaled $24,124.

When heirs of Dr. Schuckhart heard of the discovery they sought to recover the money. McClain, however, had come to his home in this city. The case was then brought to the attention of the authorities of Ohio County, West Virginia, and an indictment charging the Bellaire man with theft of the gold was returned against him. McClain is held in jail, awaiting requisition papers from West Virginia. He has indicated an intention to fight not only for his liberty, but also for possession of the gold.

CARRIES HER STEP WITH HER

How Dignity May Be Preserved Despite the Old-Fashioned Trolley Car.

There is a certain stately old lady who doesn't let the high steps of the old-fashioned open trolley car disturb her. When she boarded a car yesterday in an outlying section, where the old-fashioned type prevails, the other passengers noticed that she carried a light rattan and cane footstool, possibly six inches long.

Its use became clear as the old lady reached her destination. She signalled the conductor, and, with a gracious smile, held out the stool. The man took the hint, and placed it so that she dismounted with dignity. Then she thanked the conductor. What would happen if he should chance to have been surly or disobliging isn't clear, but probably very few car conductors would want to make such a dignified old lady do the high jump along with the other passengers.

LAST TRUMP CARD OF THE OLD GUARD

Roosevelt Being Urged to Tell at Syracuse His Real Attitude to Taft's Administration.

TAFT INDORSEMENT FOR 1912

Latter to be Sprung on the Colonel at Saratoga—Then He'll Be in a Fine Fix, Say Woodruff Forces.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt is being urged to take President Taft and his Administration for his text when he speaks at the State Fair in Syracuse on Saturday. There was every reason to believe, one of those who are urging the Colonel said yesterday, that he would comply; that he would deal with this subject at length, and that he would make his attitude toward President Taft and his policies very clear.

If he does, the speech at Syracuse on Saturday is likely to be one of the most interesting and important utterances of Col. Roosevelt, since his return from Africa, and friends and political foes alike will look forward to the occasion with the keenest curiosity.

The news reached Republican State Headquarters, where the Old Guard leaders held forth yesterday afternoon. Soon afterward it was learned that Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff, who is booked for a speech at a complimentary dinner to be given to him by the officials of the State Fair to-morrow night, would stay over in Syracuse to hear his adversary speak. Boss Barnes of Albany will sit on the lid here while Chairman Woodruff is away.

The Old Guard leaders are looking forward to the Syracuse speech with thrills of happy anticipation. The stern features of Mr. Barnes relaxed in a joyful smile when the news reached headquarters. Chairman Woodruff chuckled. National Committeeman Ward of Westchester winked his eye. Col. "Lafe" Gleason whistled softly, and the tune was "Every little movement has a meaning of its own."

From the very beginning of the fight the Old Guard leaders have realized that the impression so forcibly conveyed by President Taft in his letter to Lloyd C. Griscom, President of the Republican County Committee, that he frowned on the Old Guard programme and that the programme of the Roosevelt forces in this State had his approval was a mighty obstacle in the way of an Old Guard victory. Now they believe that if the Colonel follows the advice of his friends and speaks out he will forfeit the good will and support of President Taft in the carrying out of his plans.

Those who have been urging Col. Roosevelt to make clear his attitude toward the Taft Administration in advance of the State convention have done so to take the wind out of the opposition's sails. The statement made on Tuesday night by William Barnes, Jr., of Albany as leader of the Old Guard forces, left no doubt but that this issue would be forced on the Colonel at the convention.

This new line of attack on the Colonel had been planned by the Old Guard leaders shrewdly and with the burning of much midnight oil. It will place the Colonel between the devil and the deep sea, they argue. They plan insisting on the insertion of a plank in the Republican State platform indorsing the Taft administration in its every detail and proposing the renomination of President Taft in 1912.

Should Col. Roosevelt give his assent, and they don't care whether he does or not, they argue that it is difficult to see how he can square himself with his insurgent following in the Middle West. Should he oppose the plan it will give the anti-Roosevelt leaders an excuse to raise the cry that he is opposed to President Taft. This, they believe, will alienate every Federal office holder who comes to the convention with a delegation and make control of the convention by the Roosevelt forces impossible. It has been plain from the beginning of the Roosevelt-Old Guard conflict that only with the support of President Taft for the Roosevelt programme in this State can the Roosevelt forces win.

It was very apparent yesterday that the anti-Roosevelt leaders felt they had a winning hand and that, to use the recent expression of one of these leaders, "the cards were stacked" against the Colonel and his friends.

"We have been in politics for half a lifetime, most of us," said one of the Old Guard leaders yesterday, "and if we couldn't play the bunch of amateurs that are managing the Colonel's campaign clear off the board, we would't be much use to ourselves or anybody else."

It is very evident that not a single trick is being overlooked by Mr. Barnes and his confreres. The atmosphere about their headquarters was charged with confidence yesterday. It is asserted now by those who are managing the anti-Roosevelt campaign that nothing can prevent them from having a majority of the delegates in the State Convention. The claim put forth yesterday was 515 delegates, seven more than a majority.

"We are not giving our hand away, and are not prepared to state where our support will come from, but for the benefit of Brother Griscom we'll let it be known that at least twenty-five members of his own delegation will vote with us bosses at Saratoga," said one of the anti-Roosevelt leaders.

Much of the confidence at Republican State headquarters is due to a feeling that Col. Roosevelt's utterances during his Western trip have turned against him many Republican business men among the delegates elected prior to the Roosevelt-Old Guard fight, who under ordinary circumstances would be arrayed against the bosses. The speeches in the Middle West, it is apparent from the talk of the anti-Roosevelt leaders, are relied upon by them as their strongest weapon.

In their appeals to the leaders up-State who have shown Roosevelt leanings they use this argument: Suppose Col. Roosevelt and his friends should control this convention; it would only be a question of two, or at most four, years before the Republican organization would be compelled to return to conservatism, and then where will you be if you tie up to the Roosevelt bunch of amateurs now? They declare that this argument is proving effective.

President Griscom of the Republican County Committee said yesterday that he did not expect to have another conference with Col. Roosevelt before to-morrow, when the Colonel will come to town on his way to Syracuse. Mr. Griscom is still confident that, with the exception of the delegation of Col. Abraham Gruber of the Seventeenth Assembly District, all the delegates from New York County will vote for Roosevelt for Temporary Chairman of the Republican State Convention.

Estimates on the comparative strength of Vice President Sherman and Col. Roosevelt, crediting the former with twenty delegates from New York County, 109 in Kings, the twenty-four delegates from Queens, and the eight from Richmond, would give Mr. Sherman 323 and Col Roosevelt 307 of the delegates already selected, 508 being a majority. VOLCANO SMOTHERS SHIP.

Debris from Shishaldin Blown Thirty Miles—Vessel Just Escapes.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Sept. 14.—The cod fishing schooner Joseph Rush arrived to-day from Bering Sea with reports of a narrow escape from destruction under ashes and debris thrown from the crater of Mount Shishaldin, on Unimak Pass.

On June 8 Shishaldin was emitting a cloud of ashes, which, carried thirty miles by a gale, compelled the Rush's crew to go below. When the vessel had passed the downpour the crew had to break through the hatches, which were buried under a foot of ashes and pumice.

The schooner was sunk low on her water line, and if she had not fortunately sailed out of the danger zone she would have been lost.

AROSEMENA IS ELECTED.

Acting President of Panama for Obaldia's Unexpired Term.

PANAMA, Sept. 14.—The Liberal members of the National Assembly to-day elected Pablo Arosemena, Federico Boyd, and Rodolfo Chiari as First, Second, and Third Designated Vice Presidents, respectively.

Señor Arosemena becomes Acting President for the unexpired term of the late President Obaldia.

All three designates are Liberals. The Conservative Assemblymen were not present at the election.

RADIANT SUNSET RAINBOW.

All Harlem Sees a Gorgeous Celestial Display in a Shower.

As far as the eye could reach Harlem folk gathered on their roofs just at 6 o'clock last night to watch in silent wonder a most radiant vision in the skies. The rays from a great red sun, just as it sank in the West, piercing a few half-hearted rain clouds, spread lavishly across the heavens a perfect rainbow.

It was vivid in coloring. The arc seemed to take rise in the buildings of the City College, and from there overspread all Harlem so that hundreds of people forsook their dinners to watch it grow fainter and fainter as the scattered raindrops slowly ceased.

SENDS A 4-POUND POSTCARD.

Oklahoma Man Wants Reply and Spends $1.20 for Stamps.

ENID, Okla., Sept. 14.—A postcard that is believed to be the largest ever mailed has been sent from here to a firm of attorneys in Austin, Texas. The card is 26 inches long 38 inches wide and weighs a fraction less than four pounds.

It was sent by Isaiah Armond of Enid, who, having written several letters to the law firm and having received no reply, determined to get an answer or be satisfied that the communication reached its destination. He had the card made by a printing company. It is as large as the postal regulations permit and required $1.20 for stamps.

RECORD HARVEST OF NUTS.

Ohio River Production to be the Heaviest in Years.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 14.—From along the Ohio River, where many of the nuts come from, reports indicate a heavier crop than has been harvested in this part of the country for years. Walnuts and chestnuts are abundant and already arrangements are being made to ship the supply to this market.

It is months since an Ohio River packet has been able to get into this harbor, because of the low stage of the rivers, but with the expected equinox shippers are preparing to take advantage of the resulting high water, and the first packet to come into port will be the H. K. Bedford of Parkersburg. This boat will carry a cargo of nuts exclusively.

WILL PREACH ON BASEBALL.

Rockefeller's Pastor Was Once a Professional Player Himself.

$173,000 LONG LOST; TELLER IS ARRESTED

Fitzgerald, Supposedly Immune, Is Accused of Robbing Federal Sub-Treasury in 1907.

PROSECUTOR TRICKED HIM

Got Secret Indictment—Said Statute of Limitations Had Run—Let Fitzgerald Show Affluence.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—George W. Fitzgerald, a former assorting teller in the Chicago Federal Sub-Treasury, was arrested to-day by Deputy United States Marshals charged with the theft of $173,000 that mysteriously disappeared from the Chicago Sub-Treasury on Feb. 19, 1907.

Fitzgerald was arrested on a bench warrant, based on an indictment returned secretly by a Federal Grand Jury on Feb. 17, 1910.

The existence of the indictment was suppressed until to-day. Three days after it had been secretly returned it was announced that the statute of limitations operated to stop possible criminal action in the case. Coincidently with this ruse secret service men were detailed to watch Fitzgerald constantly and make a rigid investigation of his financial interests and affairs. The discoveries made by these operatives resulted in the order for Fitzgerald's arrest.

Marshal Eberstein, chief of special agents of the Department of Justice, and Deputy United States Marshals Walter Wainwright and J. T. Buckner arrested Fitzgerald at his insurance brokerage offices in La Salle Street as he was about to leave for home. He was taken to United States Marshal Hoy's office, where he was searched. He was then handcuffed and placed in a cell. Fitzgerald objected to the search and was handled somewhat roughly by the marshals.

After an hour's imprisonment Fitzgerald was taken before Judge K. M. Landis. He was formally arraigned and his bail was fixed at $50,000. Being unable to give bond in this sum he was taken to jail.

The indictment against Fitzgerald as read in court specifies four counts. Three charge embezzlement, and the fourth charges larceny. Under these charges a maximum sentence of ten years in a Federal prison or a fine of equal to the sum embezzled is the penalty on conviction.

Attaches of the District Attorney's office declare that since the disappearance of the $173,000 from the Sub-Treasury Fitzgerald has done the following things:

Organized the Illinois Car Manufacturing Company, with a $50,000 plant at Hammond, Ind.

Organized the Illinois Bolt, Nut and Forging Company, with a large plant in Chicago.

Dealt extensively in stocks and bonds.

Moved from a moderate flat to a $10,000 residence, which he paid for and furnished expensively.

Lived in costly style, and entertained friends lavishly.

From the time of the returning of the suppressed indictment on Feb. 17 Fitzgerald was never out of sight of Secret Service men when awake and while he slept operatives were on guard at his home or hotel. Meanwhile, all his financial transactions were checked up closely and certain investments traced to him.

United States District Attorney Edwin Sims refused to say what prompted his order to-day for Fitzgerald's arrest, but declares that he felt sufficient evidence was in hand to warrant such procedure.

The Sub-Treasury loss occurred on Feb. 20, 1907. The money was all in $1,000 and $10,000 bills. Federal officers throughout the country were brought into the hunt for the missing money. For three years all persons found to have $1,000 and $10,000 bills were subjected to open or covert scrutiny by Secret Service agents.

The $173,000 disappeared from Fitzgerald's cage in the sub-treasury. When questioned regarding the disappearance of the money, Fitzgerald said that he had gone out to lunch and that when he returned it was gone. He was closely questioned at the time and was shadowed for months.

A year after the robbery occurred Fitzgerald was arrested by a private detective agency acting for William Boldenweck, the sub-treasurer. The charge was not pressed, however, and Fitzgerald instituted damage suits against Boldenweck and the dejective agency.

Mr. Boldenweck, who is to be succeeded by Len Small of Kankakee, Ill., as assistant treasurer in charge of the Chicago sub-treasury, sent his resignation to President Taft on Sept. 8. Congress some time ago relieved Mr. Boldenweck of any responsibility in the loss which then fell on the Government.

FROM FRIENDS IN NEED.

Anonymous Gifts of $1,100 Save the West Side Juvenile Club.

An anonymous windfall of $1,100 has relieved the West Side Juvenile Club of 826 Greenwich Street of perplexities which were threatening the existence of the institution. A woman appeared in the office of Richard H. Swartwout, its treasurer, at 44 Pine Street, a few days ago and handed him a note which read:

Sept. 8, 1910.

Mr. Richard H. Swartwout, 44 Pine Street, New York:

Dear Sir: The bearer will hand you $1,100 to be acknowledged in your annual report as:

"From Two Friends of the Ninth Ward, $100.

"From a Friend of the Ninth Ward, $1,000."

Wishing you abundant success in your undertaking, yours very truly,

Inclosure.

The note was signed simply with a blue pencil dash. The bearer handed the treasurer a $100 and a $1,000 bill and withdrew, refusing all information as to the identity of the donors.

The West Side Juvenile Club, which draws its boys and girls from old Greenwich Village, is a charitable organization with a membership of between 300 and 400 boys and girls from eight to fourteen years of age. It has classes in manual training and domestic science and has a reading room and baths. It depends for its support on voluntary contributions and an annual entertainment which usually nets $2,000.

Last Winter the receipts fell off to $700 and the season was a hard one for collections. The Directors were to decide at their next meeting what was to be done to fill the empty treasury. The question has now been answered by the timely gift.

TO NAME WILSON IN JERSEY TO-DAY

Princeton President's Friends Claim 1,000 of the Delegates Chosen in the Primaries.

SENATORSHIP RACE CLOSE

Ex-Govs. Murphy and Stokes Both Well Up for the Republican Indorsement to Succeed Kean.

While all the returns from the New Jersey primaries were not in at a late hour last night, enough had been received to indicate who will be the candidates for the leading offices to be fought for by the Republicans and Democrats at the November election. President Woodrow Wilson will be the Democratic nominee for Governor and his opponent will be Vivian M. Lewis.

The Democratic State Convention is to be held in Trenton to-day. Most of the delegates were already there last night, and it was the consensus of opinion that Dr. Wilson will be the nominee. His friends say that yesterday's primaries gave him more than 1,000 of the 1,377 delegates, and that he will be nominated on the first ballot. The plan is to have Clarence L. Cole of Atlantic County the first on the roll call, offer the Princeton President's name and to have seconding speeches made by Dan Fellows of Bergen County and J. T. Baker of Cape May County. The Temporary Chairman of the convention will be John R. Hardin of Newark, a Princeton graduate and friend of Dr. Wilson.

Notwithstanding the hopeful outlook for Dr. Wilson, friends of Frank S. Katzenbach, once Mayor of Trenton and a defeated candidate for Governor, say that he will get the nomination. They base their hopes on the assertion that all of the delegates claimed by the Wilson forces are not pledged, and that, being free to act on their own initiative at the convention, they will swing over to Katzenbach after the second or third ballot.

In the contest for indorsement for United States Senator to succeed John Kean, ex-Gov. Murphy leads ex-Gov. Stokes and Congressman Fowler, though the race is so close that it is said the victor will not have more than 500 votes to spare. Mr. Murphy polled a very heavy vote in Hudson, Essex, and Atlantic Counties, which are the most densely populated in the State, while Mr. Stokes ran exceptionally strong in the rural counties and in Mercer, where is Trenton, the State capital.

Much to the surprise of his friends, Congressman Fowler failed to get a renomination to Congress in the Fifth District. He was defeated by William Runyon, the regular Republican candidate, of Plainfield. Mr. Fowler alienated the machine Republicans by his attacks on Speaker Cannon and his avowed declaration that he was an insurgent.

The regulars of both parties won in Essex County. Congressman Wayne Parker, Republican, defeated Harold J. Howland in the Seventh Congressional District. Mr. Howland is one of the editors of The Outlook, and had the assurance that Col. Roosevelt would speak for him were he victorious at the primaries. Congressman William H. Wiley easily won in his race with George H. Austin in the Eighth District, which includes the Oranges.

On the Democratic side the Smith-Nugent faction put the forces of Sheriff Harrigan to rout, and, in addition to electing delegates to the State Convention favorable to Dr. Wilson, chose E. W. Townsend ("Chimmie Fadden") as the nominee for Congress in the Seventh and Walter McCoy in the Eighth District.

In Hudson County "Bob" Davis, the Democratic boss, carried through his delegation to the State Convention, but is thought to have lost some of the minor county offices. His opponent for control of the Democratic forces was Mayor Wittpenn of Jersey City, who was an aspirant for the Gubernatorial nomination. Wittpenn got only 63½ delegates out of 234. Davis is a Wilson man.

While both the regular Republicans and Progressives are claiming a victory, the indications are that George L. Record will be the Republican nominee for Congress in this district, instead of Assistant Prosecutor George T. Vickers, who was his chief opponent.

Interest in the Democratic contest for the United States Senatorship indorsement was listless. The race was between John M. McDermitt of Essex County and James E. Martine of Plainfield. Martine won out. If the primaries were binding on the State legislators and the Jersey Legislature should be Democratic in 1911 he would naturally be the successor to Senator Kean. But the primaries, in so far as they related to the Senatorship, were merely the expression of the people's choice, and the Legislators are not compelled to abide by them.

As a result ex-Gov. Murphy, even though successful in Tuesday's contest, may not be chosen if the Republicans continue in power. In fact, Senator Kean refused to let his name go before the people, as did David Baird of Camden, another aspirant for Senatorial honors. In the face of the primaries they will make the fight on the floor of the Legislature.

The Republican State Convention will be held in Trenton next Tuesday.

WILSON ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

So Says ex-Senator Smith, but Opponents May Form a Coalition.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 14.—Ex-United States Senator James Smith, Jr., State leader of the New Jersey Democrats, came to Trenton early this evening and after consulting with leaders of other counties said of the Democratic Convention of to-morrow:

"It will be Dr. Woodrow Wilson on the first ballot, and practically by unanimous vote."

All the other candidates, however, were busy all evening looking for a coalition of forces. The Mercer men will stick by Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., to the very last, and they announced that Senatorial nominee John A. Montgomery of this county would nominate the Mercer man for Governor.

Senator George S. Silzer of Middlesex County will be nominated by Surrogate Peter F. Daley, and it cannot be told at this hour whether or not the names of Mayor Wittpenn of Jersey City or that of Sheriff William Harrigan of Essex will be presented.

The trouble about a coalition of forces of nominees against Wilson is that no one wants to give way. Regarding this situation Senator Smith said:

"Before the first roll call is concluded it will be seen that Dr. Wilson has a large majority, and the others will drop out and give him their support."

"Nothing to it," exclaimed the Senator when asked if the outspoken words of labor opposition would hurt Dr. Wilson's chances of being elected. "That is," he continued, "all this opposition has been swept clean by Dr. Wilson's very satisfactory explanation of his past utterances about labor."

John R. Hardin of Essex will be the Chairman of the convention, and Clarence L. Cole of Atlantic City will make the speech nominating Dr. Wilson.

The State Committee met this evening to draft a tentative platform. The resolutions will deal with both State and National issues designed to furnish the keynote for both the Gubernatorial and the Congressional Democratic fight. The high cost of living will be charged up to trust fostering by the Republican Party, and extravagances, State expenditures, and reckless disregard for the people's right to progressive legislation will furnish some of the chapters.

The platform will declare for an absolutely rate-making power for the Public Utility Commission and cite discontent among the commuters of North Jersey and the inability of the Public Utility Commission to give relief as an instance of Republican allegiance to corporate influence.

Late this evening the Mercer Democrats were of the opinion that they could induce Silzer, Wittpenn, and Harrigan to withdraw in favor of Katzenbach. They said that Smith and Davis could not control Atlantic, Burlington, Gloucester, Salem, Cape May, Middlesex, Mercer, and Hunterdon, and that the boast that the Wilson boomers would deliver Camden delegates lacked foundation. But the Mercer men could not give any figures to support their belief. When things were summed up late at night no one could see any one else but Wilson.

GOODWIN IS NOMINATED.

Connecticut Republican Convention in Confusion—Platform Praises Taft.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 14.—The Republican Convention to-day named the following State ticket:

For Governor—CHARLES A. GOODWIN of Hartford.

For Lieutenant Governor— DENNIS A. BLAKESEE of New Haven.

For Secretary of State—MATTHEW H. ROGERS of Bridgeport.

For State Treasurer—COSTELLO LIPPITT of Norwich.

For State Controller—THOMAS D. BRADSTREET of Thomaston.

For Attorney General—JOHN H. LIGHT of Norwalk.

For Representative at Large in Congress—JOHN Q. TILSON of New Haven.

The platform adopted begins with an indorsement of the National Administration. Many of the planks are similar to those in the platform adopted by the Democrats at their convention last week. The platform calls for a Public Service Commission and the abolition of the $5,000 limitation of damages for death due to negligence, and demands that the veto of the Governor be set aside only by a two-thirds vote of each branch of the General Assembly, and that steps be taken as soon as practicable to re-district the State.

The plank indorsing President Taft read as follows:

> In William Howard Taft the American people have found a good and great President, one of the greatest the White House has known. We take pride in the remembrance that Connecticut gave him all her votes in the nominating convention and a plurality of 44,060 on election day. He brought to the chief magistracy a wonderful training and equipment for its duties. He has been a faithful custodian of the Constitution. He has given the country a law-abiding, law-enforcing administration. The appointing power has been to him a sacred trust. Our exporters are indebted to him for the preservation of tariff peace with the whole trading world. He has prepared the way for needed changes in our own schedules without the disturbance and derangement to business, invariably attending what is known as a general revision. Thanks chiefly to his tactful, but resolute insistence, the vital part of the reforms for which his predecessor pleaded in speeches and messages, is now statute law, and the Republican Congress has made a record for constructive work, of abiding value that will be a landmark in our legislative history. At once conservative and progressive, patient under misrepresentation and detraction, William Howard Taft has set an example of official fidelity and huge patriotism to all his successors in the Presidency.

The name of Charles A. Goodwin was placed in nomination for Governor by Judge Gustaf Carlson of Middletown. The nomination was seconded by C. H. Tibbetts and by John Lilley, son of the late Gov. Lilley.

This was followed by the presentation of the name of former Lieut. Gov. Everett J. Lake by J. Gilbert Calhoun. His nomination was seconded by Col. Isaac M. Ullman of New Haven.

When the first vote was taken the result showed that Goodwin had received 296 and Lake 285, making a total that exceeded the number of delegates, 580, by one. A recount showed Goodwin 295 and Lake 285. Then a Goodwin ballot was handed to the counters which Judge Noyes of New London said he had found on the floor. When the result was announced the convention was in an uproar, the Goodwin men claiming the nomination of their man and the Lake men demanding a recount.

The discussion of the validity of the ballot continued throughout the afternoon amid scenes of great confusion, the equal of which have not been seen in a Republican convention in this State for many years. While the discussion was at its height the Chairman announced that the tellers had made two reports. The majority report showed a vote of 580, of which Goodwin had 295 and Lake 285. The minority report stated that 581 votes had been cast and recommended a new ballot. The minority report was accepted and a second ballot was begun.

On this ballot Goodwin was nominated with 318 votes to 259 for Lake. Mr. Calhoun said Mr. Lake's friends were satisfied, and moved that the nomination be made unanimous. Col. Ullman seconded the motion and it was carried.

The other nominations were made by acclamation, except for Attorney General, for which ex-Judge John H. Light of Norwalk received 366 votes to 94 for Harry E. Back of Danielson.

At the close of the convention the State Central Committee met and re-elected Michael Kenealy of Stamford Chairman. The appointment of a Secretary was left to the Chairman.

ANTI-PATTERSON MEN INDORSE REPUBLICAN

Independent Democratic Convention Backs B. W. Hooper, Republican, for Governor.

BUT NOT REST OF TICKET

Agreement, It Is Said, Insures Democratic Legislature—Patterson Denounced as Subverter of Law.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 14.—By a rising vote to-day the convention of Independent Democrats assembled here indorsed for the Governorship Benjamin W. Hooper, the Republican nominee. This action was taken in spite of the recent action of Gov. Malcolm R. Patterson in renouncing the regular Democratic nomination with the avowed purpose of preventing hostility to himself from splitting the Democratic forces at the polls and causing the election of a Republican Governor.

It is explained by the leaders that the indorsement of Hooper by the Independent Democrats does not extend to the Republican candidates for other offices. It applies only to the Governorship, and is intended to emphasize the fact that the fight of the Independents is solely on Gov. Patterson. Ex-Attorney General Jefferson McCarn declared in a speech:

"I am a straight Democrat, and I'm going right straight to the polls and vote for Capt. Hooper."

The other delegates appeared to regard their democracy as equally "straight." There was no opposition in the convention to the programme outlined by the leaders who had committed themselves to the support of Hooper before Gov. Patterson published his letter renouncing the nomination, and a harmony resolution prepared by the regular or Patterson Democratic Committee was referred to the independent State Executive Committee without discussion.

It is declared that, the Governorship apart, there is to be no break in the solid Democratic South. There is a "gentleman's agreement" between the Independents and the Republicans that neither party will invade the other's "safe" legislative territory. This, the Independents say, assures a Democratic Legislature. The last Republican Governor in Tennessee was Alvin Hawkins in 1881-82.

The pardon of Senator Carmack's slayer by Gov. Patterson was denounced repeatedly by the speakers, and each denouncement was received with shouts of applause

B. A. Enloe was nominated for State Railroad Commissioner from West Tennessee, a new Executive Committee was formed, and a platform adopted denouncing "the usurpation of party authority in the name of Democracy by the Patterson machine," and condemning its "efforts to disfranchise Democratic voters" of the State.

"The independence and the integrity of the three co-ordinate departments of our State Government," the platform proceeds, "should be preserved in all their constitutional limitations, and we denounce the action of the Governor in attempting by the use of his political machine to control the action of the Legislature and to coerce the Supreme Court in the matter of a case pending before it.

"We indorse the four-mile law (the prohibition law) and its various amendments, prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in this State, and we condemn the efforts of Gov. Patterson to discredit these laws without giving them the test of enforcement.

"When the Governor of the State, in violation of his oath of office, refuses to uphold and enforce the law, he becomes a teacher of anarchy and an enemy of republican institutions and a menace to the security of human life and property rights.

"We unqualifiedly condemn the abuse of the pardoning power by Gov. Patterson and his efforts to convert the penitentiary and workhouse into political recruiting offices and to make the pardon and the punishment of crime an asset in his political machine."

Another plank favored nominations "by direct and express authority of the people through primary elections or delegated conventions."

In an address which closed the convention Capt. Hooper said:

"While this sequence of events is unprecedented in Tennessee politics, it contains no deep and hidden meaning. We have witnessed in this State for the last four years the assembling of the vicious and criminal elements of all races and parties under the banner of an unscrupulous organization, an intensified imitation of the Tammany Democracy of New York and the Republican ring of Philadelphia.

"We have seen the laws of this State trampled under foot. We have seen the pardoning power of the Governor converted into a political asset and used for the financial enrichment of his henchmen and the political aggrandizement of himself. We have seen the streets of our State capital crimsoned with the blood of political martyrdom. We have seen the decisions of the courts of this State treated with the utmost contempt.

"Do you ask who is the leader of this Democratic revolution? I answer that it is not any of the Independent Leaguers whom I see here before me here to-day. Edward Ward Carmack's body lies a-moldering in the grave, but his soul goes marching on."

He was loudly cheered by the delegates.

The convention was preceded by a parade, in which a company of Confederate soldiers formed a conspicuous part. They were headed by a band, and escorted by many delegates.

GAYNOR AND GOVERNORSHIP.

Col. Bacon Will Tell of an Interview with Mayor at Sulzer Meeting To-night

At the Hotel Victoria, headquarters of the Campaign Committee in charge of Congressman William Sulzer's Gubernatorial boom, it was announced yesterday that Col. Alexander S. Bacon, who is to preside at a Sulzer meeting in Progress Hall, Brooklyn, this evening, would tell them the result of an interview he had with Mayor Gaynor on Tuesday, sought by Col. Bacon for the purpose of obtaining a definite statement relative to the Governorship. The result, it was stated, must remain a secret until to-night's meeting.

Friends of Congressman Sulzer said that the only thing that has kept him from getting a majority of the delegates to the Democratic State Convention is the uncertainty of Mayor Gaynor's attitude.

Besides Sulzer and Bacon, the meeting, it was said, will be addressed by speakers representing the church, bar, army, and labor.

Orange, Rensselaer, Schuyler, Suffolk, and Tompkins, where the delegates have not yet been elected, are claimed by the progressives and practically conceded by the other side.

Giving the Old Guard the benefit of all doubtful counties would place the Roosevelt strength at 470 delegates. But in many of these the progressives are claiming the whole or part of the delegation. In Queens, for instance, the Fourth Assembly District is claimed by the Roosevelt forces, and it is intimated that the thirty-three delegates from Kings, conceded to the progressives by the anti-Roosevelt leaders, is not by any means all the Roosevelt strength in Chairman Woodruff's bailiwick. The delegates in Kings will be selected to-night and interesting developments are looked for in some districts.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 14.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt expressed satisfaction to-day over his victory in the Republican primaries in New York County yesterday, and at the same time said he was to take a hand in drafting the Republican State platform.

"Naturally I am gratified at the result," he said. "It was no less than I expected."

Asked about recent reports that he might accept the State Chairmanship and that an effort might be made to force the nomination for Governor upon him, he replied that there was no possibility of such a thing; he could not, under any circumstances, accept either the State Chairmanship or the Gubernatorial nomination.

REAL TEST IN KINGS TO-NIGHT.

Some Delegates Sure of Instructions to Vote for Roosevelt.

Following the results of the primaries in Kings County, which gave State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff what his followers regard as a better standing as county leader than heretofore, the "progressives" are looking forward to the Assembly district conventions to-night and the intervening days between now and the State Convention for developments that will clearly indicate whether he will remain State leader.

The conventions to-night in each of the twenty-three Assembly districts in Brooklyn will be held for the purpose of naming delegates to the State Convention at Saratoga. As these delegates will be called upon to decide whether Vice President Sherman or Col. Roosevelt shall be made temporary Chairman of the convention, it is possible that at some of them resolutions will be passed instructing the delegates how to vote.

Many Republican politicians in Brooklyn believe that the delegates to the State Convention may show their hand on the Sherman-Roosevelt issue if any attempt is made to pass resolutions instructing the delegates. There seems to be doubt that resolutions in favor of instructing delegates for Col. Roosevelt will be adopted in probably the Eleventh, Twelfth, Eighteenth, and the Sixteenth Assembly Districts. The leaders of these districts are A. E. Vass Congressman William M. Calder, Naval Officer F. J. H. Kracke, and Postmaster E. W. Voorhies, respectively.

It was positively stated at the clubhouse of the Eleventh Assembly Republican District, at 352 Greene Avenue, last night that the eight delegates from that district to the State Convention will be solid for Roosevelt. This assurance followed the report that there may be a split in the district convention to-night.

The idea of such a split was regarded as ridiculous, as Leader Vass carried the only two disputed election districts in his bailiwick. The general impression there was that the delegates in Congressman Calder's and Naval Officer Kracke's districts would be similarly instructed.

In spite of the creditable showing made by the Woodruff forces in the primaries, Republican politicians are alive to the fact that the convention to-night will be a further test of his strength. They are anxiously awaiting the outcome as it will give them some idea of how the delegates are lined up.

It was said last night that District Leader L. M. Swasey may have some difficulty in controlling a full delegation for Woodruff, as there is a strong pro-Roosevelt sentiment in his district. There is the same situation in the Sixth Assembly District where William N. McNamara and ex-Assemblyman Thomas J. Surpless allied their forces against Alderman John Diemer. Diemer won easily, but his opponents captured six election districts.

Among the Democrats, who elected all of their organization candidates, things are quiet, with the exception of the Second Assembly District, where ex-Alderman George A. Colgan, who was defeated by Warden John J. Bridges, threatens to have the votes recounted.

County Leader John H. McCooey was especially pleased with the result in his own district. He easily defeated John F. Dwyer for district leader. He refused to comment on individual cases.

CHANLER IS SUED FOR BRIDAL CLOTHES

Other Actions Expected to Follow, One Calling for a Receivership for Him.

CREDITORS CROPPING UP

Mme. Cavalieri's Ante-Nuptial Agreement Said to Call for $20,000 a Year and Valuable Realty.

The financial difficulties with which Robert Winthrop Chanler has been threatened ever since he returned to this country after his brief sojourn in Europe as the husband of Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the singer, got as far as a court proceeding yesterday, when suit was started against him to recover the value of one evening suit and twelve white waistcoats said to have been a portion of his wedding finery. Before the day closed receivership proceedings were threatened against him.

The clothes were made for Chanler by William Barnes, a Fifth Avenue tailor, between last November and April. They were valued at $987. Shortly after the clothes were made Chanler left for Europe with Mme. Cavalieri without paying for them. The tailor turned the account over to a collector named Fullencamp, and the latter's lawyer, Mathias Radin of 309 Broadway, after various interviews with Chanler's lawyer, began the action aiming at a judgment creditor's action in the Supreme Court.

The action on the tailor's bill was the only one which was actually brought against Chanler yesterday. But it came out that Chanler also has other creditors who are preparing to attach his already much-entangled property.

According to a statement made yesterday by a member of Mr. Radin's own legal firm creditors to whom Chanler is in debt $35,000, who belong in the neighborhood of his home in Dutchess County, have placed their claims in the hands of a Poughkeepsie lawyer. The name of the man who made this statement is Irving Minsky.

"During an interview with Sidney Harris, Mr. Chanler's lawyer, at 6 Wall Street, last Monday," said Minsky, "he told me that Radin and I should file our claim against Chanler with Edward E. Perkins of Poughkeepsie. Mr. Harris told me that Perkins already represented $35,000 in claims against Chanler's income."

Mr. Harris himself, Mr. Chanler's counsel, was not in his office all day yesterday. Rumor had it that he and his client had gone away to some secluded spot to discuss ways and means of straightening out Chanler's tangled finances.

Mr. Radin, representing the first suit filed against Chanler in the present tangle, gave this explanation of his efforts to get Chanler to pay the debt without legal recourse:

"Our action against Mr. Chanler is founded on a bill for clothes sold to him between Nov. 15, 1909, and April 1, 1910, amounting, with the accrued interest, to $987.

"The summons and complaint having been verified as soon as Mr. Chanler arrived in this city, I gave the papers to my clerk, who tried to serve Mr. Chanler several times without success. I then asked Sidney Harris, Chanler's lawyer, to get in touch with his client. Harris answered unsatisfactorily, and I made up my mind Mr. Chanler was evading service.

"To-day I prepared an affidavit setting forth these facts, and on the strength of it Judge Delehanty in City Court signed an order permitting me to serve Chanler by substituted service. Chanler will have to make an answer within six days, and I will have a receiver appointed to take care of his property. In this way the rightful creditors will take possession of his property.

"Mme. Cavalieri, I believe, has no title to any personal property he may have given her or signed away to her. I expect to begin a judgment creditor's action in the Supreme Court to set aside all his conveyances to her."

Mr. Radin declared emphatically that he didn't believe the much talked of "ante-nuptial agreement" which Chanler is said to have signed in Mme. Cavalieri's favor before marrying her would stand in law.

"We will quickly brush aside any claims Mme. Cavalieri may think she has on Chanler's property," said the lawyer.

Oreste Cavalieri, Mme. Cavalieri's brother, who came here from Europe last week, kept carefully out of the way yesterday. At the Hotel Savoy, where he has been staying, it was said that he had given up his room.

According to a friend of the Cavalieris, however, the much-talked-of ante-nuptial agreement which Chanler signed in Mme. Cavalieri's favor stipulates that he shall pay the signer $20,000 a year out of his income. It transfers to her in fee simple Chanler's Red Hook farm, in Dutchess County, consisting of 300 acres, on which are two dwelling houses, on which a mortgage of $6,000 is carried.

Property in the neighborhood of Fifty-seventh Street and Ninth Avenue, consisting of dwelling houses estimated to be worth $325,000, but on which there is a mortgage of $150,000, is to go to Cavalieri at Chanler's death. On his death property which has been tied up in a trust fund for the first Mrs. Chanler and her two children is to go to them.

When this description of the "ante-nuptial agreement" was submitted to William Russell Osborn of 165 Broadway, Mme. Cavalieri's lawyer, yesterday by a TIMES reporter, he said that beyond admitting that an agreement existed he would not commit himself as to the nature of its terms.

CANDIDATES SPENT LITTLE.

California Gubernatorial Aspirants File Statements After Primaries.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14.—The following statements of expenditures by the Gubernatorial candidates in the recent primary election were filed in the office of the Secretary of State yesterday:

C. F. Curry, $1,680; Nathaniel Ellery, $2,142.90; S. Meads, $54.50; Alden Anderson, $1,950.60; Hiram Johnson, Insurgent Republican, (nominee,) $1,292.35; Theodore A. Toll, Democrat, (nominee,) $350, and J. Stitt Wilson, $50.

BENNETT FOR CONGRESS.

Victory in Primaries Seems to Put Him Ahead of Olcott.

The victory of Assemblyman William M. Bennett in his primary contest yesterday to retain the Republican leadership of the Fifteenth Assembly District has made it doubtful whether Representative J. Van Vechten Olcott will get the renomination for Congress. Mr. Bennett is after it himself.

There are 161 delegates in the convention, which is to nominate a successor to Mr. Olcott, and the victory of Mr. Bennett at the primaries should give him the sixty-nine delegates from the Fifteenth Assembly District. He will need only twelve more to control the Congressional Convention.

The other districts in the Fifteenth Congressional District are the Seventeenth, which is pledged to Mr. Olcott, part of the Thirteenth, and Eleventh, with delegates pledged for Mr. Olcott, and part of the Twenty-ninth and Twenty-seventh Assembly Districts.

The portion of the Twenty-ninth falling within the Fifteenth Congressional District will contribute about nineteen delegates to the Congressional Convention. Mr. Bennett said yesterday that he fully expected to gain sufficient support among them to control the convention and obtain the nomination.

The Bennett victory also will bring about a vacancy in the State Committee, Harry W. Mack, who represents the district on the State Committee, having been aligned with the losing faction in the primary fight.

COL. BELL REPEATED.

Voted the Wrong Ticket and Then Nullified It with the Right One.

Friends of Col. James D. Bell, Assistant Corporation Counsel, in charge of the Brooklyn office, were chuckling yesterday at a story which is going the rounds in the Eighteenth Assembly District to the effect that "Col. Jim," played the part of a repeater in the primaries on Tuesday night.

Col. Bell is President of the Flatbush Democratic Club, Chairman of the County Committee, and a warm personal friend and adherent of John H. McCooey, who succeeded Senator McCarren as leader in Brooklyn. Therefore the doughty Colonel considered it a bounden duty to visit the polling booth of the Twenty-seventh Election District of the Eighteenth Assembly District on Tuesday night to register his vote for the retention of McCooey as district leader in preference to John F. Dwyer, who was opposing him.

Receiving two ballots from the clerk, Col. Bell walked into the booth, returned in a few seconds, and deposited his ballot in the box. Then, out of curiosity, he opened the other ballot to see who the candidates were. A look of surprise crept over his face, then a puzzled expression. Finally he blurted out that he had voted the wrong ticket.

The Election Inspectors were in a quandary. The primary law specifically states that a citizen may cast but one ballot. However, Col. Bell, being a public official and a known supporter of McCooey, it was decided to allow him to nullify the Dwyer ballot by casting the other for McCooey. So his vote did not count either way.

Day and Carroll for Assembly.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 14.—In the First Assembly District Democratic Convention to-day former Assemblyman L. W. Day was nominated for member of Assembly, and in the Second District Edward W. Carroll of this city was named. County Judge E. C. Emerson, renominated by the Republicans, received the Democratic indorsement for County Judge.

12000 Letters from Practicing Physicians Indorse Sanatogen
THE FOOD-TONIC

Prof. Dr. R. von Krafft-Ebing (late,) Vienna:
"It gives me pleasure to report that Sanatogen continues to give great satisfaction."

Prof. Dr. C. A. Ewald, of Berlin University:
"I am able to speak from my own observations made at the bedside of patients and I can say that I have used Sanatogen in a great number of cases (that is, in those of disturbances of metabolism of a chronic nature, mainly of a nervous or neurasthenic origin), and have obtained excellent results."

King Edward's Physician Dr. Ernest Ott, Marienbad:
"I have been using Sanatogen for a number of years in my practice with excellent results. These results have been notably good in the case of elderly people when it was desirable to build up the strength, to stimulate the bodily functions, and to improve the circulation of the blood."

His Excellency, Prof. Dr. von Leyden, Berlin, Privy-Medical-Councillor, writes:
"I have gladly and frequently prescribed Sanatogen in cases of delicate patients, in my clinical as well as in my private practice, and am extremely satisfied with the results."

The World's greatest medical authorities have written in terms of highest praise their acknowledgment of the remarkable reconstructive powers of Sanatogen.

Such praise becomes doubly significant in view of the well-known reluctance of every physician to endorse any preparation until its efficiency has been established beyond all question.

Physicians know the value of Albumen as a tissue food; they know that Sodium Glycerophosphate is the most valuable nerve reconstructive. These two essentials to perfect health are scientifically combined in Sanatogen to make it the very life substance to the worn in mind and body. Sanatogen is a preparation of tried and known merit and is daily helping thousands toward perfect nerve health. Ask your physician about it.

sen went to Rothbarth's office on Tuesday and asked for an explanation.

He Confessed All.

Rothbarth admitted that the statements did not agree, and he begged for time in which to straighten matters out. When this was refused he practically admitted that the statements were false, and President Nash consulted District Attorney Whitman. Two county detectives were sent to watch Rothbarth all Tuesday night at his rooms at the Sherman Square Hotel. Yesterday morning he was taken to Assistant District Attorney Manley's office, where he made a full confession.

Mr. Manly took all his office books and accounts and these bore out his confession. In order to get a case of an actual loan on an original and not a renewed note the Mercantile National Bank officials picked out one of $10,040, made in September, 1908. A complaint was drawn up, charging grand larceny in the first degree, and Rothbarth was taken before Magistrate Herbert in the Tombs Court in the afternoon. Emil Klein, cashier of the Mercantile National Bank, appeared as complainant. Rothbarth pleaded guilty and waived examination, and the Magistrate held him for the Grand Jury. District Attorney Whitman was in court and asked that bail be fixed at $20,000. He said that the amounts involved footed up to more than $100,000, and the Magistrate was amazed at the low bail demanded.

"If you had not asked for this amount I would have made it much larger," said the Magistrate.

Rothbarth took the proceedings coolly. He is a short, stocky man, with a fringe of iron-gray hair around an otherwise bald head.

"I am glad it is all over," he told Mr. Manley. "I have not slept for weeks, and now I am ready to take my punishment. It can't come too quickly or too severely to suit me. I hope the Judge will give me the limit. Thank heaven I am a bachelor, so a wife and children cannot suffer. I am afraid this is going to ruin my brothers as well as myself. I hope I will be completely forgotten henceforth."

The officials of the National Park Bank were congratulating themselves after it was over because of their escape. On Aug. 11, according to the District Attorney, Rothbarth paid the bank back $30,000, and $100,000 on Aug. 25. This left a small amount coming to him.

The Liberty National Bank will be the heaviest loser, but President Frederick B. Schenck said he felt sure he would be able to recover the $70,000 owing to it through the prisoner's brothers, who, he said, were reputable and responsible business men.

Expect to Recover Loans.

"We have been doing business with the firm of Martin Rothbarth & Co. for several years," said President Schenck. "The firm does a large business abroad. The loans given to Adolph Rothbarth in behalf of his firm cover a period of about three years. During that time they were of various amounts, and on last January they were all paid up.

"Later Rothbarth began to renew his borrowing, and on a statement made by him on Aug. 31, which made it appear that the firm's credit aggregated $1,200,000, the loans were made. This statement was signed by Adolph Rothbarth, representing his firm. Naturally we considered the firm sufficiently responsible to give it the desired loans, which amounted to about $75,000.

"Sometime later, when Rothbarth obtained loans from another bank, we learned that his statement to us was fradulent. We have not taken steps to prosecute him because we don't think it is necessary, in view of the action already taken by the Mercantile National Bank. We will of course endeavor to recover the amount of these loans from the firm.

The firm was established many years ago, and its business, which was in supplying hops and brewery supplies to brewery concerns, was considered very prosperous. Of course we had no idea that Rothbarth was using the money for speculating."

President Schenck was formerly President of the Mercantile National Bank. At the time F. Augustus Heinze obtained control of the latter concern Mr. Schenck resigned and was at once elected President of the Liberty National.

Mr. Boyesen was sure that Rothbarth did not owe the Mercantile National more than $34,000. Originally it was more, he said, but they had realized on some collateral put up by Rothbarth, and this brought their net deficit down to between $32,000 and $34,000. The hop merchant had also a $12,000 balance in the bank when arrested, Mr. Boyesen asserted.

Thought Loans Were Safe.

"The Mercantile National Bank officials knew Rothbarth's firm to be an old established one doing a large business abroad and with good ratings," said Mr. Boyesen, "and nothing was thought about granting the loans, particularly when he had had a previous account with the bank and maintained a good-sized balance in all the banks he dealt with.

"We are sure the firm will make good our loss, but it is our duty to punish Rothbarth as a persistent offender against society. He lost heavily in the panic of 1907 when he was playing the market very strong, we learned lately. I don't know how much he lost but it was considerable. He speculated entirely on margins, I understand.

"He had a good scheme, but like all criminals he overlooked an important defect in it. He forgot to keep a copy of his false statements for his own reference so that he could make them tally with each other. When we confronted him in his office yesterday and accused him of fraud, he said he might have been careless, but after a time he admitted falsifying his records not only to deceive the banks but his own brothers."

Mr. Boyesen said Rothbarth's brothers had not yet been told of his plight. Assistant District Attorney Manley said no other bank or institution except the one mentioned were concerned in Rothbarth's operations.

AMERICAN AVIATORS SCORED AT BOSTON

Manager of Meet Says They Were Poor Sportsmen Compared with Grahame-White.

THREAT TO PUNISH CURTISS

Committee Thought of Withholding $10,000 Guarantee, but It Probably Will Be Paid—Curtiss Explains.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Manager Adams D. Claflin of the Harvard-Boston Aero Meet to-day gave an interview to the press in which he criticised the American aviators who entered in the meet. In this he intimated that Glenn H. Curtiss was in danger of losing his $10,000 guarantee for not fulfilling the conditions of his contract. After conferring with other meet officials, Mr. Claflin is said to have come to the conclusion that his criticism was too severe. It was stated to-night that Mr. Curtiss as well as all of the other aviators would be paid in full.

In the interview Mr. Claflin said:

"The American aviators who participated in the meet have not shown true sportsmanship, and while our English friend was capturing the prizes and entertaining the crowds, they were sitting in their hangars and taking life easy, with the result that they have hardly fulfilled their contracts and have discredited themselves with aviators throughout Europe.

"Claude Grahame-White, the English aviator, has been the savior of the meet, and if it had not been for his willing and active work before the large audiences the meet would have fallen far below par. The committee cannot give him too much credit for the work he has done to entertain the crowds, and much of this work was merely short flights which counted him absolutely nothing in points.

"In contrast, take the attitude the American aviators showed during the opening days of the meet. They remained in their hangars and showed little or no signs of activity.

Englishman Out in Drizzle.

"The best example of the contrast between Grahame-White's willingness and the Americans' sulkiness is the work done on Labor Day. I rode out to the field in the same automobile with Grahame-White, and when we arrived at the field shortly after noon there was a disagreeable drizzle. Grahame-White looked over the stands and saw that several thousand people had already gathered, and that many had been waiting for some time, braving the bad weather. He promptly ordered his machine on the field and started several short flights merely to please the crowds.

"Meanwhile the Americans were inside their tents, dry and inactive. This has been the story day after day. Grahame-White's manner has been perfect throughout the meet, but I am sorry that I cannot say the same for the Americans.

"I realize that the Wrights did splendid work in the closing days from a scientific standpoint. They demonstrated that they have developed a reliable and what might be termed a bad-weather flying machine. In fact, I believe that their machine would fly under poor weather conditions when no other machine in the world would stay in the air.

"As for Curtiss, he certainly had bad luck, as is well known. He was unfortunate in his equipment and came unprepared for speeds such as the Blériot is capable of; in fact, he was caught napping by Grahame-White, and has spent most of his time since trying to make over a machine which was capable of trimming the Englishman."

Curtiss Explains His Inaction.

A few minutes later Mr. Curtiss heard of Mr. Claflin's criticisms, and immediately looked him up. When they met they spent nearly an hour arguing the matter. Secretary Merritt intervened as a peacemaker. Presently Mr. Curtiss withdrew to his hangar, where he said:

"I suppose Mr. Claflin has a right to whatever views he may hold. Personally I don't mind confessing that I am not a little chagrined over the results, but it could not be very well helped, so far as I am concerned, anyway. The terms of my contract expressly stated that I was to make flights subject to my judgment, which I did. There was one day when I did not consider that the weather conditions were favorable for a high-powered, speedy biplane.

"On several other days I spent so much time trying to adjust my engine in an attempt to do something for 'Old Glory' against the Englishman's time, that I was unable to figure in the official events. It was a mere case of misfortune, not neglect on my part. Willard came here with one of my machines for general work and I brought a speed machine. When I arrived I found that my engine was not powerful enough to cope with the speedy monoplane of the Englishman, and in my earnest attempt to better my own machine and get a speedier engine installed I was forced to give up some of my daily work.

"I do not see how I can be blamed justly for that. I did my level best to make a showing and devoted a lot of time in a vain effort to get the required amount of speed."

Grahame-White in his Blériot monoplane will be matched to-morrow afternoon against Curtiss in his racing biplane for a prize of $3,000. The prize is offered by a member of the Harvard Aero Club. Efforts are being made to increase the sum to $5,000.

The race, as arranged, will take place at the Squantum Field, over the mile and three-quarter course, and will be run against time for three laps, the money to go to the aviator making the best time. These are the terms agreed on by the contestants, but an attempt will be made to start both across the line at the same time.

The race acquired added interest this afternoon by the exhibition of speed made by Glenn H. Curtiss in his racer, when he chased after Grahame-White, gradually overhauling the fast French machine, and actually forcing Grahame-White to strike off from the course at a tangent to avoid being passed and outdistanced.

Ralph Johnstone and Walter Brookins, the Wright team, smarting under remarks made by Manager Claflin, did some daring feats. Most of the known evolutions, with a few others, were tried out by them.

Johnstone indulged in steep volplanes, shutting his engine almost completely off and floating lazily for a moment on an even keel, then suddenly shooting down through space until he almost touched the grass blades on the ground. Then would follow a series of Dutch rolls as he swooped up and down close to earth.

Brookins performed the most daring feat of the afternoon in making his famous short turns, standing his biplane almost on end as he made a complete circle in scarcely more than six seconds. His machine reached an angle of more than 85 degrees at times.

Wilbur Wright was finally obliged to call Walter Brookins to come down, and when he alighted Mr. Wright lectured both for recklessness.

"You know you have been campaigning in those machines," he said. "When you are barked at that sharp angle the machines were put to a strain that they are just barely able to stand. It's one thing to do stunts and another to risk your lives. Your lives are too valuable to me, to yourselves, to be wasted on any one."

Glenn H. Curtiss, with a high-power motor on his Albany flier, and Charles F. Willard on another Curtiss machine, completed several circuits of the course in a speed race, and Curtiss, who won, made the best time he has shown at this meet, covering five and a quarter miles in 6:19 3-5.

AERO MEET NEAR CAPITAL.

Plans Made for Washington-Baltimore Flights Except Selection of Site

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—A. L. Sinclair, Chairman of the Aviation Committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, received a telegram to-day from Col. Jerome H. Joice of the Aero Club of Baltimore to the effect that he has arranged for an aero meet between Washington and Baltimore, to take place on some appropriate site during the week of Oct. 31.

The message states that all arrangements have been completed except the selection of the site, and that Glenn Curtiss will be in Baltimore on Sunday to aid the committee from the two cities in choosing one.

It is also stated that as soon as J. S. Berger, the New York aviation meet promoter, reaches this city the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will meet to discuss the proposed aero carnival. Mr. Berger is expected to report to the committee what the leading aviators now at the Harvard-Boston meet will do for the Washington-Baltimore exhibition.

HAMILTON PLANS BIG FLIGHT.

Wants to Fly from Sacramento to San Francisco and Back, 180 Miles.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 14.—Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, has so far recovered from the injuries he received in his fall last week that he is planning a flight from Sacramento to this city and back, a total distance of 180 miles.

It will be several days before he will make the attempt.

MITCHEL'S NAME USED.

Tammany Puts It on a Primary Ballot Without His Consent.

There was a good deal of excitement in certain quarters yesterday when it was learned that Acting Mayor Mitchel's name appeared on the primary ballot in the Twenty-third Assembly District as a member of the General Gommittee of the local Tammany organization, of which ex-Deputy Police Commissioner McAvoy is the head. When asked about the matter Mr. Mitchel said:

"I know nothing whatever about it. If my name was placed on the ballot, it was without my knowledge or consent. I used to live in the district and for some time was a member of the regular Democratic organization. I have not lived in the district for a year and a half, however, and don't know what this can mean."

At Mr. McAvoy's clubhouse last night it was said that Mr. Mitchel has been a member of the organization for some time and that his name has been retained on the General Committee despite the fact of his moving out of the district.

The principal reason for the widespread interest in the case was the frequent speculation as to what Mr. Mitchel's attitude will be toward Tammany Hall if Mayor Gaynor is elected Governor and Mitchel is left to serve out the term at City Hall. While elected on the Republican-Fusion ticket last Fall Mr. Mitchel is a Democrat and it was principally his influence that caused the nomination on the ticket of Democratic Borough Presidents.

He, personally, has no reason, however, to feel friendly toward Tammany. He is the son of a man ousted from public office by the organization and the nephew of Henry D. Purroy, whose fight against Tammany after being a power in its leadership is local political history.

It is generally believed that no understanding exists between Mr. Mitchel and Tammany at the present time, and that the Acting Mayor would repulse emphatically any open overtures toward this end.

There is a distinct understanding in the city government and among Mr. Mitchel's friends that he is firmly convinced that the best course for him to follow if the reins of the administration fall to him would be to continue in the footsteps and along the course laid out by Mayor Gaynor as closely as he is able.

ROOSEVELT IN PLATFORM.

Gov. Hadley Insists That He Be Named by Missouri Republicans.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 14.—The platforms of the Democratic and Republican Parties in Missouri were completed to-day by the parties' leaders, who have been in conference for two days.

The Republican conference, after a bitter contest, adopted a platform that has a leaning toward progressive ideas. The fight was over the indorsement of the Payne tariff law and the mention in the platform of former President Roosevelt. Gov. Hadley, who is known as a progressive, insisted that the former President be mentioned as the man who established the policy of conservation. In return for this the names of Representative Payne and Senator Aldrich were written into the tariff plank.

The Administration of President Taft is indorsed generally, and Roosevelt and Taft are praised for their activity regarding the conservation of natural resources. Home rule for cities, a utility commission, an employer's liability law, a new State capitol, and the amendment for the support of the State university are urged. Gov. Hadley and his administration are indorsed.

In the Democratic platform Joseph W. Folk, former Governor, is indorsed for President in 1912. The platform denounces the Payne-Aldrich Tariff law, and declares for a tariff for revenue only. Criminal prosecution of trusts is urged. Speaker Cannon is censured and Col. Roosevelt and President Taft are denounced.

TRANSIT INCREASE 50,000,000 A YEAR

The Several Systems in the City Must Provide for This Vast Growth.

SOME COMPARATIVE FIGURES

Surface Lines at a Traffic Standstill, Increase Falling to the Subway and Elevated.

Officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company recently prepared a table comparing the number of passengers carried by the Subway in Manhattan and the Bronx in the last six years with the number of passengers carried by the elevated lines of Manhattan and the Bronx in the same period.

The table which follows is suggestive in many ways, according to the officers of the Interborough:

PASSENGERS CARRIED.

Year.	Subway.	Elevated.
1906	137,919,632	257,790,754
1907	196,363,611	282,924,273
1908	200,439,776	282,845,864
1909	238,490,146	276,250,196
1910	268,962,115	293,826,280

"The most obvious thing shown by the figures is that the Interborough's combined Subway and elevated lines carried nearly 300,000,000 more passengers from July, 1909, to July, 1910, than it carried in the elevated alone from July, 1903, to July, 1904, before the Subway was opened," said an official of the company yesterday.

"From July, 1903, to July, 1904, the year before the Subway was opened, the elevated lines of this city carried 286,634,000 passengers, while last year the Subway and elevated lines together carried 562,788,385 passengers, an increase of 276,154,385.

"These extra 276,000,000 passengers carried by the combined Subway and elevated lines have not been taken away from the trolley lines. For the latter are doing practically the same volume of business as they were six years ago.

"Neither is the increase due to the increase in the city's population. The increase of population for the last six years has not been great enough to account for so great a passenger increase.

"As a matter of fact, every person in the city evidently rides in cars more than he did six years ago. He takes on an average of sixty more rides a year, according to our figuring. He has got into the habit of going shopping or going to the theatre more frequently.

"The table also shows the different ways in which the Subway and elevated have developed in popularity in the last six years. Every year since 1906 the Subway has carried about 30,000,000 more passengers than the year previous. Since the Subway started the elevated's traffic has bobbed up and down.

"During the first year in which the Subway was in operation the elevated dropped in popularity. During 1904-5 it carried 339,104,000 passengers, while in 1905-6 it carried only 257,796,754 passengers. It increased normally the following year. But in 1907-8 the financial panic came. People went less to the shops and to the theatres. The number of passengers the elevated carried, consequently, remained stationary. In 1908-9, when the financial depression lingered and when people began to make even the smallest economies, the number of passengers carried by the elevated actually fell away 6,000,000. In 1909-10, when the depression had finally cleared, the traffic of the elevated jumped ahead again by 15,000,000.

"The Subway all this time had not been affected at all by the business depression. This was because it had opened up virgin passenger territory in Washington Heights and the Bronx. Its passengers were mostly business people who couldn't get up and down in any other way.

"Another thing the comparative table shows is that the Subway is not more popular than the elevated. The first year the Subway opened every one seemed to prefer it to the elevated because it was a novelty. But as soon as the novelty wore out a normal proportion of travel went back to the elevated and has been going there ever since. Most people, in fact, feel about the Subway and elevated very much as I do when I start for business each morning. I live in West Eighty-third Street. At first I used to walk over to the Eighty-sixth Street Subway Station. But I found I always had to stand; so I formed the habit of going over to the West Eighty-first Street Elevated Station.

"The most interesting thing of all about the table of figures, however, is that it shows the number of passengers carried on all the transit lines—Subway, surface, and elevated—is increasing at the rate of 50,000,000 every year. What the city is going to do to take care of this big increase is a serious question. The city is growing fast. Six years ago the Interborough carried 286,634,000 passengers. Last year it carried 562,788,395.

"The growth of travel development, too, is divided evenly over the whole city. Every Subway station last year showed an increase in business. To take care of this increase of travel the city may adopt the plans of the Rapid Transit Commission and build new subways. Perhaps it will let the Interborough 'three-track' our elevated lines and extend up through the Bronx. The latter improvements could be made in eighteen months and would increase the annual travel on the elevated lines from 300,000,000 to 450,000,000 passengers a year."

Even now the combined passenger traffic of all New York's transit lines—surface, subway, and elevated—is more than 1,000,000,000 passengers annually. The surface lines, it is true, seem to be standing still in the matter of passenger increases. In 1905 all the cars of Manhattan and the Bronx carried 420,000,000 passengers. They carried only 405,000,000 in 1909. The traffic on the subways and elevated systems is increasing, however, so rapidly that every man, woman, and child in New York City takes either the Subway or the elevated on an average of 118 times a year.

The Subway and elevated carry people out to homes further and further away from the city's centre, deposit them there to start homes, and then take them in and out every day to business, making for the lines a permanently increased travel.

Times have certainly changed since October, 1872, when the New York Elevated Railroad Company announced its first time table. Its four cars then carried passengers from Morris to Twenty-ninth Street, where the end of the line was. It only carried 1,300 passengers a day.

CASPAR WHITNEY BANKRUPT.

Magazine Writer in Financial Trouble with $36,157 Liabilities.

Caspar Whitney, a magazine writer, and former editor of a sporting magazine, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday through his attorney, Hugh M. Hewson, in the office of Alexander, Watriss & Polk.

Whitney confessed liabilities of $36,157, and alleged that he had assets of $75. He gave his address as 10 Gramercy Place, and his occupation as author.

Among Whitney's liabilities is a loan of $29,500 from Robert Bacon, American Ambassador to France.

"That money went into Mr. Whitney's magazine enterprise," said Mr. Hewson. "Mr. Whitney did not get it. I don't think Mr. Bacon is anxious about getting this money back, and it needn't have been included in the bankruptcy schedule."

The schedule of liabilities shows that Whitney pawned his life insurance policy payable to Cora Chase Whitney, his wife, with the company which issued it for $2,197. He also raised $5,000 on a note to the Binghamton Trust Company, on which he now owes $4,380.

Mrs. Clarke to Wed Col. Harrison.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—It is announced that early in December Mrs. Sumner Clarke of Peoria, Ill., will marry Col. J. J. Harrison, the explorer and discoverer of pygmies in the Congo.

BOSTON CLAIMS 1,439,183.

Contended That Inclusion of Suburbs in Census Makes It Fourth City.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—The recent announcement of the population of Boston, disclosing the fact that Boston is still ranked below St. Louis as the fifth city in the country, has revived the discussion of the advisability of making a "Greater Boston" by annexing adjoining cities and towns. It is pointed out by advocates of such an enlargement that Boston is the only large city in the country whose immediate suburbs are not so incorporated with the city as to be included in the population figures.

The total population of the thirteen cities and twenty-seven towns, including Boston, comprising the Metropolitan District, which are now combining in various departments of the Metropolitan Administration, was 1,168,788 in 1900, and 1,269,682, according to the State census, in 1905. With the figures for Boston proper known, an estimate made to-day places the 1910 population of "Greater Boston" at 1,439,183, which would make Boston the fourth city in the country.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The population of Atlantic City, N. J., is 44,461, an increase of 16,623, or 59.7 per cent., as compared with 27,838 in 1900.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The reason why the new census did not give Middletown a larger gain in population than 791 in the past ten years was discovered to-day. It appears that the census of 1900 included the inmates of the State Hospital for the Insane in the city's population, but in the latest census these inmates are excluded. As they number 1,800, their inclusion makes the increase really 2,681, instead of 791, and gives Middletown a population of 17,199.

ALARM OUT FOR MAN OF 81.

Police Asked to Find William Marquardt, Missing a Week.

The Rev. Adam Chambers, pastor of the Harlem Baptist Church, 219 East 123d Street, asked the police to send out a general alarm yesterday for William Marquardt, 81 years old, the father-in-law of Henry Burchers, sexton of the church, who has been missing from his home, 221 East 123d Street, since last Thursday morning. At that time he told his daughter he was going down Third Avenue to spend $10 which she had just given him as pin money.

When he failed to return, his son-in-law and his daughter had all the hospitals and homes for the aged searched, but could find no record of him. They think that he may have fallen and been injured, later concealing his name at the hospital, as he did once before, in order that his relatives should not learn of his mishap.

The old man has been in New York since 1884, when he organized a German kindergarten at Ninth Street and Avenue B. He is a veteran of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870. By trade he is a carpenter, but retired several years ago. He is described as 6 feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, and wearing a gray beard, gray suit of clothes, black shoes, and brown soft hat.

TELEPHONE GIRL A SUICIDE.

Leaves a Caller to Go Into Her Bedroom and Take Carbolic Acid.

In the presence of a youth with whom she was in love, Clarice Brayshaw, 21 years old, telephone operator in a store at Broadway and Forty-first Street, swallowed some carbolic acid in her apartment at 18 West 100th Street yesterday and died within ten minutes.

The police arrested John Spaulding of 304 Third Avenue, who sells cigars at the Engineers' Club in West Fortieth Street, but he was discharged later by Magistrate Kernochan in the West Side Court.

Coroner Wiltbottom learned from neighbors that Miss Brayshaw had had several quarrels with Spaulding, and accused him of having transferred his affections from her to some other woman.

Spaulding called on her in the morning and was talking to her when she excused herself, went into the bathroom, and slammed the door. She entered her bedroom a moment later and exclaimed: "I have taken the stuff."

Spaulding said he knew what "the stuff" meant, for she had threatened several times to kill herself and had scratched the label off a bottle that contained carbolic acid, so as to deceive him as to its contents. Two surgeons tried vainly to save the girl's life. The body was taken to the Morgue.

MUCH COTTON GROWN IN ASIA

Our Consuls Report on Production in Turkey and British India.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Cotton is becoming an important industrial factor in many Asiatic countries, and its production abroad is declared by American consular officials to be steadily on the increase.

One hundred thousand bales of cotton will be produced at Adana, Turkey, during the present year, Consul Nathan reports. He points out that at least 8,000 bales of long fibre cotton will be produced as a result of the planting of American seed. This year's crop in that part of Turkey will exceed by 40,000 bales the production last year.

Consul Haldeman of Bombay has submitted a statistical report, showing that British India produced 3,120,111 bales of cotton in 1910 up to July 11, an increase of more than 1,000,000 bales as compared with the preceding year. Other consular officials have filed reports indicating that cotton is being raised in large quantities in some of the countries bordering the Mediterranean Sea.

STANDARD ASKS REPARATION.

Oil Company Files Claim Before Commerce Commission for Overcharges.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—A claim for reparation to-day was instituted by the Standard Oil Company before the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Chicago Terminal Transfer Company, the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad Company, and other carriers.

It is alleged that the Standard was overcharged by the carriers on shipments of refined oil from Whiting, Ind., to Bear Springs, Tenn., through the filing by the carriers with the commission of faulty tariffs.

CAN'T FIND GARRISON TO PUT HIM IN JAIL

Failure to Appear for Examination in Supplementary Proceedings Puts Him in Contempt.

VAIN SEARCH FOR HIM

He's Wanted on a $7,569 Judgment for Gowns Sold to His Wife, Who Was Miss Coudert.

It is expected that Supreme Court Justice Whitney will decide to-day on the application to have William R. Garrison, a member of several clubs of this city, committed to Ludlow Street Jail for refusing to obey an order of the court calling on him to submit to an examination in supplementary proceedings. Since June 1 an active but unavailing search has been made for him in this city and vicinity by those interested in the case.

Garrison's name does not appear in the new city directory, and according to the social register he is "absent." In "Who's Who in New York" he is down as the President and Director in seven corporations, including several mining concerns, all of which have gone out of existence. It was said at the Union League that he was not a member there, and at the Calumet, Racquet, and Tennis Clubs no one could be found who had seen him there in the last year.

Garrison confessed judgment in May, 1908, in an action brought by Miss Mollie O. Seaton, a modiste of this city, to collect $7,569 for gowns furnished to Mrs. Garrison, who was formerly Miss Constance Coudert. The judgment was not paid. On May 3 last he was ordered by Justice Whitney to appear in supplementary proceedings. An adjournment was obtained through an attorney at that time on the understanding that Garrison would attend a hearing on June 1. He did not make an appearance on that date, and ever since Emile Schultze, Miss Seaton's attorney, has had a corps of assistants looking for him.

As he is now under civil contempt, the court can inflict a fine of $250, and if this is not paid within a certain period he can be sent to Ludlow Street Jail, if found.

Much interest is attached to the case on account of the former prominence of Garrison and of the social position of his family. He is the grandson of Commodore William R. Garrison, and married a daughter of the late Frederic R. Coudert. He inherited a fortune from his grandfather, belonged to many clubs, and became a well-known figure in Wall Street.

The last of his ventures seems to have been the Java Trading Company, defunct now several years, and there are other various judgments unsatisfied against him. The business of the Java Company was of a general exporting character, and it was understood to have important connections in Spain and the Latin-American countries.

Two years ago a verdict of $75,000 was returned against Garrison and his partner, C. Edwin Hunt, Jr., in a suit instituted by H. B. Hollins & Co. Special interest was shown in the financial district then in the Java Trading Company, which operated to the discomfort of the Wall Street banking firm.

Mrs. Garrison is said to be living at present in Paris. Several years ago, when her husband became involved in law suits, she startled her friends by declaring that she was planning to take a place as a saleswoman in a modiste's shop in Madison Avenue. She did not carry out her intentions, however, and was next heard of as living in Paris.

WESTERN ROADS KEPT CLASS RATES DOWN

Unlike Those in the East, They Chose Commodity Rates to Bear Burden of Increase.

WABASH MAN A WITNESS

Traffic Manager Maxwell Explains That State Commissions Prevented Advance in the Classified Lists.

More light was thrown upon the position of the railroads with respect to their freight rate increases yesterday at the hearing before the Public Service Commission in the Waldorf-Astoria by the testimony of W. C. Maxwell, Traffic Manager of the Wabash Railroad. Mr. Maxwell spoke in a sense as the representative of those railroads which have to complain of general adversity as contrasted with the roads whose evident prosperity is the most serious thing for them to explain away in connection with the rate increases. But his cross-examination by counsel for the shippers was none the less illuminating.

Mr. Brandeis inquired if the handling of traffic on the Wabash had not become very much more efficient in recent years. The witness replied with some show of satisfaction that it had been and he was immediately asked to illustrate some of the lines in which the added efficiency had been gained. The Wabash traffic man passed the question by saying that the gains in efficiency, whatever they had been, had been largely accomplished on the operating side, with which he said he was not familiar.

Mr. Brandeis next turned to the comparison of the class and the commodity rates during the twenty-eight years, more or less, in which the class rates on the Eastern roads have remained approximately as they are to-day. He undertook to show that by means of the abolition of rebates, which were accompanied by no decrease in class rates, such as was made in commodity rates; by increased efficiency, by the admitted growth of high-class traffic and the abolition of certain terminal charges which the railroad had heretofore allowed, there had been in operation influences for increased earnings on the railroads tending at the same time to place upon the high-class traffic an increasingly heavy burden of the total freight charges.

Nothing Gained by Stopping Rebates.

Mr. Brandeis got the witness to state that operating revenue on the Wabash had decreased during this quarter of a century 50 per cent. per ton mile, whereas class rates had remained unchanged; and the lawyer argued from this that the rates other than class rates must necessarily have been reduced. The witness sparred with him for a long time, but eventually made this admission; then Mr. Brandeis passed to the subject of rebates, and the effect on the revenues of their general discontinuance by the roads six to ten years ago.

He developed a rather amusing result. The witness became visibly embarrassed, and replied that he knew nothing about rebates, whereupon the fact was commented upon around the room that Mr. Maxwell was one of those indicted for rebating in connection with the Federal investigation of the relations existing between several of the trunk line railroads and the Holland-American and other steamship companies. Assistant United States Attorney Crim, who is attending the investigation, and who conducted the rebate inquiry before the Federal Grand Jury, confirmed this information.

Mr. Brandeis was not disposed at first to press his witness, but after the general denial Mr. Maxwell went on to say that in his opinion the amount of rebating which the railroads had done and the financial factors involved had been grossly exaggerated and that the gains to the railroads incident to its abolition were inconsiderable. This moved Mr. Brandeis to question him a little closer.

Q.—Do you want us to understand that you really know nothing in regard to the payment of rebates on the Wabash? A.—I answered that question.

Q.—I ask it deliberately. Do you mean to say that you had no knowledge? A.—I had nothing to do with rebates.

Q.—That was not what I asked you. I asked you if you knew anything about the payment of rebates on the Wabash? A.—I had a slight general knowledge that they possibly had a few rebate agreements hanging over when I came to the road.

Line of Inquiry Dropped.

At this point Mr. Crim stepped over to Mr. Brandeis and asked him not to pursue this line of inquiry any further for fear that the witness might admit that he had knowledge of or participated in the payment of rebates and thereby gain for himself immunity from prosecution. The Inter-State Commerce Commission being a Federal body, testimony given before it carries with it the same privileges as regards immunity, if it be not voluntary testimony, that obtains in the case of testimony given in the Federal Courts. Mr. Brandeis asked no further questions on the subject of rebates, and Mr. Maxwell accordingly did not get another chance to take an immunity bath.

Turning now to the item of shoes, which the witness had picked out particularly in his discussion of what the increased freight rates amounted to on individual articles, transported by the roads, Mr. Brandeis drew from him the admission that there was, in fact, a triple increase in rate involved in many of the shoes that are shipped West by Eastern manufacturers. It seemed that a substantial part of the hides imported are shipped to the Middle West to be tanned; that the leather so produced is shipped back to the East to be manufactured, and that many of the resultant shoes are once more shipped West for sale.

The increased freight rates apply to all three of these shipments, and Mr. Brandeis pointed out that this meant three increases to be borne in the case of shoes shipped to the West which have had this particular evolution. The witness admitted that such was the case. Mr. Brandeis turned now to the schedule of butter, eggs, and poultry, the first two of which mentioned shipped second class and the last named shipped first class. The New England lawyer sought to gain from the witness the admission that he favored reducing the rate on butter and eggs as it stands at present. This nettled Mr. Maxwell somewhat, and he declared that what he had advocated was to put butter and eggs into first class freight and then offer a substantially lower rate for carload shipments.

Eggs Make a Heavy Load.

"But I would like you to note, Mr. Brandeis," said he, "that eggs are shipped 22,000 pounds to the carload, as against 6,000 for the shipments we get from your New England shippers."

"You are trying to develop the trade from East to West, so as not to have so many empty cars westbound, are you not?" asked Mr. Brandeis, taking up the pursuit immediately. The witness replied in the affirmative.

"You are doing everything you can to encourage this west-bound trade?"

"Yes," replied the witness.

"Then do you think it will help for you to speak sneeringly of the New England shippers as you have done?"

"I did not mean to do so, and if I did so I withdraw it," the witness replied.

Elsewhere in his cross-examination the fact was brought out that local rates from St. Louis to Springfield, Ohio, and from Chicago to Springfield had been reduced on class traffic, and that other reductions in class rates had been made in the territory in which rates in general were not based on the New York-Chicago rate. The witness explained that these reductions had come for the most part as a result of the order of various State Commissions, and that the roads could not raise such rates if they wanted to.

Attorney Frank Lyon, for the Inter-State Commerce Commission, asked Mr. Maxwell why the roads in the West had in general advanced the commodity rates instead of the class rates, whereas in the East it had been the class rates which felt the burden. The witness replied that the roads could not advance the class rates in the West on account of decisions of regulating commissions, and that the commodity rates were the only thing they could take up.

The hearing will continue to-day.

FEWER B. R. T. TRANSFERS.

Passengers Won't Be Able to "Double Back" for One Fare.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Railroad Company will announce to-day radical changes in their transfer system, to take effect on Oct. 15. Briefly, the changes are to prevent passengers making return trips on a transfer. Direction slips will be given, which will enable the holder to go in one general direction, but will not permit him to double on his trail.

Brooklyn lies so big and broad and long, and trolley lines are shot across it in so many directions, that a veteran resident who knows the streets and different car lines can, under the present system of transfers, arrange to get to and from a place on one fare. The officials of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit say that it is possible to double on one's trail on 150 routes comprising loops of two, three, four, and five rides.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit exchanges transfers at some 600 line intersections, and at one-half of these reciprocal privileges have been exchanged with the lines of separately operated companies. In the future these reciprocal privileges will be limited to two rides, though on the lines of the same company a passenger will be permitted to travel as far as he likes in the same general direction.

Under the present arrangement of the transfer system the Brooklyn Rapid Transit officers say a passenger may leave Park Row on a Fulton Street car, transfer to Nostrand Avenue car, and then return to Manhattan by it. But he can't do it after Oct. 15.

SURRENDERS TO THE SHERIFF

L. A. D. Percival Gives Bond to Answer Wife's Suit—Denies Cruelty.

Lewis A. Dalrymple Percival, whom the Sheriff was seeking with an order of civil arrest, surrendered yesterday and gave $3,000 bail for his appearance in a suit brought for separation by his wife. Percival, who denied that he had been evading service, is President of the Amalgamated Paint Company.

The Percivals were married Nov. 3, 1900, and lived together until July 4 last, when, Mrs. Percival said, her husband punched her and blackened her left eye while in a motor car between Spring Lake and Belmar, N. J., and later threatened her with a revolver at Deal, N. J.

Mrs. Percival, who asks $350 monthly alimony, said Percival spent from $6,000 to $8,000 a year. She said he owned realty worth $75,000 and an interest of more than $80,000 in the paint company, from which he drew dividends and commissions besides a salary.

Percival denied his wife's allegations of cruelty and that he posed as an unmarried man in 1907 at Palm Beach and tried to persuade a young women to elope with him.

DRUGS AND DIRIGIBLES MIXED

Medicine Maker Wants Money Back He Invested with Air Navigator.

Supreme Court Justice Whitney reserved decision yesterday on the application of John A. Riggs for a receiver and accounting of his partnership with Joel P. Rice. Rice is the inventor of a dirigible balloon known as the American Eagle, and holds 55 per cent. interest in the partnership. Riggs took a 45 per cent. interest.

The balloon, Riggs said, was disabled by a storm last year at Morris Park, without demonstrating that it was a success. Rice asserted that Riggs, who is a patent medicine dealer had the name of the balloon painted out and the name of his nostrum substituted.

Riggs believes he is entitled to his money back, as two years have elapsed since the venture was initiated and nothing has been done. Rice, he said, has dismantled the balloon and has it stored in his cellar.

NEW YORK PASTOR FINED.

Court Did Not Accept Dr. Buchanan's Denial That He Overspeeded.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 14. — "I know more accurately than any one on earth that I was not exceeding the speed limit," declared the Rev. Dr. William D. Buchanan, pastor of the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, when charged in court to-day with overspeeding his automobile in this city on Sept. 2.

Judge Tuck was not inclined to accept the clergyman's denial, and found him guilty. A fine of $15 and costs was imposed. Dr. Buchanan appealed, and was held in $100 bonds.

Dr. Buchanan has a Summer residence at Narragansett Pier.

ELECTRIFY HOOSAC TUNNEL.

Mellen Plans to Spend $1,000,000 to Abolish Smoke Nuisance.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Officials of the Boston & Maine Railroad to-day confirmed a report that the electrification of the Hoosac Tunnel would be one of the first improvements of the system to be pushed by Charles S. Mellen, as Acting President of the road. Since gaining control of the Boston & Maine the officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad have paid considerable attention to the Hoosac Tunnel problem, and President Mellen decided that the abolition of the smoke nuisance in the tunnel was imperative.

Engineers have been at work on the details involved, and it is stated that nearly $1,000,000 will be spent for the change, including the cost of electric locomotives. When the changes are completed both passenger and freight trains will be taken through Hoosac Mountain by electric power from Tunnel Station on the east to North Adams, and possibly Williamstown, on the west side.

TUTTLE QUITS MAINE CENTRAL

Resigns as President and Mellen Takes His Place.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—Lucius Tuttle to-day resigned the Presidency of the Maine Central Railroad Company. Charles S. Mellen, President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and Acting President of the Boston & Maine, was elected Acting President. This move followed similar action at the Boston & Maine Railroad meeting yesterday, and was expected.

Mr. Tuttle received leave of absence until the annual meeting of the Maine Central in October, 1911. A similar vacation was allowed him by the Boston & Maine Directors, who are lessees of the Maine Central. Mr. Tuttle will continue as a member of the Maine Central Board of Directors. Both Mr. Tuttle and Mr. Mellen were present at the Directors' meeting here to-day.

Strikebreaker Held for Shooting.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 14.—John F. Brady, who was in charge of the imported street-car men in this city, and who is charged with shooting Mrs. Katherine Kelly, Miss Helen Kelly, and Mrs. Charles Hart on Aug. 12, was arraigned to-day and bound over in the sum of $500.

OLD MEMORIES ASTIR IN A SCHOOL OPENING

Pleasantville Harks Back a Century When It Was Just Plain Clark's Corners.

QUAINT DEED OF LONG AGO

It Conveyed the Land to the Public for a School on the Site Where the New One Stands.

At the opening services yesterday morning of the new public school in the village of Pleasantville, Westchester County, memories were stirred that echoed back close upon a hundred years, when what is now a pretty suburb was then plain Clark's Corners, and the street on which the new building stands was part of the old Bedford Road, the highway to Tarrytown.

Daniel P. Hays, who spoke yesterday to the first gathering in the spotless new assembly hall, is the grandson of the man who gave to the town of Mount Pleasant the land for its first public school.

Mr. Hays read aloud the quaint language of the deed, which, worn and yellowed now, will be framed and hung in the school. It bears the date Nov. 9, 1826, and part of it reads:

I, the said Benjamin E. Hays, do here grant permission unto the said trustees to erect and set a schoolhouse on the southwest corner of my meadows, it lying on the north corner of the new road; that is to say, the said house is to be a public school, for the full enjoyment and benefit of all the inhabitants of said district, without any discrimination whatsoever (underscored) and for no other use, the said house and land there, as above stated, otherwise this article is void and of no effect, and I will not remove or cause the removal of the said schoolhouse to any other part of my farm without first informing the trustees then in office, six months before the time I stand in need of it, and that notice in writing; also the request shall not be made within three years of the date of this article; if the said schoolhouse should be moved from the site as above stated, I, the said Benjamin E. Hays, will give a new grant and permission to place the said house on another part of my farm, on the roadside, which it suits me to spare; also I here grant no more land than the said schoolhouse requires to set on.

The schoolhouse was moved, and in its new location Daniel P. Hays did his first studying. Its successor was razed to make place for the new building, whose cornerstone was laid last Fall. Benjamin E. Hays, who signed the old deed, was a brother of High Constable Hays, whose portrait hangs now at Police Headquarters, and a son of the David Hays who sold cattle to Washington's army.

Mr. Hays found inspiration for his talk yesterday in the democratic spirit of the old document which he held in his hand. Black or white, rich or poor, girl or boy, they start equal, he said, the last sentiment giving much delight to some incipient suffragists in pinafores.

The new school is for all grades, and the students in the assembly room yesterday ranged from kindergarten morsels to tall and haughty youths, not yet decided between Yale or Princeton. It is a handsome building of red brick, standing at the top of the hill, which slopes down to the railroad station. It was less than a year in building and cost $50,000—an appropriation won after a fight that lasted through three special meetings. Occupied yesterday for the first time, its walls have not yet encountered the slings and arrows of outrageous boys and its desks are temptingly unwhittled.

President B. H. Carmer of the Board of Education presided at the gathering. The other members are Norris H. Moore, J. A. Canfield, Dr. Ernest N. Willcox, and H. L. Warner. Mr. Hays, who is of the law firm of Hays, Hershfield & Wolf, at 115 Broadway, has his Summer home on the farm from which the land for the first school was set aside. Part of the Philipse Manor, Tory property forfeited to the colonies, it was bought by his great-grandfather, David Hays.

40,000 TO A PRISONER'S AID.

Slavs Petition Minnesota's Governor to Get a Life-Termer Free.

Frank Podgorstek, editor of the Slav paper Gal Nashad, has obtained 40,000 signatures to a petition to the Governor of Minnesota to pardon Yohann Tanko, a Slav, serving a term of life imprisonment for murder. Mr. Podgorstek has engaged William L. Schwartz, a lawyer of 309 Broadway, to present the petition next month.

Tanko entered this country in 1903 and went immediately to Duluth. Two months later when he was in the woods cutting timber he was set upon by a gang of marauders. In the struggle his gun, which he used to kill rabbits and small game, was discharged and one of his assailants was killed.

Ignorant of the language, without an interpreter, and unaided by funds or friends, Tanko was able to get a disagreement at his first trial. At the second he was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. He was assigned to work in the carpenter shop of the prison and there lost his left hand in a defective machine which had previously injured three other prisoners.

Horse Falls In a Sewer Trench.

A horse drawing a laundry wagon owned by Thomas Hannan of 1,117 Rogers Avenue, Brooklyn, fell into a sewer excavation at Atlantic Avenue and Smith Street, that borough, yesterday, and had to be shot by agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The animal kicked and struggled after it fell into the hole and narrowly missed injuring two workmen. Traffic on the Smith Street line was tied up for some time.

BRICK TRUST INDICTED.

Four Manufacturers Charged with Combination in Restraint of Trade.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The so-called "brick trust" was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury to-day charged with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Four individuals and three companies are named as follows:

D. V. Purington, President of the Purington Paving Brick Company of Galesburg, Ill.; C. C. Barr, President of the Barr Clay Company of Reading, Ill.; H. S. Renkert, Secretary of the Metropolitan Paving Brick Company of Canton, Ohio; W. F. Brennan, Chicago, sales agent for the three companies. The companies represented by the foregoing individuals also were indicted.

Judge Landis in the United States District Court issued bench warrants against the accused. It is alleged that the defendants were engaged in a combination in restraint of trade, and that annual meetings were held at which the price of brick for Chicago was fixed. The city has bought all of its paving brick during the last five years from the alleged trust.

An unusual story lies back of the return of the indictments. Brennan, the sales agent, was prominent politically, and D. J. Christopher was an inspector employed by the city to pass on paving brick. Brennan is alleged to have taked Christopher's wife, Mrs. Aileen Christopher, into partnership in the sales agency. A year ago Inspector Christopher lost his position with the city, and somewhat later Mrs. Christopher sued Brennan for what she alleged was her share in the profits of the agency. She lost the suit, but carried the matter to the authorities. She and her husband were witnesses before the Grand Jury.

SHE AVOIDS ELEVATORS.

Little Old Woman Even Takes the Stairs to the Metropolitan Tower.

Theodore Kolber, information clerk in the offices of the Public Service Commission on the fourteenth floor of the Tribune Building, heard a rapping on the door leading from the main stairway, which is kept locked, the express elevators entering the offices proper, yesterday afternoon, and on investigating admitted a bent, little old woman, who said she wished to complain against the telephone company.

"They've strung two wires right in front of my windows," said she, "and if they don't take them down inside of twenty-four hours I will cut them down."

She added that she came from Flatbush, and had walked up the stairs from the ground floor.

Kolber informed her that such matters as that of which she complained are under the jurisdiction of the commission of the Second District, which has offices in the Metropolitan Tower. "They're on the twenty-first floor, too," he added, speculatively.

"Oh, that's all right," replied the woman, cheerfully. "I'll go slow and I guess I'll get there. I don't use elevators. I don't think they're safe." And she departed down the stairs without mentioning her name.

DRUGGISTS WILL FIGHT.

Kings County Society Thinks the New Drug Law Is Unfair.

The Kings County Pharmaceutical Society has decided to protect any of its members who may be arrested for violating a new amendment to the Sanitary Code regulating the sale of morphine and other narcotics. The Board of Health has forbidden the sale of these narcotics except on prescription, and the Society believes that the new amendment is too drastic. The officers say a test case will be made, and they are prepared to take it to the Supreme Court if necessary. They have adopted resolutions offering to pay all expenses in defending any member involved in such a test case.

The society has also arranged for providing a measure dealing with the new telephone percentage rates now in force in Manhattan in case the same rates are introduced in Brooklyn. The telephone company is installing many slot machines, which give the druggists only half of the profits they have been receiving under the old telephone agreement. The Brooklyn druggists will make a strong protest against the introduction of the proposed rate system in Brooklyn.

MAY INDICT MORE PACKERS.

Wickersham and Sims Consult Over Two Men—One a New Yorker.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Attorney General Wickersham spent some time with District Attorney Sims to-day, going over the indictments returned against the packing firms.

The matter of further indictments against two packers not yet named in court, one a Chicago and the other a New York man, is said to have been decided by the two lawyers. It was reported that the question whether the New York man should be indicted here or in New York was carefully canvassed.

Levy Mayer, one of the attorneys for the indicted men, stated to-day that the plans of the defense would be known only when the fight comes up in court. He asserted, however, that an entirely new line of attack on the Sherman law was under consideration. The Government will be represented by a strong force of lawyers, including W. S. Kenyon, O. E. Pagin, Edwin W. Sims, James H. Wilkerson, and probably one or two others.

BRING C. M. BETTS INTO GRAFT INQUIRY

He Voted for Roosevelt Against Sherman and Is the First Active Politician Accused.

HIS NAME IN LOBBY RECORDS

Ex-Senator Goodsell Asks the Committee Why Roosevelt Signed Bills He Passed If They Were Bad.

Swinging away from the names of politicians who are dead or have long since become inactive, and jumping a decade forward from the era in which Odell, Goodsell, and Berlell were the three powers in Republican legislative affairs, the legislative investigating committee which is holding sessions in the Aldermanic Chamber of the City Hall, brought in for the first time yesterday the name of a still active political leader.

Money is declared to have passed from the New York City traction interests to him in the legislative session of 1908. C. H. Betts, the accused politician, was then serving as engrossing clerk for the Revision Committee of the Assembly. In that capacity all bills came before him, often in periods of stress, when a misplaced word could hold them up indefinitely for re-engrossing, or a juggled sentence could materially alter their meaning.

Mr. Betts is now a member of the Republican State Committee from Ontario County, and he was present at the meeting on Aug. 17 when Vice President Sherman was chosen over Col. Roosevelt for Temporary Chairman of the State Convention. Betts voted for Roosevelt, declaring that the Colonel had a special mission to save the Republican Party from defeat at the next election.

The relationship of Betts to the New York traction interests was disclosed in the form of correspondence, and in the examination of William F. Cole, ex-Treasurer, and H. M. Beardsley, the present Treasurer of the Street Railway Association. The two men had been subpoenaed with instructions to bring all records in their possession, but they came empty-handed almost, explaining that the books had disappeared.

When Roosevelt Signed the Bill.

A letter book in the hands of the committee's lawyers gave them the necessary data on which to open up the subject of money considerations.

Before hearing the testimony of the traction men the committee listened for several hours to a personal explanation from ex-State Senator Goodsell of his financial account with well-known traction lobbyists. He named George Graham, now dead, as a purchaser of $28,000 worth of transportation stock from himself, Taggart, Nixon, Baxter, Bedell, Allds, and other legislators at 14 when the stock was worth in the market only 4½, the transactions going through the now defunct brokerage firm of Ellingwood & Cunningham.

Col. Roosevelt's name was brought into the testimony when the committee's counsel asked Senator Goodsell if it was not a fact that Lyman Abbott went to Albany to protest to Gov. Roosevelt against the Transportation bill, which he (the Governor) signed after Goodsell had introduced it and accelerated its course through the Legislature. Senator Goodsell did not remember that either Lyman Abbott or ex-Mayor Seth Low had protested against the bill, which was a measure to amplify the powers of the Fifth Avenue stage line. Senator Goodsell asked in his own defense why, if it was such a bad bill, Gov. Roosevelt was willing to sign it.

The Colonel May Be Called.

There was some suggestion in the committee that it may possibly be necessary to establish just what protests were made to Gov. Roosevelt against bills originating among lobbyists and signed by him, and that he might be called as a witness, None of the committee, however, would express this view officially, or allow the use of his name in connection with it.

While Beardsley, the Railway Association's Treasurer, was on the stand explaining that the check books and cash books and ledgers prior to 1904 had been destroyed because the annual statements contained all the data that it was necessary to preserve, Mr. Bruce of counsel for the committee broke in impatiently to say:

"Why did you bring this mutilated letter book? I find that these loose pages begin with Page 88 and jump from 100 to 108, and then to 110."

Mr. Bruce held up some loose sheets from a letter-press copybook as he spoke. "Some of them," he added as he ran through the flimsy sheets, "have been torn in two, so that only half a sheet remains here."

The witness started to explain that the missing sheets had to do with correspondence of the Elmira Water, Light and Railway Company, and the book had been cut up in order to segregate the Railway Association's correspondence after it had begun to grow voluminous.

All the Records Destroyed.

"I will judge what was in those pages," said Mr. Bruce. "You must produce them."

Q.—Did you pay out any money during the period you were Treasurer of the association to any employe of the Legislature? A.—No.

Q.—Where are the books that will show it if you did? A.—Destroyed.

Q.—By whose order? A.—Mine.

Q.—Does the printed record in the annual report show that $20,000 was paid into the treasury of your association by one person during June or July, 1903? A.—I can find no reference to such an item in the annual report.

Q.—There was a minute book kept by yourself as Secretary that would tell all about that $20,000 item. Do you know where that book is?

A.—No, I do not. It is not in existence so far as I know.

Q.—Did you hastily destroy it?

A.—Yes, Sir. I destroyed it, but your question goes too far—not hastily.

Confronted with Significant Letter.

Lawyer Bruce had it read into the record that Henry A. Robinson was the Treasurer of the Street Railway Association up to 1903 and that William W. Cole served from that year to 1905, when Beardsley succeeded him.

"You are sure you never paid out any money to legislative employes?" reiterated the committee's lawyer. "Refresh your memory carefully before you answer."

"No, none whatever," the witness replied.

Q.—Who is T. W. Wilson? A.—He is General Manager of the International Traction Company of Buffalo. He was President of the Street Railway Association in 1907 and 1908.

Q.—Did you keep track of legislation while you were disbursing officer during those years? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—Did any one direct legislation for you? A.—Not so far as I know.

Lawyer Bruce then read this letter, dated at Buffalo March 20, 1908, on the letterhead of the Street Railway Association of New York:

H. M. Beardsley, Treasurer, New York.

Dear Mr. Beardsley: In accordance with my telegram of this afternoon, copy of which is inclosed, kindly send Mr. C. H. Betts, Lyon, N. Y., as soon as possible a check for $300 by registered mail, same being on account of the amount due him for furnishing information to members of the Executive Committee of the Street Railway Association of the State of New York. After you have paid this $300 his account, so far as I recollect it, will stand as follows:

Total amount to be paid him	$1,750
Less amount allowed to him, including check for $300 as above	1,300
Balance still due	$450

Yours very truly,
T. W. WILSON.

Says Now He Did Pay Out Money.

The witness was asked if he received the letter and if he complied with its demands. He said he did, and that he paid the money as ordered.

Q.—Then you may wish to change your answers you have heretofore made. Do you wish to alter your testimony? A.—Yes, Sir. The association paid to keep track of legislation. I thought you asked me a personal question. I didn't know Betts. Was he a member of the Legislature?

Q.—You had charge of the association's correspondence. Didn't you know Betts was connected with the Committee on Revision? A.—No, Sir.

A telegram sent to Beardsley on the same date as the letter was read to him:

Buffalo, N. Y., March 20.

M. M. Beardsley, Treasurer, Elmira, N. Y.:
Send check for $300 by registered letter immediately to C. H. Betts, Lyons, N. Y.
T. W. WILSON.

Witness admitted that he had sent the money. This telegram was then read to him:

Buffalo, April 23, 1908.

H. M. Beardsley, Elmira, N. Y.:
Send Betts immediately to-night Albany check for full amount still due him on account furnishing information to the association. T. W. WILSON.

The annual reports were handed to the witness, and he was unable to find any mention in them of Betts or the sums due to him or paid to him.

Some Items Overlooked.

Q.—Was not an expenditure of $1,750 rather a gross omission from the annual report? A.—Well, I see it is omitted. The items are not there.

Q.—Then why did you tell me that all your disbursements appear in the annual reports; that you had no further use for your checkbooks and destroyed them? A.—I don't know why the expenditures were not put in there I am sure.

Q.—Now, what did you pay Mr. Betts in 1909—that is not so long ago. Just look at the annual report and see what is there? A.—I can't find anything. There is nothing at all.

A letter from the Albany committee clerk, throwing some light on the other side of the Albany activities, was read:

Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, N. Y.
March 20, 1909.

My Dear Wilson: I am sorry not to have seen you again before you left Albany. I was so busy on the bill that I was unable to get away. Everything is going all right, and I have the list corrected up to date. You will see that the Whitley School bill is reported. Do you want to oppose this bill. If so on what ground?

My expenses are very heavy just now. I wish you would send me by registered letter on Saturday $250 or $300 if convenient. If you have any suggestions to make I would be glad to receive them. C. H. BETTS.

The witness said he knew nothing of the letter, but he did know that no money was sent to Betts from June, 1908, to June, 1909, because it did not appear in the annual report

Q.—But the $1,750 didn't appear in the previous report? A.—Well, I'm positive I didn't send any money to him. I'm absolutely sure of it.

Q.—Well, did you pay money to any one else for legislative information in 1909? A.—Yes, Sir; to the Legislative Index Publishing Company.

Q.—How much? A.—$275.

Q.—I see you have down here, Information Bureau, $250. What was that money for? A.—I could not tell you.

Q.—I refer you to Check Stub 19—does that refresh your memory? A.—Yes. It was to Ellis J. Staley. I understand he is an attorney in Albany.

Q.—Now you have materially refreshed your memory from these fragmentary letters and check books. Do you think that if you had not destroyed the other check books perhaps you would find there items capable of still further refreshing you? A.—Possibly, but I don't think so.

Goodsell's Memory Behaving Badly.

Mr. Beardsley was excused after he had promised to make diligent search of all missing books and produce what he could find of them to-morrow morning.

The examination of ex-Senator Goodsell disclosed that his memory yesterday was behaving worse than on any previous day of the committee's session. In his own defense he said that it was very bad form on the part of legislators of the period in which he served to have memories at all.

"I don't think any legislators who had transactions such as these you question me about could remember the details," he said, and there was just a shade of a twinkle in his eye while he spoke. Those in the seats for visitors laughed audibly.

The Money of a Lobbyist.

It was gleaned from the ex-Senator that in 1900 he turned over to the Republican Campaign Committee, through Reuben L. Fox, now dead, its Secretary, the sum of $10,000. This money, he recalled, was given to him by G. Tracy Rogers, who had collected it from the street railways of the State.

A credit of $300, made on April 19, 1903, was mentioned to Senator Goodsell after he had failed to recollect anything about a bill he introduced extending the powers of street railway companies on Jan. 29 of that year. The $300 credit was placed with Ellingwood & Cunningham for Senator Goodsell by G. Tracy Rogers.

"It was to repay a loan," said the witness dryly. He was uncertain as to whom the loan was made or why.

Q.—To whom did you pay this $300? A.—I think it was to some one Mr. Rogers owed $300.

Q.—Some member of the Legislature? A.—No. It was a personal affair.

Q.—Was it to settle a bet or a stake? Do you remember if Mr. Rogers said it was in regard to a loss at cards? A.—I don't recall.

Q.—Were you in the habit of paying Mr. Rogers's debts? A.—No.

Q.—Is that the only time you did this? A.—I believe there is another transaction of $500 on the books.

Q.—Now this $300 was part of the $3,000 check from H. H. Vreeland, deposited to the credit of certain legislators. Did you know that? A.—No, I didn't.

Where His Memory Fails.

Senator Goodsell was willing to talk freely about the $10,000 raised for the campaign of 1900. "G. Tracy Rogers said he would collect that amount from the street railways," he said, "and I sold some school bonds in Highland Falls and got $5,000, so as to turn it over to the State Committee at once. I sent the second $5,000 in two installments later."

Q.—Through what firm did you sell these bonds? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you turn over the contribution in cash or check or draft? A.—Cash.

Q.—Where did you get it? A.—In some institution near Nassau and Pine Streets. I don't remember.

Q.—Did it occur to you why the railways were putting up this $10,000 for campaign purposes? A.—No; no particular reason.

Q.—Didn't it seem strange that Mr. Rogers would come to you—a Senator and a member of the Railroad Committee—to give funds he could easily have sent direct to the State Committee? A.—He didn't come to me. I met him in the lobby of the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Q.—What was the street railway company going to get for this $10,000? A.—It didn't occur to me to ask.

Q.—Were the railway companies to apply at the next session to have bills killed in consideration for this money? A.—I don't know how they were to be helped.

Senator Goodsell had a lapse of memory when asked where he got the $4,000 and $1,000 cash making up the second half of the $10,000 contribution. The statement that it was a contribution had been made after an item of $10,000 had been found on the Ellingwood & Cunningham books credited to his account after election. He had corresponded about it, but had lost the letters. On April 23, 1901, Rogers had paid the debt in part by depositing $9,000 to Goodsell's credit with Ellingwood & Cunningham. That was the day the Legislature adjourned. A credit of $500 on Oct. 12, he said, was repayment for a loan made to the traction lobbyist in the Hoffman House some time previous.

Letters to Contradict Him.

Two letters read to the witness immediately after his statement to this effect contradicted it. They asked for $500 margin on 100 shares of Transportation, stating that Mr. Rogers had deposited $500 with the statement that it was the limit he would go and Goodsell would have to take care of it after that.

Concerning a deposit of 1,500 shares of Transportation stock to the credit of himself and Nixon, Bedell, Rogers, Allds, and Baxter, on May 7, he said that a Mr. Graham, now dead, representing a news association in Albany, had told him certain vaguely mentioned parties wanted to buy Transportation, so he had scurried around until he got some 2,000 shares to sell. These shares Graham bought from him at 14, he said, when in the open market they were worth 4½. Graham was afraid to buy in the open market, he said, for fear it would start a bull movement in the stock.

A letter from Ellingwood & Cunningham did not seem to agree with the Senator's version. "Why don't you arrange for your friends to pay the balance?" the letter read. "It certainly isn't fair for them to hang you up so long."

On Oct. 7, Ellingwood & Cunningham wrote to Senator Goodsell saying they had received $19,600 from Goodsell in payment for the stock, and that of this Speaker Nixon and Bedell were each credited with $7,000 for 500 shares; Taggart and J. P. Allds, with $1,400 each for 100 shares, and Archie Baxter with $2,800 for 200 shares.

Didn't Know Who Gave Him Money.

The witness could not remember who gave him the money to pay for the stock, but he said he deposited the money to his own account in the Highland National Bank and sent his personal check to the brokers.

"Didn't it impress you you were making a mighty fine bargain in selling at 14 when the stock was going in the open market a month later at 17?" Mr. Bruce asked.

"Yes, I made a good bargain."

The effort of Mr. Bruce was to demonstrate than Goodsell acted as a go-between for fellow-legislators and the lobbyists. He mentioned, in addition to the Transportation stock, 100 shares of Steel common, 100 shares of Steel preferred, and 100 shares of Southern Pacific.

Nothing definite about these transactions could be learned except that the date of sale was mentioned.

"You kept books?" Mr. Bruce asked.

"Yes, but I burned them."

In October, 1901, Goodsell was making very heavy withdrawals.

"It was getting pretty close to election time then," he explained. "Rogers placed money to my credit, and I turned it over to the Orange County committee."

"Who was the committee?"

"I was. That is, I was a member, and I disbursed the funds."

On July 7, 1904, there was a transaction in Union Pacific stock that resulted in a debit of $45,000 for stock purchases, without a cent of margin being up.

A telegram notifying Goodsell to call at Ellingwood & Cunningham's on July 23, 1903, to receive $5,000 that would be waiting for him was read, but he didn't recall getting it or what it was for.

The hearings will be continued to-day.

MUST SELL BREAD BY WEIGHT

Commissioner Driscoll to Make the Bakers Obey the Law After Oct. 1.

Commissioner Driscoll of the Bureau of Weights and Measures announced yesterday that his order requiring the sale of bread by weight in the city will be strictly enforced after Oct. 1.

"The law is plain," said he, "and if the bakers do not comply with it they will be prosecuted. The penalty for a violation is a fine of $100 and imprisonment. I do not intend to exercise any leniency because the bakers have not seen fit to pay attention to the law and prepare for its observance.

"They have not yet presented any plan to me for carrying out the law, but after the first of next month my Inspectors will be instructed to see that it is strictly enforced."

CANNOT IDENTIFY THE CRIPPEN VICTIM

Expert Who Examined the Remains Unable to Give Any Hint as to Who Was Murdered.

CUT UP BY A SURGEON

Buried Not Less Than Four and Not More Than Eight Months, Prof. Pepper Declares in Court.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Testifying at the resumption to-day of the proceedings at the Bow Street Court in connection with the Crippen murder case, Prof. Augustus J. Pepper, the University of London expert, said he had found "no trace of sex" in the human remains discovered in the cellar of Crippen's Hilldorp Crescent house.

Prof. Pepper added that his examination had convinced him that the human parts found were severed by a hand skilled in surgery and directed by a mind that possessed a real knowledge of anatomy.

The evidence of the medical experts had been awaited with eagerness, and the famous little courtroom was crowded to its capacity.

The prisoners in the dock presented contrasting appearances. Dr. Crippen was seemingly as cool and collected as ever. He did not miss a word of the testimony, and eagerly whispered to his solicitor, Arthur Newton, whenever he thought he had detected a point in his favor.

On the other hand Ethel Clara Leneve was wan and plainly in mental and physical distress. The police authorities had anticipated that the day would be a trying one for her, and accordingly she was attended for the first time in court by a wardress, who sat close to her throughout the proceedings.

Prof. Pepper was the first witness called by the prosecution. At considerable length he described the examination which he had made and set forth his conclusion. He said he had identified pieces of flesh as belonging to various parts of the body, except the head, hands, forearms, feet, and legs below the knees. He could say that the members found were undoubtedly from a human body. No bones were discovered. The only wound was a cut in the upper part of the windpipe. The way in which the parts had been separated convinced him that whoever was guilty of the mutilation did his work with an exactness born of familiarity with the human body.

Prof. Pepper said that the hair discovered included a short strand of fair texture wrapped up in a handkerchief of the size commonly used by men.

The witness identified in particular a piece of flesh six by seven inches in size as coming from the abdominal wall. This bore a scar which, in his opinion, was undoubtedly left by a wound from an operation.

The witness said that the scar was in a vertical direction and more than four inches in length. It was old and might have been on the body for a year, or possibly many years. The condition of the persons recovered was healthy, and in his judgment indicated a stoutish person in middle life whose hair was dark brown where it had not been artificially bleached.

Witness then said he had found no trace of sex. The parts had been buried for not less than four months and for not more than eight months.

At this point Mr. Newton took the witness in hand and asked him to be more specific in his statement as to having found "no trace of sex." The professor declared that it was impossible for him in any manner to determine the sex from the parts of the body found and examined by him.

This is considered of great importance to the defense, as it had been generally believed that sufficient evidence would be introduced to show that the body was that of a woman.

The witness explained that he meant he could not identify the sex amatomically. He was closely questioned by Mr. Newton regarding the scar. Crippen's solicitor trying to make out that what appeared as a scar might be merely an overlapping of the skin. "That suggestion is fantastical," retorted the expert.

Mr. Newton suggested that a man specializing in the ear, nose, and eye, like Dr. Crippen, would not necessarily be able adroitly to separate the members of a body, but Prof. Pepper thought that such a specialist as counsel described would have general anatomical knowledge.

Mr. Newton was keen in seeking admissions from the witness and frequently exhibited heat when the professor refused to answer "yes" or "no" without qualifying his replies. Counsel intimated that Drs. Wall and Turnbull, experts engaged by the defense, had reached conclusions differing from those of Prof. Pepper in some particulars, and, turning to the witness, said: "Your qualifications have nothing approaching theirs. Both are eminent among their number, as you know."

A brief re-examination by the Crown closed the evidence offered by the witness which was gruesome throughout.

Police Surgeon Marshall corroborated the testimony of Prof. Pepper. On cross-examination he said that a body buried in clay and lime might be preserved for years. Witness said his impression was that there were marks around the scar found on the abdomen which had been made by the stitches taken in the wound.

The case was adjourned until Friday.

EUROPEAN BANKERS REJECT COTTON PLAN

Conference Decides Against Validation Proposal of Banks in This Country.

A DEADLOCK NOW EXISTS

Belief That Importers Will Put Pressure on the Banks Abroad—Fear That a Serious Situation May Arise.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The European bankers' conference on American cotton bills of lading to-day decided against the proposals submitted by the American bankers for the settlement of this vexed question and reaffirmed the position taken up last July, when the committee of European bankers passed a resolution declining, from Oct. 31 next, to accept bills of lading for cotton unless the genuineness of the bills of lading, both as to the signature and as to the possession of the cotton by the carrier at the time of issue, should be guaranteed by the American exchange buyer. In other words, European banks will not negotiate American cotton bills unless they have the guarantee of an American bank.

The point of view of the European bankers is that the offer of railway validation certificates made by the American bankers is not an efficient guarantee. They assert that these certificates would not deal in any way with forgeries that could be committed outside the railway companies' staffs, and that European bankers would consequently be in no better position in this respect than they were before. The certificate could only affect the bill of lading that was granted by the railway company so long as an officer of the railway company received the cotton before he gave out his bill of lading. If the railway company's officer were dishonest or negligent the company could repudiate its bill of lading on the ground that it had not been given in accordance with the regulations of the company.

Thus, for instance, John Smith is certified as an officer at a railway station to sign bills of lading if he receives the cotton beforehand, but if he does not receive the cotton and signs the bill of lading, the bill of lading and the validation certificate are of no value.

Therefore, as the European bankers are not protected with regard to forgeries outside the railways and are not protected by the validation certificates if there be fraud or negligence, it is declared that no tangible security is offered by the American bankers.

The European bankers at to-day's conference intimated that they were still prepared through their committee to met a deputation of the American Bankers' Association in London.

The European banks represented at the conference were the Banca Commerciale Italiana, the Bank of Winterthur, the Bank of Liverpool, the Banque de Mulhouse, the Banque Fédérale of Zurich, Baring Brothers & Co., the Comptoir National d'Escompte. the Crédit Lyonnais, the Credito Italiano, the Deutsche Bank, the Direction der Disconto Gesellschaft, the Dresdner Bank, Klein worlsons & Co., the Lancashire and Yorkshire Bank, Lloyd's Bank, the London City and Midland Bank, the Manchester and County Bank, the Manchester and Liverpool District Banking Company, the National Provincial Bank of England, Parr's Bank, the Rhenish Credit Bank, the Russian Bank for Foreign Trade, the Schweizerische Kreditanstalt, the the Société Générale of Paris, the Swiss Bankverein, the Wiener Bankverein, the Williams Deacon's Bank, the Oesterreichische Laenderbank, the Anglo-Austrian Bank, Lazard Brothers & Co., and the Oesterreische Credit Anstalt.

The refusal of the European bankers to rescind their action in demanding after Oct. 31 next a guarantee by our bankers of all American cotton bills was announced to the Bill of Lading Committee here in a telegram from London.

A meeting of the sub-committee of the American Bankers' Association Committee on Bills of Lading, of which Vice President Frew of the Corn Exchange Bank is Chairman, has been called for this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The refusal of the European bankers to accept the American plan of validation certificates will be considered at this meeting, but it is improbable that the committee will do anything more than stand by its previous decision to refuse to give guarantees and to adhere to the validation certificate plan as the best which can be devised in view of the restrictions put by law upon American banks, both State and National.

With the progress of the discussion on this question in recent weeks practical unanimity has been established in the views of American bankers. Certain institutions which were at first disposed to give the guarantees asked by the bankers on the other side are now standing shoulder to shoulder with those who hold that American bankers cannot give such guarantees.

The Canadian banks with agencies in New York some of which do a large business in cotton bills, are standing by the other banks in refusing to guarantee bills of lading. Few, if any, private banking houses, it is said, are disposed to give this guarantee. The American Express Company has been inclined to give guarantees to a limited extent, but an officer of that company recently took the stand that it would do nothing in opposition to the general policy of the banks here.

As matters stand, unless the American Bankers' Association's committee at its meeting to-day takes some action quite foreign to the known disposition of the committee, there will exist a deadlock between our bankers and those of Europe on the question of the financing of this country's cotton crop. Bankers here feel that the situation contains elements capable of causing serious disarrangement of the usual course of financial transactions between this country and Europe during the Autumn months. So much uncertainty is felt about the effect upon the foreign exchange market that some institutions most active in foreign exchange have decided to refrain from all commitments in the exchange market extending beyond Oct. 31, after which date the system of cotton bills of lading now in operation will no longer be accepted by the bankers abroad.

That bankers in Europe will be under some pressure from European cotton spinning interests to modify the stand which they have taken is thought likely here, it being felt by American bankers that the foreign spinners need our cotton as much as our cotton growers need to sell it.

A New York cotton house yesterday sent telegrams to its correspondents in the South advising them, in view of the stand taken by the foreign bankers, to communicate with the cotton concerns abroad to whom they sell, urging them to use their influence to get the foreign bankers to withdraw from the stand they have taken and to accept the validation plan.

The banks here, this cotton house told its correspondents in the South, would not and could not give the guarantee that was asked by the bankers abroad.

DENOUNCED BY EGYPTIANS.

Roosevelt Attacked at the Congress of the Young Egyptian Party.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 14. — The General Committee of the Young Egyptian Party held a congress here to-day, James Keir Hardie, the English Socialist, being honorary President.

Violent speeches were delivered against Mr. Roosevelt, Sir Edward Grey, and the British Government. Mr. Roosevelt was especially attacked for his Guildhall speech. He was called, among other things, an "American hunter after self-advertisement."

Telegrams were sent to the British Government and the Khédive demanding the immediate evacuation of Egypt.

CANALEJAS GAINS SUPPORT.

President of Chamber Says Premier Will Continue His Campaign.

MADRID, Sept. 14.—Count Romanones, President of the Chamber of Deputies, is quoted in an interview to-day as declaring that the policies of Premier Canalejas are daily gaining adherents among those who have been adversaries of the Government, as the country is convinced that the Premier is working for the best interests of the nation.

The Count thinks that Spain will be emancipated from "fanatical clericalism," which, he says, has for centuries weighed heavily upon it. The struggle is not against Catholicism, but against clericalism, which is impeding the industrial and commercial development of Spain and is interfering in politics.

At the opening of the Cortes, Señor Canalejas, according to the President, will announce an unmodified continuation of his religious programme. The "Padlock bill" prohibiting the creation of further religious establishments until the revision of the Concordat has been completed, or a definite law on the subject has been passed, which measure is opposed by the Vatican, will not be withdrawn, and the Senate will resume its discussion of the proposed legislation.

The Monarchists of the Opposition today protested the election of twenty-six members of the Government Party. Parliament will not be convened until these contests are decided.

CHOLERA CASE AT COLOGNE.

Epidemic in Apulia Practically Ended —Naples Scare Unfounded.

COLOGNE, Sept. 14.—A sailor who arrived here to-day from Dansic has been placed in a hospital as a cholera suspect.

A bacteriological examination has been ordered.

ROME, Sept. 14.—The cholera epidemic has now been practically stamped out in Apulia. In the past twenty-four hours only four new cases and two deaths have been reported.

The suspected cases of cholera at Naples have been shown by bacteriological examination to be gastro-enteritis, which is common at this season. Nevertheless, strict measures are taken, and travellers arriving at Rome from Naples are subected to a close examination, while their linen is disinfected.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

ATHENS, Sept. 14.—King George to-day opened the session of the specially elected chamber which is charged with the revision of the constitution of Greece. He reminded the Deputies that their mandate was limited to a revision of the non-fundamental clauses of the constitution, and urged them to devote themselves to their difficult task with patriotism and with the object of insuring the realization of the national ideals. There is great popular enthusiasm over the Government's new programme.

VALPARAISO, Sept. 14.—The Chilean Navy and the foreign warships which are here to participate in the Chilean centennial celebration were reviewed to-day by President Alcorta of Argentina, members of the embassies, and other diplomats. ZEPPELIN VI. IS LOST AFTER MANY TRIPS

TEN WORKMEN INJURED

Americans Among Those Who Had Made Trips in the Last Eighteen Days.

BADEN-BADEN, Sept. 14.—The fifth and latest airship due to Count Zeppelin's inventive genius met with disaster to-day, when the dirigible balloon Zeppelin VI. took fire after an explosion while she was being warped into her shed.

A score or more of men were engaged in the task of housing the airship, when a benzine tank in the rear gondola exploded, setting fire to an adjacent gas compartment. The explosion of this compartment was followed by the explosion of the sixteen others. There was a gush of flames, developing intense heat, and the whole structure was destroyed in a few minutes. Nothing remained of Count Zeppelin's latest model except a tangled mass of aluminium frames.

The shed also became ignited, but the flames were extinguished without serious damage.

Ten workmen were injured in the efforts to extinguish the flames, two of them seriously.

The ignition of the benzine occurred while workmen were engaged in cleaning the machinery, during which operation the benzine holders were open. The cause of the ignition has not as yet been ascertained.

The Zeppelin VI., in the past eighteen days, had made thirty-four passenger trips, covering about 2,000 miles and carrying more than 300 passengers. The flights of the dirigible were made regularly, often in unfavorable weather. She had made trips to various interesting places. Many Americans were among the excursionists. Baron Rudolf Goldschmidt-Rothschild had chartered the airship for the use of a private party next Friday. He had agreed to pay $500 for the first two hours of the excursion, and $250 for each additional hour.

The airship ascended at 11:20 A. M. to-day with twelve passengers for a trip to Heilbronn. The airship had covered about twenty miles when a motor in the forward gondola acted badly. It was impossible to effect satisfactory repairs, and after some time had been spent in this futile effort the airship returned here.

The Zeppelin VI. will be best remembered by her notable flight from Friedrichshafen to Berlin, when she carried Count Zeppelin, the inventor, on a visit to Emperor William.

When the Deutschland was wrecked the German Passenger Airship Company, which had inaugurated a passenger service in the vicinity of Baden-Baden, chartered the Zeppelin VI. and advertised that it would make daily trips of from one to three hours until Sept. 30, when it is expected that the Deutschland will again be in commission.

The Zeppelin VI. was built in 1909, but had since been altered and enlarged. Her motors and the other navigating and operating machinery were contained in two gondola cars situated in the bow and stern respectively. Suspended from the middle of the airship was a luxuriously furnished cabin. She carried a crew of ten men. She proved to be the speediest of her type, and it was announced that she would maintain a speed of thirty-eight miles an hour.

This is the fifth serious accident which has befallen the Zeppelin dirigibles, the histories of whch have been brilliant but brief, and usually ending in disaster.

The Zeppelin I., after making an endurance flight that astonished the world, was torn from her moorings by the wind and thrashed herself to pieces in a thunderstorm. The Zeppelin II. was destroyed by a gale at Limburg-an-der-Lahn last April 25. The Zeppelin III. made a bad landing and was seriously damaged at Mergentheim. The Deutschland came to grief in Teutoberg Forest last June 28.

Thousands of persons surrounded the scene of the fire this evening.

American Shipyards May Bid.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The time in which tenders will be received for the construction of two battleships for the Chilean Navy has been extended from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15. As there is a possibility that the specifications, which now require that the guns and certain machinery be of English design and manufacture, will be modified, it is thought that the American shipyards will be likely to bid for the contracts.

FINE SCOUTING BY AIRMEN.

Officers at French Manoeuvres Enthusiastic Over Aeroplanes.

GRANDVILLIERS, France, Sept. 14.—President Fallières, accompanied by President-elect of Brazil Fonseca, Premier Briand, and other distinguished men, as well as by the foreign Military Attachés, witnessed the operation of the dirigible balloons and aeroplanes in the army manoeuvres to-day.

Three dirigibles and six aeroplanes, the latter including those manned by the reservists Latham and Pavihan, took part in the operations. Aeroplanes from each side reconnoitred along the front for twenty miles, making reports of the positions of the various units.

Thus far the aeroplanes have given better results than the dirigibles, which on Monday and Tuesday were prevented from leaving their stations by the high winds.

The army officers are very enthusiastic over the accuracy of the aeroplane reconnaissances. Gen. Picquart, commanding the Second Corps, and Gen. Meunier, commanding the Third Corps, each morning before 7 o'clock are in possession of accurate descriptions of the location and movements of each other's forces.

Gen. Meunier to-day completely outgeneraled Gen. Picquart, succeeding in turning the latter's position.

WIN $1,400,000 CONTRACTS.

American Firms to Construct Railway Cars for Argentina.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14. — American manufacturers have obtained the contracts for constructing all the railway cars needed by the Argentine Government, according to a cablegram received at the State Department to-day from American Minister Sherrill, at Buenos Ayres.

To the American Car and Foundry Company of New York has been awarded a contract for the construction of $1,000,000 worth of cars, and to the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company of Wilmington, Del., a contract to the amount of $400,000.

NO COMPULSORY ARBITRATION

Gov. Harmon Points Out That Ohio Constitution Forbids It.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 14.—According to a statement given out to-night at Gov. Harmon's offices compulsory arbitration of the street car strike is impossible in Ohio unless the Constitution is amended.

The Governor points out a section of the Constitution which provides that "the General Assembly may establish courts of conciliation and prescribe their powers and duties, but such courts shall not render final judgment in any case except on submission by the parties of the matter in dispute and their agreement to abide by such judgment."

He also pointed out that the language of the Board of Arbitratoin statute follows this Constitutional limitation so closely as to leave little doubt that the Legislature had it in mind in framing the present law, which makes no provision for the board's enforcing its decrees.

Mayor Marshall to-day by letter called on the Columbus Chamber of Commerce to bring about arbitration of the strike.

Want a New Patent Agreement.

MANNHEIM, Sept. 14.—The Association of West German Manufacturers has adopted resolutions calling on the Government to give notice to the United States of the termination of the patent agreement made on Feb. 23, 1900, on the ground that it is detrimental to the interests of German inventors, patent owners, and German industry generally, or to pass a revised patent law which shall deprive Americans of certain privileges they now enjoy under the international agreement.

BROOKLYN WEDDING HALTED.

Prospective Groom Finds Final Decree Divorcing Wife Was Never Filed.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, Sept. 14.—When Willis A. Weisgarver of this city, who was divorced from his wife, Clara, in December, 1907, applied at the Marriage License Bureau in Brooklyn for a license to marry Miss Emma Wick of that city, he discovered that his final decree had never been entered at the County Clerk's office here. Consequently, the license was not granted and the wedding, scheduled for to-night at the bride's home in Brooklyn, has been postponed.

The prospective bridegroom hastened to this city, certain that his final decree of divorce had been signed by Supreme Court Justice Fitts, but the records failed to show it.

His attorney held a duplicate of the decree signed by Justice Fitts and presented this to the County Clerk, but he refused to accept it. The lawyer then hastened to Albany and secured from Supreme Court Justice Leboeuf, Justice Fitts being deceased, an order that final judgment be entered with the County Clerk.

Won't Let Them Have Their Sons.

Samuel and Ida London, whose sons, Daniel and Benjamin, are in the Jewish Protectory at Hawthorne, failed to get a writ of habeas corpus for their release yesterday from Justice Bijur. Justice Bijur held that the parents had sent the boys to work several times peddling on the streets and had failed to withdraw them after they had been twice convicted of this offense. This proved them, he held, improper guardians. This is the fourth or fifth attempt the Londons have made to get their sons out.

A Circulation Guarantee that Means Something

A mill orders wheat by the carload, but it pays according to the actual number of measured bushels found in the car.

Every advertiser is entitled to this same "commercial delivery"—in other words, he is entitled to know that he will actually get what he pays for, and that he will pay only for what he actually gets.

Insist on Proof of Delivery

When an advertiser contracts for space at a certain rate he does so on the understanding that he will receive a certain net circulation as a delivery. At the end of a year he should be furnished with some definite evidence that this delivery has been made, or if it has not been made he should be given a cash refund proportionate to the shortage.

If an advertiser buys a mail-list he buys it at a certain rate per thousand names, and if the list falls short of what was agreed upon he pays accordingly. When he buys space in a periodical the transaction is practically the same. He pays a certain price for the delivery of his announcement into a certain number of homes.

If you were the advertiser buying the mailing list you would have someone in your office check the delivery. Is there any reason why you should pay thousands of dollars of advertising bills in the dark?

Making Space-Buying "Commercial"

Every advertiser who uses COLLIER'S knows in advance that he will pay only for what he receives. He does not have to concern himself with the question of whether the circulation will go up or go down; he knows that he will simply pay for the quantity actually issued, of which 95% will be net paid. He knows that the matter will be determined by the audit of a leading firm of chartered public accountants, thus giving him an absolutely sound and determinable commercial basis for the purchase of advertising space in this medium.

The following guarantee is our idea of what an advertiser is entitled to:

COLLIER'S guarantees to every advertiser for 1910 an average of 500,000* copies, 95% of which is to be net paid, for the numbers in which his advertisement appears. A pro-rata refund will be made to every advertiser for any shortage of this guarantee. Any advertiser can have access to our circulation books at any time.

The actual net paid circulation of COLLIER'S at this writing exceeds 580,000.*

It was cold and dark and dismal at the Polo Grounds yesterday—just like the night Washington crossed the Delaware. The Pirates and the Giants shivered along at even terms for five innings when Chief Meyers jammed out a lusty two-sofa crash and drove in a run which carried the argument. The score was 3 to 2. An ice cream festival in Labrador would have attracted as big a crowd.

It was resurrection day for Fall bonnets. Last year's dusty derbies and wrinkled Fedoras were out in numbers. The sere and yellow straw hatches of the waning Summer were few. So were the spectators. The game began at 3:30 o'clock, so it wasn't necessary to use lanterns to play the ninth inning. It looks as if Summer had taken the count, and it's likely that strong men will wear overcoats at to-day's double-header, and muzzle the brigade that dares to suggest ice cold drinks.

Howard Camnitz was inclined to generosity. He walked six Giants, and besides that McGraw's men slammed him a bit. Drucke, who used to pitch in Texas where it is 100 in the shade, got his first touch of frosty weather and held the Pirates to half a dozen hits. Pittsburg got into action first. Gibson opened the third inning with a double which bounded against the right field stand. Snodgrass got a pop which Camnitz lifted, and Byrne soaked the ball to left field for two bases and scored Gibson. Byrne was nipped stealing third and Leach was called out on strikes.

New York went to the front in the fourth inning. Becker singled to right and Meyers walked. Drucke sacrificed them along a base and Devore flied to Leach. Becker scored on Doyle's single and Snodgrass singled to centre, sending Meyers home.

The Pirates, always threatening and dangerous, tied the score in the first half of the fifth inning. Snodgrass fumbled Hyatt's grasser and his existence was prolonged. Wilson crammed a single to centre, and Gibson forced Wilson at second, Devlin to Doyle. Camnitz fanned. Hyatt wandered across with the tying run when Byrne singled to right. Byrne stole second and Leach died, Doyle to Snodgrass.

In the same inning the Giants annexed the win. Bridwell ambled and Devlin fanned. Bridwell was caught stealing. Becker then lifted a Texas Leaguer into short left. Too many Pirates went after it, and Wagner who tried to get under it got only one hand near enough to spoil the catch for anybody else. Becker stole second. Meyers whanged a double over Leach's head, and Becker scored. Meyers went to third on Drucke's single to right. Camnitz knocked down Devore's red-hot bounder and threw him out to Hyatt.

Pittsburg started out to break up the game in the eighth inning, but the rally was nipped in the bud. Clarke took off two sweaters and a coat and went into the game himself to bat for Camnitz. He flied to Murray. Byrne singled to left and Leach outgalloped a slow grounder. Drucke made a wild peg to first base and Byrne started for home in a hurry. Snodgrass shot the ball to Meyers and Byrne hustled back to third base. Leach in the meantime was almost to third base and when he turned to get back Meyers threw to Doyle and nabbed him two days' journey off the base. Campbell skied to Becker, and that's all there was to it.

Jack Dalton Downs Reds.

Jack Dalton batted the Brooklyns to a 4 to 3 victory over Cincinnati yesterday at Washington Park. He drove in two runs with a double in the third inning, while his triple in the eighth brought Wheat home, and he scored himself on McElveen's single. Both pitchers received excellent support, Gasper making the only error on a costly wild throw to second. The weather was cold, affecting the attendance. Outfielder Coulson of the Altoonas joined the Brooklyns. Score:

There is much "moonshine" talked about evening dress suits.

With many men they are the last tie to the merchant tailor.

But why?

Is it a question of fit, when our suits are fitted before you place an order?

Is it a question of style, when you see that before you place an order?

Is it a question of cloth, when our evening suits include the identical fabric used by many of the most expensive tailors for their most expensive suits, as well as other good but less costly cloths?

Certainly it can't be a question of price.

Evening dress suits, $33 to $70.
Dinner jackets separately, $19 to $36.

To-day's the day, they say, for straws to pass away.

Our new Derbies and soft hats are all ready.

Including the "Stetson Special" Derby at $5.00, for which we are sole New York agents; and the "Cecil" at $3.50—a young man's soft hat which Stetson made exclusively for us.

Not to speak of our $3 Derby, which for so many years has been the solid foundation of our hat business: Or of our good $4 Derby.

TIGERS ON HEELS OF YANKS AND RED SOX

Champions Now Only One Point Behind Teams Sharing Second Position.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Sept. 14.—While New York and Boston Clubs were traveling westward to-day to engage in their final games in this section Detroit's champions crept within one point of the Yankees and Red Sox, who are sharing second place in the American League race. With New York playing St. Louis, Boston against Chicago, and Philadelphia to handle the Tigers it is improbable that Detroit will oust their Eastern rivals.

To-day's game was nearly a repetition of yesterday's contest. Each team had another big run-getting inning, but this time Detroit bagged the most runs, 9 to 8. With Cobb still out of the game McIntyre, his substitute, banged out three hits—a triple, a double, and a single. Cobb could hardly have done more. Each team scored twice in the first inning, but after Cleveland had gone to the front with a run in the second inning the Tigers chalked up six runs, the result of a single, a double, a triple, and Crawford's home run drive, aided by a misplay. Cleveland rallied in the seventh round and garnered five runs on four singles and two doubles. Summers was then sent to the mound when two runners were still on the bases and no one out and checked the slaughter.

Detroits gathered half their hits off Fanwell and Doane, Falkenberg starting to pitch in the third inning. The score:

Firemen Beat Policemen, 10 to 9.

Nearly 7,000 persons witnessed yesterday at American League Park one of the most exciting baseball games seen on local diamonds this season, which resulted in the defeat of the Police Department team by the club representing the Fire Department by a score of 10 to 9. The game was won in the ninth inning by the two runs made by Boyce and Blaesser.

In a box in front of the police sat Commissioner Baker with friends, while the fire laddies had Chief Croker as their chief rooter.

The contest was held to determine the ownership of "The Chief" Cup and for the championship of Greater New York. However, another game will have to be played because the police won last week, and the winning team is required to win two games. Score by innings:

Skeeters In Seventh Place Again.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 14.—Jersey City sent Providence back into last place again to-day by winning 5 to 1. Abstein and Deininger caused most of the trouble for the Grays, both players batting hard. Abstein got three hits, including a triple and a home run, and knocked in four of the Skeeters' runs. Deininger got four hits, and sent in the other tally. The visitors got thirteen hits off Randolph, and, while Kissinger was found for nine, they were well scattered, except in the second inning, when Providence bunched three singles. The score:

BASEBALL NOTES.

Tim Jordan, the Bronx boy who played first base for the Brooklyn club a few years and was let out last Spring, has been engaged by the Louisville club. It is said in Louisville that Jordan will manage the club next year.

Connie Mack's prospective champions stopped off in Wilkesbarre yesterday, en route to Detroit, and were defeated by the New York State League leaders by the score of 5 to 2.

The National Commission will consider the advisability of adopting a twelve months' contract for American and National League players. The players oppose such a plan, as it would prevent them playing barnstorming games after the regular season closes. That's just what the commission seeks to accomplish.

Pittsburg has signed Pitcher Steele, an Eastern League righthander and star. Barney Dreyfuss declares he does not want any more southpaws.

First Baseman Markle is nursing a split heel. He hopes to be in condition to help celebrate Merkle Day at the Polo Grounds on Sept. 25. Johnny Evers will be there.

The attendance at the Polo Grounds yesterday led persons to believe that the Boston Doves were still in our midst.

The Giants and Pirates will double-head again to-day, and after a single game Friday they will be on their way.

Fred Snodgrass first-baseed yesterday something like Gowdy did the day before.

The Brooklyn game yesterday attracted 400 persons. President Ebbetts is the father of the schedule that runs until Oct. 15. By that time not even his players will care to go to his ball yard.

Manager McGraw declares that the Cubs will beat the Athletics in the world's series. The Cubs form the greatest defensive team he ever saw, says Mac.

The National Baseball Commission has allowed the claim of the Pittsburg club against Chester M. Brandom of the Kansas City club for $103.50. Brandom must pay this amount within three days or suffer suspension. Paul Sentell of the Rochester team was denied a claim for back salary from the Atlanta and Brooklyn clubs.

New York Printers Beat Boston.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—The crack New York printers' team won a notable victory in the third day's play of the National Baseball Tournament this morning, when they vanquished their strongest rivals from Boston, 9 to 1. Pitcher Anderson of the New Yorks, although hit freely, was invincible when men were on bases, and in addition came across with a timely single, scoring two runs in the sixth inning, when the Boston team went to pieces. The Bund brothers, with Shortstop Johnson, carried off the fielding honors for the winners, while Barry and Whiting did the best work for Boston.

By winning this game New York plays the Washington printers to-morrow for the championship of the Eastern Division, and unless all signs fail should find the locals easy picking. This will put the New York team in the running for the championship next Saturday, when the winner of the Western division is decided. Chicago or Indianapolis are favored as the Western winners. NEW YORK, THURSDAY, SEPT. 15, 1910.

NEW JERSEY.

From the returns of the primaries in New Jersey it is evident that WOODROW WILSON, President of Princeton University, will be nominated for Governor in to-day's State Democratic Convention. The news is inspiriting. The Democratic victories already achieved in State and Congressional elections in Massachusetts, Missouri, New York, and Maine, and the signs of Republican disaffection and disruption throughout the country, show unmistakably that this is a Democratic year. The nomination of WOODROW WILSON in New Jersey will aid in making that great State Democratic this Fall and in 1912.

President WILSON is a profound student of public affairs. He represents the highest type of citizenship, of which CLEVELAND and TILDEN were exemplars. With WILSON of New Jersey, HARMON of Ohio, SHEPARD, GAYNOR, OSBORNE, and HAVENS of New York, BALDWIN of Connecticut, PLAISTED of Maine, and some Democrat of the William E. Russell type as Democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts, there will be a growth of good Presidential timber from which to select a Democratic President two years hence.

CONNECTICUT SPEAKS UP.

They may at one time have made wooden nutmegs as well as wooden clocks in the State of Connecticut. They may have made unauthenticated hams and sold them at the market price. It may be that some peculiarity of speech or demeanor gave "MATT" CARPENTER a fancied warrant for describing a distinguished citizen of Hartford as a "bob-tailed clam Yankee." But the old fire burns in Connecticut, red blood courses through the veins of its men, and their bodies are sustained in an erect position by backbones of normal thickness and unquestionable rigidity.

The evidence? Read it in the resolutions adopted by the Republican Convention in Hartford yesterday, in which President TAFT and the Taft Administration are praised in good set terms never before applied to the one or to the other, and, what is more to the point, in which the great lion hunter of Oyster Bay, in the lines and between the lines, is by plain implication censured and castigated. It is all so amazing that we must quote entire the resolution referring to the Administration:

> In WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT the American people have found a good and great President—one of the greatest the White House has known. We take pride in the remembrance that Connecticut gave him all her votes in the nominating convention and a plurality of 14,000 on election day. He brought to the Chief Magistracy a wonderful training and equipment for its duties. He has been a faithful custodian of the Constitution. He has given the country a law-abiding, law-enforcing administration. The appointing power has been to him a sacred trust. Our exporters are indebted to him for the preservation of tariff peace with the whole trading world. He has prepared the way for needed changes in our own schedules without the disturbance and derangement to business invariably attending what is known as a general revision. Thanks chiefly to his tactful but resolute insistence, the vital part of the reforms for which his predecessor pleaded in speeches and messages is now statute law, and the Republican Congress has made a record for constructive work of abiding value that will be a landmark in our legislative history. At once conservative and progressive, patient under misrepresentation and detraction, WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT has set an example of official fidelity and pure patriotism to all his successors in the Presidency.

We didn't think the Republicans of Connecticut would have the courage, or, as they would say up there, the spunk, to do it. Yet it is high time, if ever anybody is to speak up in defense of the Republican Administration. It would be puerile for the most cringing friend of party harmony to deny or blink the hostility of THEODORE ROOSEVELT toward WILLIAM H. TAFT and his Administration. He makes precious little effort to conceal it. Even if it were dissembled in words, the actions speak for themselves. Mr. ROOSEVELT thus early has taken the field to secure for himself the nomination to the Presidency in 1912. He will seek by any means within his command to wrest that nomination from Mr. TAFT. He has not only been niggardly and most grudging in the few words he has spoken about the Administration, but he has taken the field and the whole road for his own personal campaign in a way that leaves no doubt whatever in the minds of observing men about his intentions.

The Republicans of Connecticut accept the Roosevelt challenge, and, without any equivocation or mincing of language, they hurl another challenge straight in his face. They stand up for the Taft Administration. They praise it as "a law-abiding, law-enforcing Administration." He has put into statute law "the vital part of the reforms for which his predecessor pleaded in speeches and messages." Nobody can miss the meaning of that thrust. ROOSEVELT pleaded and harangued; TAFT gets the laws enacted. More than that, above all that, Mr. TAFT "has been a faithful custodian of the Constitution."

Undoubtedly all this is high treason to Mr. ROOSEVELT and Mr. ROOSEVELT'S "policies." He will have to make the most of it in whatever way he will, for it comes from men of good standing in his own party, or what was his own party before he split it asunder. The disaster in Maine was one result, and a very direct result, of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S new plunge in politics. The Republican Party has been shaken and its organization shattered by his rough assumption of the sole leadership, by his arrogating to himself the authority to declare policies. The totals of the voting in Maine show that many Republicans must have voted directly for the Democratic candidate. Under the old leaders, under the old organization, they would not have done that. In that State, as in this State and in many States of the East, there are countless Republicans who have little confidence in Mr. ROOSEVELT, and still less in the policies of his "new Nationalism." The Republicans of Connecticut in their platform declaration speak with the same voice. They array themselves in support of the Administration, which is the same thing as arraying themselves in opposition to the pretensions of Mr. ROOSEVELT. The insurrection against insurgency has made a good beginning.

A PITIABLE CONFESSION.

"Louisiana," its former Governor, NEWTON C. BLANCHARD, said at the Conservation Congress, "has the richest gas and oil fields, and largest and finest salt and sulphur beds in the world." The people of that State are interested "in seeing that Louisiana gets some return from these resources and are convinced that the Federal Government can do more to that end than can the State." But the Federal lands left in Louisiana, in which alone the United States has even a shadow of jurisdiction, cover 189 square miles, one-third less than the area of New Orleans.

Gov. STUBBS of Kansas is another champion of Federal as against State rights in the development of natural resources. The public lands of Kansas occupy 222 square miles, about three times the area of Topeka.

Gov. NOEL of Mississippi is averse to State control. Mississippi's area of public lands is but 60 square miles.

There are parcels of the Federal domain in only twenty-five out of the forty-eight States of this Union, including the two about to be admitted; in fourteen of the twenty-five States Federal conservation would be applied upon areas almost uniformly smaller than the area of this city. More than two-thirds of the natural wealth of the Nation has long ago passed into the complete possession of States and people.

Shall the States, following Govs. NOEL and STUBBS and ex-Gov. BLANCHARD, confess that they are dishonest or incompetent to administer their resources? Shall they give up their Governments to the administration of Federal office holders? Why should they confess that they and their people are both helpless and morally bankrupt?

Such a confession would not help matters. Unless the people of the States can reform their own Legislatures and municipalities, and can exact their own rates of the public service corporations they charter, they will be exploited and their resources will continue to be converted to monopolistic uses. The Federal Government has no powers to administer local affairs. It is incompetent in its own affairs. The States and cities, which have retained all local powers, must learn to wield them competently. And from the house-cleaning now in progress in most of the States it would appear that they are becoming competent.

ANOTHER LOCAL QUESTION.

Gen. HANCOCK'S ghost must exult amid the shades at the latter-day discovery that the tariff question, after all, is local, although he went to the political shambles for his alleged ignorance in perpetrating such a heresy. The hearings before the Inter-State Commerce Commission suggest that there is now room for another Gen. Hancock to declare, before the general perception of it, that the railway rate question is another matter between localities.

Surely there is a pitiful lack of perception or suggestion by either railways or shippers that the rate question should be settled upon National rather than restricted considerations. There is no shipper who apparently would not be willing to retire from the contention if his individual interests were satisfied. In like manner each railway is animated by its own interests, or the interests of the territory which it serves, rather than by the National interest. The railways do not venture to suggest that the right to charge any given rate is a right such as is enjoyed by the owners of other goods not to part with them without a price satisfactory to the seller. But the shippers do not hesitate to contend that they have a claim approaching a right to take what they want at their price rather than the price desired by the purveyor of the service.

The entire discussion thus assumes the aspect of a dispute over the division of profits, or of burdens, and therefore one of business policy rather than of "right." Like the tariff it is a wrangle over spoils. Railways and shippers might, if they would, and should if they could, reach an adjustment more satisfactory to both than any decision to be enforced by a law which must be universal in its action and permanent in its form. The findings of the commission must apply to all railways and all shippers, and cannot be altered easily when it is reached. Yet the railways are putting in proof of the most diverse conditions, and one shipper must be prejudiced by any finding which covers all shippers, although it cannot be just to all. Between the absolute rights of either party there is a twilight zone within which mutual adjustments are preferably a matter of business arrangement rather than of adjudication. The appreciation of this is likely to dawn upon the shippers when they get their adjudication.

THE TRIAL OF CRIPPEN.

The trial in London of Dr. CRIPPEN has already developed the fact that the human remains found under quicklime bricked up in his cellar cannot be identified as those of his wife, with whose murder he is charged. Dr. PEPPER of the London University testifies for the prosecution that they are the remains of a human being, whether of a man or of a woman he cannot say. So long as this direct proof is lacking, the fact of the death of the person alleged to have been killed and the fact of killing by the defendant, as alleged, will be almost impossible to establish with legal certainty.

But it is not absolutely impossible to establish the corpus delicti, the body of the crime, by indirect proof. In New York State and in other States the written law forbids it. Not so in Great Britain. There it is a legal rule discretionary with the court. If the motive for the murder be proved; if it be shown that Dr. CRIPPEN obtained poison of the unusual kind found in the dissected body; if his skill as a dissector be established; if he had in his possession the requisite surgical instruments not used in his ordinary practice as a dentist; if it be shown that he purchased quicklime, and if circumstances point to his presence in the house and in the cellar at the time the guilty sepulchre received the victim, the evidence might seem in an English court to be complete. If, in addition, the doctor shall have voluntarily made incriminating admissions, he may be convicted.

His defense is strong. The rule of direct identification of the body is usually controlling. But the trial is not yet over.

A "CHAMBER OF HORRORS."

An anti-vivisectionist "chamber of horrors," such as was conducted in this city during the recent session of the State Legislature, has been afforded room at the State Fair now in progress in Syracuse. It is an exhibition of degeneracy—degeneracy not of the doctors whom it grotesquely slanders, but of the exhibitors.

These people are afflicted with the mental disease which alienists diagnose as zoophil-psychosis, a love of pet animals that has become morbid. Women who coddle their pets and love them more than babies cannot bear the thought that dogs, cats, monkeys, and guinea pigs should be experimented upon, even painlessly, by the humane searchers after remedies and methods for the cure of human diseases. They would prefer that thousands of children should die in the horrible agonies of cerebro-spinal meningitis or drag out crippled and disfigured lives from infantile paralysis to having a few hundred animals sacrificed for the sake of their cure—a cure that would work for all time. They would rather have millions of homes made charnal houses, haunted by the dread spectres of cholera, smallpox, typhoid, diphtheria, lockjaw, cancer, tuberculosis, and the Black Death, rather than that the veins of one horse or one cow be tapped for an immunizing serum, or a white rat be engrafted with diseased tissue to watch the method of proliferation and discover its preventable causes. They would construct a "chamber of horrors" full of all manner of deceitful representations to inflame prejudice in the minds of untaught beholders, while ignoring the real and terrible spectacles in the sick-chambers of the Nation.

These people are working to spread plagues. Dr. SIMON FLEXNER, who stands at the head of work in experimental medicine in this country, calls them "enemies of mankind." While a little insane, the leaders of this movement are wholly responsible for their work. The result of their campaign in the State and county fairs this Fall should be the strengthening of sentiment to restrain their degenerate exhibitions by law.

INSULTING, BUT NOT UNWELCOME.

Once upon a time—if it will be believed—we had more pigs and pork than we knew what to do with, unless we sold the pork out of the country. In those days aspersions upon the health of our cattle and hogs were regarded as insults, almost as personal insults, and we said appropriate things about the insulters. Yesterday the insult of old times was repeated, and was received with equanimity, because we want to eat our pigs ourselves. Instead of making the retort discourteous to the German Ministers who publicly alleged that there were sanitary objections to the admission of American meats to junkes stomachs, we placidly think, "Oh, well, there will be so much more left for our own stomachs."

The effect of an enlarged supply of meat in this market is likely to be more agreeable, probably, than the restriction of the supply in Germany. A hungry electorate is hard to deal with, and the question now so easily disposed of may recur to vex the Ministers who disposed of it so easily this week.

By the way, how came these Germans whose humble petition was so summarily rejected to think that the importations of foreign meat would have any effect in cheapening the supply from domestic sources? An indicted beef trust might be more easily and speedily disciplined by the admission of foreign meats than by indictments. The German insult is suggestive of much.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Aeroplanes Not So Easily Met.

Among the older military men there has been and still is a strong inclination to deny that the aeroplane will work any "revolution" in warfare, or, for that matter, have much effect upon it in any way. To prophecies as to what a few bold aviators will do to an army by dropping explosives upon it, the reply frequently made has been that cannon can easily be adapted for shooting with accuracy at objects high in air, and that when exposed to such a fire no flying machine would long survive. A correspondent of The Scientific American calls attention to certain interesting facts, all indisputable, which these unalarmed gentlemen seem to have ignored.

For one thing, every cannon ball sent up into the air is bound to come down, somewhere, with a velocity exactly equal to that with which it started its ascent, and if fired vertically, or nearly so, the effect on a widely extended army would be seriously embarrassing if the attack on the aerial assailants were a hot one. In that case the defending force would in effect aim its guns at itself, and everybody knows that nothing demoralizes soldiers as much as being fired on by their friends.

On the other hand, while it is probable, or at least not impossible, that an attacking fleet of aeroplanes laden with dynamite could be promptly destroyed by a well-directed fire from the right sort of guns, to do so, after the aviators were over their enemies—and it could hardly be done before—would simply bring down a shower of explosives precisely where the intention was to land them. Again the defenders would work their own destruction. Of course, the men in the flying machines would also perish, but on that side the loss of life and property would be so small as to be negligible from a military point of view.

The conclusion is that the only way to fight aeroplanes is with other aeroplanes, and that the romancers who have imagined battles in the air have pictured the warfare of the future with a closer approach to accuracy than have those who expect to see duels between men on the ground and men above them. As for the possibility of dropping bombs from rapidly moving aeroplanes on marks as small as forts, ships, and companies of soldiers, that has been recently proved at all the aviation meetings, and more practice of this gentle art will doubtless make perfect, or something like it.

Self-Helped Is Best Helped.

"An American Housekeeper," whose letter we printed yesterday, declared, in what was evidently bitterness of soul, that Commissioner DRISCOLL'S campaign against short weights and measures had not appreciably decreased her weekly bills, and that she felt sure the tradesmen were still giving her less than she paid for. She therefore begged the Commissioner to tell her and others in like case where they could buy trustworthy scales and measures with which to test every purchase as soon as it was delivered.

This troubled one shows a most commendable desire to do what she can herself toward the righting of her own wrongs, and as nothing could be simpler or better than that, when it is practicable—as it is in the matter of weights and measures for anybody willing to take a little trouble—she deserves to be encouraged. Had she and other people always been even moderately careful to detect this kind of cheating—and none other is more easily detected—it never could have become general, for every tradesman who indulged in it would have been soon put out of business.

"Housekeeper" will have no difficulty in buying accurate scales and correct measures, since every manufacturer of such utensils makes them; including those who are also willing to meet, and do meet, the demand for scales that can be falsified and for short measures. Indeed, most of the scales by which the cheating is done would be honest enough if their owner wanted them to be so and didn't deliberately teach them bad habits. And "Housekeeper," if she wants to double assurance, can have her scales tested and certified by the Department of Weights and Measures, State or municipal.

But will she be at the pains to reweigh all her purchases, and to follow up every discovery of petty theft with complaint and prosecution? If so, she is very far from being a typical American housekeeper, and will almost, if not quite, deserve a tablet in the Hall of Fame. But even if she be, or become, such a paragon, she mustn't expect to see much change in any one bill. If a fourteen-ounce pound of something now sells for a certain number of cents, a sixteen-ounce pound of that something is very likely soon to cost more cents in the proportion of 16 to 14. Nevertheless, it is much better to get the sixteen-ounce pound. "Housekeeper" and all housekeepers can do it if they will, DRISCOLL or no DRISCOLL.

Mrs. Eddy Gets a Subpoena.

An irreverent thief who makes a specialty of automobile tires has been arrested in Boston for stealing, among others, one that belonged to the High Priestess of Christian Science. As if this weren't dreadful enough, an even more irreverent Judge of a Municipal Court, one WENTWORTH, has issued a subpoena, commanding Mrs. EDDY to appear before him next Tuesday and tell what she knows about the disappearance of the tire!

This news will send a shock of horror through the whole Eddyite world, where the idea of treating Mrs. EDDY as if she were an ordinary human being, if ever for a moment entertained, is at once dismissed as even more preposterous than impious.

Those of us who do not live in that strange world will confess to a feeling of keen interest in the outcome of these legal proceedings. For, with not much danger of later confusion, one can prophesy that Mrs. EDDY will not obey Judge WENTWORTH'S summons. And if she doesn't, what will happen? If she only would obey, many a dark uncertainty would be cleared up—for some the uncertainty whether or not she is still alive; for many more that whether or not she long since became the mentally helpless instrument by which a little group of shrewd men and women have kept and are keeping control of the wonderful religio-commercial machine she built up.

But she will not appear. On one pretext or another a public appearance will be avoided. Incidentally, if Judge WENTWORTH believes in "M. A. M.," or even in "absent treatment," he had better be putting up lightning rods and keep close to them.

THE BLOW TO LORIMER.

Would Not Have It Minimized by Comparison with Cox Incident.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would not be technical, and I regret the Roosevelt-Cox meeting; but it seems to me certain folk ignore several distinctions. One is that the Lorimer affair was a formal, public dinner; the other was a meeting at a private house. Also, as stated in THE TIMES'S original news report, Lorimer is a public official, Cox a private citizen.

Furthermore, there is much distinction between declining in advance to participate in a public event, and a refusal to greet a man who is met as the fellow-guest of a mutual acquaintance.

Again, Cox's political power is his because the voters of Cincinnati give it to him, while, according to an Illinois Grand Jury, Lorimer's political power was achieved in spite of the voters, by plain, flat, outright purchase. Cox is not an ideal citizen, but the people of Cincinnati can clip his claws whenever they please. He is not intrenched behind a corrupt Legislature, where the voters can't get at him.

I am not defending the Cox incident. I am only pointing out differences, and for this purpose: I do not like to see the force of the stunning rebuke Lorimer got minimized by the cry, "Yes, but he shook hands with George Cox!" Does that nullify the first action? Does it make it any the less what newspapers have called it, a most salutary and encouraging thing to all those who hope to see official corruption properly regarded? Not in the least, except to a type of mind inclined to finicky hypercriticism, a class of comment which is too prevalent in some New York journalism. W. C. T.

New York, Sept. 12, 1910.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Col. Roosevelt showed how he felt toward men of the Lorimer type, and then he stopped, and of necessity, for he wants to meet the bosses on their own ground and fight them. He is a wiser man than his critics. S. B. C.

New York, Sept. 13, 1910.

The Cost of Dishonesty.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The recent and current instances of detection of wealthy smugglers and the attempts at suppression, confiscation, and punishment for false scales and measures invite attention to the millions of dollars spent annually in this city in efforts to prevent dishonesty, not only in actual theft of money or material, but as safeguards against the multitudinous temptations at misrepresentation, fraud, and graft, all of which must be pronounced a common thievery.

The poor man, or one relatively so, who originates or by competition feels forced to resort to false scales and measures, seems less guilty, but in either situation aside from the almost certainty of detection there seems to be a laxity of knowledge or concern for that which is apparent—that it is easier to be honest than otherwise—a mere matter of mental discipline.

Wherever we move we are confronted by cash registers, ticket choppers, duplicate coupons, Inspectors, watchman's time detectors, automatic door bells, metallic partitions, and numerous safeguards against dishonesty of subordinates whose principals often require them to serve as their agents in practices known to be nefarious.

In the conduct of an enterprise its charges to its patrons are based upon the cost of service, and as such includes the items of precautions mentioned, the public, largely constituted either of honest persons or, lacking surreptitious opportunities, is called upon to defray the expense. SQUARE DEAL.

The Bryan-Roosevelt Platform.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I write you this tardy note to congratulate you upon your splendid parallel column article on Page 8 of your issue of Friday, Sept. 9, entitled "The Roosevelt-Bryan Platform."

It is well known that the people wherever Roosevelt speaks are wildly enthusiastic in favor of the platform therein set forth as advocated by Roosevelt, just as they were when it was promulgated by Bryan in 1896 and following. It is also known that Bryan's election upon that platform was only prevented by the most powerful efforts and the most gigantic corruption fund ever raised for political purposes. The investigation of various trusts since then have shown the part which they played in the defeat of Mr. Bryan, and the insurance investigations showed that the money of policy holders was dishonestly and corruptly appropriated to defeat the very political principles which were held by many of those same policy holders. Let us hope that the repetition of such a calamity will never again be possible in this country.

You have done society a great service in calling attention to this parallelism, which, of course, could not have been done by a distinctly partisan Democratic paper with anything like the same effect. J. J. TAYLOR.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13, 1910.

A Democratic Senate.

The voters in States like New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Ohio, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts, who this year elect successors to Depew, Kean, Du Pont, Dick, Aldrich, and Lodge, (all extreme standpatters,) should realize how close we are to "revision downward" and real relief from our tariff burdens.

The Democrats now have thirty-two United States Senators. We are certain to gain Democratic Senators in Missouri, Indiana, Nebraska, and Nevada, where the Legislatures are Democratic, and we have already captured Maine. This makes thirty-seven, who, together with La Follette, Cummins, Clapp, Nelson, Dolliver, and Bristow, Republican low-tariff insurgents, give us forty-three votes for revision downward, only four short of a majority in the Senate.

If rock-ribbed Republican Maine can choose a Democratic Legislature, why cannot New York, New Jersey, Delaware, and Ohio? These States were strongly Democratic in the low tariff fights of 1890 and 1892. If they vote right now they will raise the number of low-tariff Senators to forty-seven, a majority.

Dangers of Centralization.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Under the title, "A Roman Parallel," I notice in the Sunday TIMES a letter pointing out the danger of Col. Roosevelt's attempt to put most of the power in this country into the hands of the Federal Government, and prophesying that the ex-President may in this way seize that power for his own and "don a diadem five years hence."

The writer can scarcely be quite serious as to this possibility, but nevertheless he is probably quite right in his sense of danger. Theodore Roosevelt cannot be the man to play the part of traitor to this Republic, but if he and the Socialists should succeed in putting all the power of the Government into the hands of the President, who can tell what ambitious scoundrel may occupy the Presidential chair in future days, and may take advantage of that power? DICKENS CENTENARY STAMPS

Profits from Their Sale Will Be Given to Writer's Family.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a letter recently published in your paper John J. Tracy refers to the reformation which Dickens brought about in the classroom, and suggests that "school teachers from whose profession Dickens helped to eliminate the unworthy, and pupils, whose school life Dickens tried to make pleasant, ought to enter gratefully and heartily into some magnificent plan of commemorating the centenary of the reformer." Mr. Tracy does not suggest what form the "magnificent commemoration" should take. Possibly he is unaware of "the Charles Dickens testimonial," which is being taken up so enthusiastically by all Dickens lovers. This testimonial—original, sane, practical—will consist of a "Dickens Centenary Stamp" issued in the form of an artistic bookplate, which all admirers of the great writer are asked to purchase, and affix in any volumes of Dickens which they may possess. As the price of the stamp will be but 2 cents it will be seen that all who desire to do so, and are in any way grateful to Dickens's memory, may at little cost to themselves contribute to a great international Dickens testimonial. The profits from the sale of the stamps will, on the hundredth anniversary of the creator of a thousand living characters, be handed over to representatives of the Dickens family, many of whom are in straitened circumstances.

This method of celebrating the centenary of a rare writer whose popularity only increases with the years should appeal to every one, for it makes no demands of a charitable nature, obviates the necessity of soliciting, makes unnecessary the receiving and acknowledging of subscriptions. It is a simple expedient in which the poor and the well to do may share together.

It is difficult in these days to create any new and original method for celebrating the centenaries of the great, and the international Dickens testimonial suggested by the Strand Magazine and fathered by such men as Lord Rosebery, Chief Justice Lord Alverstone, C. K. Chesterton, Andrew Lang, Percy Fitzgerald, and others should commend itself not only to school teachers and pupils, but to all who have any desire whatever to acknowledge the pleasures they have derived from the works of Charles Dickens.

Why Count Apponyi Is Coming Here.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of to-day there appeared a special cable, dated Berlin, Sept. 13, stating that Count Apponyi, the distinguished Hungarian statesman and orator, and former Minister of Education, was coming to America and that the object of his visit "is understood to be associated with the mobilization of the Hungarian vote, especially in the mining regions of the United States, for Col. Roosevelt both before and after the Republican National Convention of 1912."

This statement is without foundation and is absurd. Last Spring Count Apponyi was invited to visit America by The Civic Forum and the New York Peace Society, and has accepted the invitation. He will deliver an address in Carnegie Hall next February on "International Peace," and later will visit, as Baron Kikuchi did last Winter, a number of our leading universities and colleges. It ought to be unnecessary to say that his coming to America has no political significance.

ROBERT ERSKINE ELY,
Director of The Civic Forum.

The Weight of the Earth.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As some of your correspondents seem to be under a mistaken idea of the weight of the earth, it might be well to point out that the earth from a scientific point of view has no weight.

The term "weight" is purely relative, and when it is said that a mass has weight it means relative to something toward which it would fall if not supported.

Take a mass of iron which weighs 1,000 tons at the earth's surface. Then suppose the earth to have its rotation increased so that a day would only be one and a half hours, then the mass of iron would lose all its weight by centrifugal force and it could be held suspended on the point of your finger, it would be so light. No Word from Beyond.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Are the "Psychic Scientists" again unable to do something when called upon for a demonstration? Nearly a week has elapsed since you printed the James offer, and I do not see that they are falling over each other to get the reward. What is the trouble? Have the wires to the great beyond been short circuited?

Comes an Inspector to Ford-o'-th'-Creek,
Gover'ment feller, so dapper an' slick;
Chuck full o' system an' wantin' t' know
If th' Post Office was runnin' jesso.
Feller, ex-cow hand, called Bowlegged Nick,
Was th' Postmaster at Ford-o'-th'-Creek;
Didn't much want it, but used t' share bed
Out on th' Round-up one Summer with Ted.

Wasn't much system at Ford-o'-th'-Creek,
Nick used t' do th' distributin' trick:
Unlock th' mail pouch an' turn up th' sack,
Fill up a soap box with mail an' go back
Whar th' boys was in th' Class Double A,
(Name of a Joy Joint just over th' way,)
An' thar th' soap box stood out on th' shelf,
Mail to yer order by helpin' yerself.

Simple as could be, without any fuss.
Quite satisfact'ry to each one of us.
Wasn't no trouble an' made no delay,
Post Office open by night or by day.
Honestest system that ever was known,
Fish in th' soap box an' pick out yer own,
Never no red tape, no keys or no locks,
Just had a sort o' community box.

Comes an Inspector to Ford-o'-th'-Creek,
Roars on our system an' goes huntin' Nick;
Reads him th' Rulebook one hull afternoon,
Kicks on th' soap box an' raves like a loon;
Hollers his head off an' talks about jail
Fer such a way of distributin' mail:
"Haf t' get rid of that soap box, an' quick!"
Says th' Inspector at Ford-o'-th'-Creek.

Nick takes th' soap box to th' bank o' th' Creek,
Sets it down, runs back an' hits it a kick.
"How's that," says Nick, an' th' feller turns pale,
"How's that," says Nick, "fer distributin' mail?"
"Wire th' Department," says Nick, "that y' find
Bowlegged Nick, th' Postmaster's, resigned!
Wire th' Department, an' do it durn quick:
Post Office closed here at Ford-o'-th'-Creek!"

CENTRALIZED POWER IS URGED BY HUGHES

Governor Should Appoint Other State Officers, He Says, In a Speech at State Fair.

REFORM IN APPROPRIATIONS

Hereafter Budget Will Be Prepared Before Legislature Meets — Safeguards for Elections and Primaries.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 14.—Governor's and Grange Day at the State Fair was marked by clear skies. A large crowd was early in attendance to hear Gov. Charles E. Hughes deliver an address that probably will be his last public utterance before he takes his place on the United States Supreme Court bench.

The Governor arrived at an early hour, and was the guest of Frederick R. Hazard. He reached the fair grounds about 11 o'clock. He was introduced by Lieut. Gov. Horace White. Gov. Hughes discussed the development of the State's agricultural resources, and continued as follows:

"The wholesomeness of our rivers is destroyed by pollution, and they are virtually open sewers. There is need of comprehensive legislation which will provide suitable means for securing the purification of our streams and will do away with the privileges now enjoyed under ill-considered legislation enacted in the past.

"Industry suffers for the lack of suitable regulation of the flow of our streams, and water powers, vast sources of industrial energy, remain undeveloped. Nothing in recent years has been more important than the studies that have been made under the most competent direction by the State Water Supply Commission of the possibilities of water power development within our State and the great advantages that it is possible to secure by comprehensive measures, under adequate control, in the interest of all the people.

"We have a vast forest preserve, and we need scientific forestry. But we shall not have it until we can safely modify the prohibitions which have been erected as necessary barriers against spoliation.

"As we contemplate the expansion of government, the great public works now in progress and to be undertaken, and the insistent demands of our growing activities, we cannot fail to be impressed with the importance of perfecting our system of State administration. I strongly believe in the concentration of administrative responsibility. I do not believe there is sound reason for its distribution among several elected heads. Great public enterprise will not permanently prosper in this way. And as the burdens of State administration increase it will be found necessary, in my judgment, if the State Government is to maintain proper efficiency, to centralize Executive responsibility and in our State Government to follow the analogy of the Federal Government.

"I think it would be a decided improvement if the Governor were elected for a term of four years and were ineligible for re-election, and if the other State officers, now elected, were made appointive heads of departments. It would also be to the advantage of administration if the various heads of departments who are appointed by the Governor were removable by him instead of by the Senate. There is no loss of accountability to the people in such concentration of power and of the corresponding responsibility. The people can centre their attention upon the election of a Governor, but they do not properly fix it upon the election of a large number of co-ordinate State officers. According to our experience, the interest in the one submerges the interest in the other. The people should not be concerned with a mere fraction of the accountability upon which they have a right to insist.

"There is also serious need of improvement in legislative procedure and the preparation and treatment of legislative bills. In emphasizing this, full credit should be given to the Legislature for the large number of excellent laws that have been enacted. For example, our laws relating to highways, to banks, to insurance companies, and to the supervision of public service corporations constitute an important body of beneficial statutes. Criticism of the methods of legislation in our State frequently overshoots the mark. Efficient departments serve not only as competent critics of pending bills, but frequently draft bills relating to matters within their jurisdiction with scrupulous and expert care.

"I believe we have reached a point in this State where, with respect to large and important fields of legislation, we may be assured of consideration and criticism as expert as could well be provided. Such, certainly, should be the effect of maintaining great State departments devoted, under competent heads, to the study of State action within their respective spheres.

"It is also to be noted that a most important reform has been inaugurated with respect to the making of appropriations. In passing upon the appropriation bills a year ago I stated that there should be provided some permanent method for examination of departmental budgets and proposals for appropriations in advance of the legislative session. I made a recommendation to this effect in my last annual message, and I am glad to say that the recommendation was acted on by the Legislature.

"Accordingly it is now provided by law that on or before Nov. 15 in each year there shall be filed with the Controller by each State officer, head of department, or proper officer of each State institution, and by State commissions, and boards, a statement in detail of all moneys for which any general or special appropriation is desired at the ensuing session of the Legislature, together with the reasons therefor. The Controller is also to receive and file in his office a statement of any desired appropriation for any purpose which may be presented to him within said time.

"On or before Dec. 15 the Controller is to prepare a tabulation of these statements accompanied by comparative data and estimates of income and such comments as may be necessary to secure a proper comprehension of the matters involved; and for this purpose he may call for further reports from the various State officers, boards, &c. This tabulation is to be transmitted to the Governor immediately and to the Legislature on the first day of its session.

"The result is that we shall have in this State a real budget prepared in advance of the meeting of the Legislature. It will be submitted to the Legislature as soon as it meets and at once form the basis for intelligent criticism. Both the Legislature and the public will understand what moneys are asked for and why they are required. This will greatly simplify the work of the legislative committees and of the Governor and should result in securing with little delay an exact understanding of the demands upon the State Treasury, their extent and comparative importance.

"We have made decided progress in our legislation as to corrupt practices, and nothing is more necessary than the safeguarding of our primaries and elections. As for the most part our people act through political parties, it is of the highest importance to their true liberty that action within the parties should be free and, both with respect to candidates and the selection of party managers, should be based upon the direct vote of the party members. My position with respect to this and the arguments I have advanced in support of it are well known. Under our system representative government cannot be deemed to be securely based if, through complicated machinery, the selections of our great political parties are left to the determination of cabals.

"I believe that the privileges of our citizenship have never been more highly prized, and that our people have never been more sensitive with respect to the honorable conduct of public affairs. These privileges are not conferred from without or guaranteed by any superior power. They depend upon the constant vigilance of the citizen, his readiness to take part in active political work, his insistence upon right conduct, his demand for fidelity in public officers, his attachment to the fundamental principles of our Government, and his abiding love of justice. And despite the conflicts of self-interest, notwithstanding the abundant opportunities which democracy affords for the display of weakness and depravity, my experience in public affairs has strengthened my faith in the institutions of our Government, and my confidence that administration in this favored State will more and more closely approach to the standards

LENOX SOCIETY OUT IN COACHING PARADE

ROSETTES AND CORNFLOWERS

Tea Served to 150 Guests at the Close of Parade in Butternut Cottage Stables.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., Sept. 14.—Under bright skies and in ideal coaching weather was held this afternoon the second annual Lenox coaching parade. A year ago there were five coaches, but to-day eight breaks bearing forty-five well-known persons in society were sent dashing away from the starting place at the Lenox Clubhouse at 3:30 between solid lines of automobiles and vehicles, which lined Walker and Maine Streets. The persons in the coaching parade were no less notable than those who looked on, attracted by this novel procession in a land and a time of motors. Everything went with snap and spirit. Perhaps the feature of the parade was the presence of four women on the box driving teams of spirited horses. Miss Kate Cary, who is always prominent in the Horse Show, on the coach, or in the saddle in the hunting country, organized and led the parade, and the credit of its success is hers alone.

It was the largest and most spectacular affair that Lenox has had this season, and the hostess at Butternut Cottage was warmly congratulated by everyone participating and by those who looked on and enjoyed the exhibition.

Curtis Hotel became a reviewing stand for the villa set and hotel guests, and here were gathered a large number of well-known folks. Several of the prominent men of the Lenox Horse Show Association took part in the parade—Charles Lanier, Giraud Foster, William B. Sloane, Capt. John S. Barnes, Frank K. Sturgis, and Guy A. Ward.

Miss Kate Cary drove the leading coach. She wore a suit of white linen and a white hat. Miss Cary's break was a Brewster body of black with red running gear and trimmings. Her hitch was four bays, which behaved splendidly. On the coach were Dr. Henry P. Jaques, who was on the box seat; Mrs. Jaques, Walter W. Nettleton, the artist; Miss Elizabeth Williams, and Chester Griswold Burden.

Harley T. Proctor was out with his beautiful team of blue roans, some of the finest horses in the Berkshires. His break was a roof-seat vehicle of black body with yellow running gear. The horses wore yellow rosettes and on the coach were cornflowers. Rodney Proctor drove, and Mrs. Henry Hollister Pease was on the box seat. Mrs. Pease was in a gown of rose stripe foulard silk. She wore a corn-colored hat with black plumes. Mr. and Mrs. Proctor and Henry H. Pease were on the coach.

Frank K. Sturgis drove his coach to three chestnut roans and a piebald. Mrs. David Lydig was on the box seat. On the coach were also Mrs. Sturgis, David Lydig, and Charles Lanier. They wore red asters. The break was of black with red trimmings.

Mrs. William E. S. Griswold drove Mrs. John Sloane's four bays on a break of natural wood body and running gear. Mr. Griswold was on the box with his wife, and behind were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paterson, Miss May Denny of Boston, and Ledyard Coggswell of Albany. Mrs. Griswold wore a dark blue coat and a Colonial hat of dark blue and gold.

Miss Cornelia Barnes drove a roof seat break to bay leaders, and cross matched gray and bay wheelers. She was in a cream serge gown and straw hat. Beside her was Guy A. Ward. Others on the coach were Mrs. Ward, Miss Isabelle Shotter, and James Barnes.

Miss Charlotte Barnes had four bays on her roof seat break of black body with red running gear. Capt. Barnes was beside his daughter. Behind were William Douglas Sloane, Mrs. James A. Burden, George Turnure, and Mrs. Herbert Parsons. They all wore boutonnieres of white and red phlox.

Giraud Foster was out with four handsome bays on a break of black with red running gear. Mrs. Foster was with him. She wore a cloth gown of cream color and a large black hat. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Frothingham and Samuel Russell were behind.

Harris Fahnestock presented a black and bay leader and bay wheelers on a black and yellow break. Mrs. Fahnestock was up beside her husband. Behind were Mrs. Newbold Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Delafield, and Rieman Duval.

Miss Cary served tea to 150 guests at the close of the parade in Butternut Cottage stables. The carriage room was laid with rugs, and about the side walls were decorations of cornstalks and wild asters. Autumn leaves and garden flowers were used for relief in the corners of the room. On the tables were white and lavender cosmos, and above the entrance was a purple horseshoe made of asters and suspended from a setting of coaching whip and horn and whiffletrees. Paul Braidon of New York was caterer.

Those present included Mrs. William Douglas Sloane, Mrs. James A. Burden, Mrs. Robert Winthrop, Mrs. David Payne Grinewold, Frederick Schenck, W. Harold Brown, Miss Clementina Furniss, Mrs. W. S. Dayton, Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., Mrs. Guy A. Ward, Edwin B. Childs, Mrs. Montgomery Hare, Miss Heloise Meyer, Miss Gertrude Parsons, Mrs. George Westinghouse, Miss Margaret Wadsworth, Miss Allen Schenck, Richard C. Greenleaf, Miss Irene Bigelow, Miss Emily Winthrop, Mrs. Roswell Curtis, Miss Lura P. Curtis, Otis P. Curtis, Mrs. James B. Ludlow, Mrs. J. V. Meserole, Abraham Meserole, Miss Nannie Duval, Mrs. Frances Barlow, Chandler Robbins, Miss Cram, Miss Charlotte Cram, Mrs. W. S. Kernochan, Miss Constance Folsom, Miss Nina Gaither, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cryder, Mrs. M. Dwight Collier, Mrs. Robb de P. Tytus, Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Dixey, E. Hollister Simmons, Mrs. Herbert Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Turnure, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos De Heredia, Mrs. C. MacDougall, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hadden, Jr., Mrs. Harry Livingston Lee, Miss Johnson, and Miss Frances Ogden.

MISS MANNERING RECOVERING

Actress Was Operated Upon for Appendicitis in Hospital.

Mary Mannering, the actress, who was operated on for appendicitis at Roosevelt Hospital Tuesday, was reported last night to be recovering rapidly from the effects of the operation. The doctors said that her condition was favorable for a speedy convalescence.

Miss Mannering had begun rehearsals of Rachel Crother's play, "A Man's World," in which she is to be starred for a second season under Shubert management, when she was taken ill with acute appendicitis. On Monday she was obliged to abandon rehearsals and go to her home at Sixty-fifth Street and Central Park West.

Her physician decided her condition demanded an immediate operation, and she was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where the operation was performed Tuesday afternoon. Her condition Tuesday night was said to be serious, but she rallied toward morning, and yesterday all immediate danger seemed to have passed.

PROTEGEE OF NORDICA WEDS YOUNG BROKER

RENOUNCES OPERA CAREER

Was to Have Sailed Yesterday for Germany to Study—Instead She Starts on Her Honeymoon Trip.

When Miss Belle Hulbert Forbes, a young concert singer of Chicago, who has been studying abroad under the patronage and advice of Mmes. Sembrich and Nordica, arrived in New York last Monday it was with the intention of sailing for Germany to continue her studies. But she changed her mind on Tuesday after the arrival of Millard H. Cutter, a young and wealthy bond broker of Chicago, who followed her to this city with matrimonial intent.

Cutter's argument that the home offered greater possibilities than the opera stage was so forceful that the young singer decided to abandon her trip, and instead of going to the steamer yesterday she accompanied Cutter to the City Hall, where they obtained a marriage license. In the afternoon they were married at the Little Church Around the Corner.

Miss Martha Nickel, formerly of Chicago, but now living here, was bridesmaid, and the best man was Benjamin H. Atwell, Miss Forbes's manager. Count Centennini, whom the bride met in Italy several years ago, was among the few guests.

In the afternoon they held an informal reception at the Hotel Belmont, where their friends had hastily decorated a parlor suite with roses. No wedding presents were on view. The bride explained to her visitors: "Everything had been so sudden."

"I am not giving up my concert work by getting married," said Mrs. Cutter, "who is an attractive brunette of about 25, "but I have renounced my aspirations to become an opera singer. My friends here and abroad, who have encouraged me so, will be surprised, I know, to hear that I have preferred marriage to the footlights.

"I was getting along well in my preparations for grand opera. I have a répertoire of twenty-one operas, and I was on the threshold of an operatic career, one might say, when Mr. Cutter urged me to change my mind. I have done so and I am perfectly happy. I had not gone far enough perhaps to become so fascinated that I could not give it up."

It was while she was filling a concert engagement in Chicago that Mr. Cutter first saw his wife. He was enraptured with her voice, which is a coloratura soprano, and sought an introduction, which came about a few days later. Since that time the young bond broker has urged Miss Cutter to give up her operatic ambitions and to devote her time to him.

She began her career on the advice of Mme. Nordica in Chicago, and spent two years studying abroad. She sang before Col. Roosevelt when he was entertained last year at the American Embassy by Ambassador Hill. She also has sung before the Kaiser. Her last appearance in Chicago was under the direction of Walter Damrosch.

Mr. Cutter is a member of the Union League, South Side Field Club, and the Chicago Yacht Club. He has offices in the Rookery Building, and is the senior member of the firm of Cutter, May & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Cutter started on a trip through the Carolinas and West Virginia last night. They will make their home in Chicago. Next Winter Mrs. Cutter will fill her contracts for concert work, and may be heard in this city after the holidays.

SOCIETY ON POLO FIELD.

Fashionable Gathering Sees Ranelagh Beat Rockaway Team.

Special to The New York Times.

CEDARHURST, L. I., Sept. 14.—Society from all sections of Long Island, and also from Manhattan and Brooklyn, was well represented this evening on the lawns and porches of the Rockaway Hunt Club to witness a polo game between members of that club and the Ranelagh polo team of England, which was expected to and did give more thrills than have been seen on this polo field in several Summers. Ranelagh won by 10 goals to 8.

The automobiles began to bring their loads long before the game was called, and ladies daintily clad in Summer frocks of various hues blended well and made a very pretty picture on the lawn as they grouped themselves at different points to witness the match. Contrary to a horse show, the gowns were not the attraction at to-day's game, although there was enough display to warrant such attention, but the game was of such an order that as soon as Referee Hazard threw the ball into play there was nothing talked of but polo, and between periods every one discussed the past period. As all the games have been between the Ranelagh team and teams from this section the score has been close throughout and the game decided by the last period.

On the outside of the grounds were grouped several thousand people from Rockaway and nearby villages who had not the "open sesame" of the grounds, and were compelled to witness the game from outside the field. Just after the game began rain fell lightly and a cold wind blew in from the ocean, causing those who were lightly attired—and nearly all were—to scurry for wraps. The sun smiled before the game was half over, and a rainbow led Rockaway backers to think it a good omen for victory, but they were doomed to defeat.

RANELAGH.	ROCKAWAY.
1—Reve Grenfell.	1—R. LaMontagne, Jr.
2—F. Grenfell.	2—J. E. Cowdin
3—Lord Rocksavage.	3—Malcolm Stevenson.
Back—F. A. Gill.	Back—J. C. Cowdin.

Ranelagh by earned goals, 10; Rockaway by earned goals, 8. Goals scored for Ranelagh by Lord Rocksavage, 2; by Reve Grenfell, 6; F. Grenfell, 2. Scored for Rockaway, R. La Montagne 5, J. E. Cowdin 3. Referee—Mr. W. A. Hazard.

On Saturday afternoon the Ranelagh team will play a four composed of D. Milburn, M. Waterbury, L. Waterbury, and M. Stevenson.

THOMPSON BUCHANAN'S PLAY

Thompson Buchanan's Play Applauded and May Have Fair Run.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Charles Frohman presented to-night at the Comedy Theatre Thompson Buchanan's play "A Woman's Way," with which New Yorkers already are familiar. The piece has been touched up for English production and bears few traces of transatlantic origin, the introductory episode of reporters, keen on the scent of the scandal, being the most notable of these.

The first two acts provoked genuine merriment, and, though the third dragged somewhat, the curtain finally fell amid applause. Alexandra Carlisle played Effie Waldron effectively, and Marguerite Leslie gave substance to the rôle of the beautiful Mrs. Verney.

The piece was very handsomely mounted, and, though unlikely to make any records at the Comedy Theatre, may have a fair run.

BALL PLAYERS IN VAUDEVILLE

Christy Mathewson and "Chief" Meyers to Appear in Sketch, "Curves."

Christy Mathewson is going into vaudeville. Following the example of Mike Donlin, he has decided to try the two a day, with the support of "Chief" Meyers, the Giants' catcher, beginning the experiment at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre on Oct. 24. Mathewson and Meyers will be equipped with a sketch prepared by Bozeman Bulger, called "Curves," which is to have a song and dance specialty interpolated.

The couple will have the support of a young actress, who will play the part of a baseball enthusiast, and whose duty it will be to pretend to be a whole grand stand of "fans" as well as the sweetheart of one of the players. Mathewson will give illustrations of some of his curves and pitches, and, it is presumed, Meyers will assist by catching the ball.

LENA ASHWELL'S TOUR.

Coming Here in November to Star in "Judith Zaraine" Under Lieblers.

Lena Ashwell cabled to Liebler & Co. yesterday that she would come to America in November to begin rehearsals of "Judith Zaraine," a new play by C. M. S. McLellan, in which she is to be starred for a tour of the United States.

Miss Ashwell's one other visit to this country was in "The Shulamite," three seasons ago, when she appeared at the Lyric Theatre here and later on tour. She also gave occasional performances of "Mrs. Dane's Defense," alternating with Margaret Anglin in the title rôle at matinées. After her American tour she returned to London, where she took the lease of the Kingsway Theatre and produced a number of plays there.

The bride is an orphan, and the announcement was made by Mrs. Letitia Holmes, her grandmother. It was not until last night that she or any relatives of the bride were told of the marriage.

Mr. Donner is one of the best known horsemen, clubmen, and business men of Pittsburg. With his brothers he sold out for millions to the United States Steel Corporation.

50,000 at Coney Island Carnival.

Despite the rain in the earlier part of the day, 50,000 persons went to Coney Island and took part in the carnival there last night. The crowd was orderly and contented itself with mild manifestations of enthusiasm such as throwing confetti and transforming lingering straw hats into straw wreckage. In the parade, which started from the Concourse at 8 P. M., various lodges and other organizations took part, including 2,000 Woodmen of the World, 1,500 men of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps, and 1,000 members of the Moe H. Baron Association of Williamsburg.

COUNTESS ROBBED OF VALUABLE GEMS

Lady Antrim, While at Winnipeg Hotel, Misses Them from Bureau Drawer in Her Room.

ONE OF MANY ROBBERIES

Special to The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Sept. 14.—It became known to-day that the Countess of Antrim, while staying at the Royal Alexandra Hotel here, was robbed a few days ago of jewels valued at many thousands of dollars. Some of the gems were formerly heirlooms and others were gifts from distinguished friends.

The theft is the latest of a series from the hotels and trains of the Canadian Pacific Railway which have been engaging the close attention of the company's police for months.

The robberies have been steady and constant, and the detectives believe that one of the most clever gangs on the continent are at present bestowing their attentions on guests at Canadian Pacific hotels and on travelers on the company's transcontinental and other fast trains.

Several of the thieves, especially those who robbed the Countess, are thought to be swell mobsmen who move among people of position and wealth without attracting attention. Other members of the gang are working the baggage cars. A number of Pinkerton sleuths have been engaged and are assisting the railway and local police.

The Countess, who was accompanied by Mrs. Adam of London, found on her arrival that a large case in which she carried a number of separate jewel boxes was out of repair. She removed the boxes from the case and put them in a bureau drawer in her room, sending the case out for repairs. Next day she happened to open one of the boxes in the drawer and found it empty, and an examination of the others revealed that they were empty, too. The door of the room was not forced, and the mystery is as to how entrance could have been effected.

She immediately informed the hotel management, and within a few minutes Pinkerton detectives, who happened to be in the city on Canadian Pacific service, were busy on the case. So far as can be learned their investigations have failed to throw any light on the robbery. The Countess was absent from her room for several hours at a theatre. If the robbery occurred in the hotel it is surmised that it must have then taken place.

The city police have arrested two suspects, who are still detained.

The Countess is the daughter of the late Gen. Charles Grey, and was married to the Earl of Antrim in 1870. She is a Lady of the Bedchamber to Queen Mary. Her husband's estates comprise 35,000 acres. The family seat is Glenarm Castle, Larne, County Antrim, Ireland.

FALL OPENS AT THE HOTELS.

Roof Gardens Are Closed and Summer Formally Is Ended.

All of the big hotels completed their arrangements yesterday for the formal opening of the Fall and Winter season to-day. Last night the roof gardens on the Waldorf-Astoria and Astor were open for the last time this year, and when the lights were extinguished after midnight the Summer season was officially ended.

Simultaneously with the closing of the roof gardens, Armenonville, the Summer terrace at the Knickerbocker, and Summer gardens at many other uptown hotels took down their awnings and began to put away Summer furnishings. Patrons who watched the passing of Summer on roof gardens or terraces found it rather cool. Several women at the Waldorf roof garden wore furs. Many indulged in strawberry ices, though hot drinks were in greatest demand.

The grill at the Knickerbocker will reopen to-night; also the main restaurant. An elaborate musical programme has been arranged. The grillroom at the Waldorf also will be in full swing to-night, and the Empire and Rose Rooms, which have been redecorated, will accommodate several after-theatre and dinner parties. Special music will be given in the main restaurants, and Carlos Corti will resume his nightly concerts at 9 o'clock in the north foyer.

The formal opening of the Great Northern Hotel, 118 West Fifty-seventh Street, will take place to-night. This is New York's newest hotel, and it is superlative in every sense. It has a capacity of over 700, and the public rooms and corridors on the main floor are spacious and artistically decorated. The decorations are Louis XVI. Heraldic, Elizabethan, Marie Antoinette, Gothic, and Egyptian. Combined with l'art noveau, in the buffet and grill rooms, a pleasing effect is produced.

Several guests will be entertained by the hotel management at luncheon to-day. An orchestra will render a musical programme in the evening, and the decorations will be lavish. Many reservations already have been booked for the grill and main restaurant to-night.

The Louis XIV. restaurant at the Astor will be reopened to-night. The orangerie has been open for a week, and its decorations suggest the Autumn season. A harvest moon now adds to the decorative scheme of the trellised ceiling.

The rush of visitors to hotels began in earnest this week. Corridors of all the big Broadway and Fifth Avenue hotels were alive and the activity denoted that the Fall exodus from the country is well under way. In former years the rush began directly after Labor Day, but this year the season is a week late. Until Oct. 1 the hotels gradually will resume Winter dress.

The Summer terrace at the Plaza will not close until Sept. 25. The terraces at the St. Regis and Gotham also will remain open for another week or more. They are inclosed and protected from the weather, which permits of their extended season.

The grill is now open at the Martinique, although the new extension of the hotel will not be ready for several weeks. Shanley's new restaurant in Times Square is scheduled to open on Oct. 1.

Talks on Teeth

BY

G. GORDON MARTIN

(INCORPORATED)

"Wonderful"

The Martinolar Method of restoring missing teeth without plates is founded upon common sense.

The plan is scientifically correct.

There is no strain where a strain would work mischief with other teeth, as is the case with the old fashioned "bridge."

In bridge building where the supports were steel piers, sunk into solid rock, a cantilever bridge structure is all right.

But to put a cantilever "bridge" between two teeth in the jaw, higher in the middle than at either end, and then expect the "piers" to stand the terrific push when the work is in use, is a poor mechanical proposition, and can only result in suffering and, in time, loss of teeth.

The Martinolar teeth follow nature's plan, the whole work taking a little of the strain, or enough for an equal distribution, no one point taking all the strain of the "bite."

This is simple, and the application of the principle to the old form of bridge work brought "wonderful" results, to use Mr. Tiefenberg's expression in his letter as follows:

TRAVIS DEFEATED IN AMATEUR GOLF

Herreshoff and Evans Seem to be Strongest Contenders for Championship.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 14.—An entirely new amateur golf champion is hidden among the eight players who survived a double round of the Country Club's 6,083-yard course to-day. Walter J. Travis of Garden City, recently known as "The Old Man," and a three-time title winner of the United States Golf Association, packed up his clubs to-day at the fifteenth green, where John G. Anderson of the Woodland Golf Club, a former Massachusetts champion, eliminated him by a score of 5 up and 3 to play, after a match in which Travis was never in the lead.

"There were too many traps on the course for my game," said Travis, as he tossed the butt of a cigar into one of those yawning sand pits beside the fifteenth green.

The other seven honors of the day rested with H. H. Wilder of Vesper; W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont; Frederick Herreshoff of Ekwanok, Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater; Warren K. Wood of Homewood, H. Weber of Inverness, and W. R. Tuckerman of Stockbridge.

Reduced to a matter of citizenship, Wilder is from Lowell, Fownes from Pittsburg, Herreshoff from New York, Evans from Chicago, Wood from Chicago, Anderson from Boston, Weber from Toledo, and Tuckerman from Washington. These eight will meet in the order named tomorrow. All have won various district, State, and minor association titles, but none has captured a National.

It was even betting at the Country Club to-night on the result of the star match to-morrow between Herreshoff and Evans.

The defeat of Travis and the brilliant playing of Herreshoff and Evans were the golfing events of the day. Travis seemed to have no fondness for traps and hazards, and as there are something like four score of such impediments between the first tee and the eighteenth green he never succeeded in overhauling Anderson's accurate game. Again, he developed a surprising streak of poor putting, something almost unheard of for "the old man," and just before the end came late in the afternoon actually missed an eighteen-inch put into the cup.

Anderson was four up at the turn in the morning round, but threw away three holes on the homeward journey on trap work, so that he had a single sole lead at the lunch hour.

Starting out in the afternoon as the last pair, Travis put his second shot for the first hole into the race track and followed it by a short third. Anderson saved mistakes on the second hole by a ten-foot put. Travis sliced into the rough on the third hole, but both played the fourth to perfection. Anderson topped on the fifth, the sixth was played faultlessly, and the seventh equally so. On the eighth Anderson sent his second over the green into the rough and repeated it on the ninth, where the match was squared for the first time. The short tenth was halved, and then Travis's game went to smash. He sent his second shot for the eleventh green into the pond, he drove into a trap on the twelfth, he missed a short put on the thirteenth, and on the fourteenth, after driving into the marl pit, he picked up his ball. The end came on the next hole, where Travis hooked his tee shot into the woods.

Herreshoff continued to-day the brilliant work that won him the golf medal in yesterday's qualifying round. Whittemore won the first hole, and was twice on even terms with his Ekwanok opponent, but at all other stages Herreshoff was in full command of the situation.

Little "Chick" Evans of Chicago seemed loath to put out his fellow player from the West, D. E. Sawyer, and waited until the latter part of the afternoon before he settled matters on the seventeenth green. Evans played the morning round in 79 and the afternoon in 73. His match to-morrow with Herreshoff is expected to be a hummer.

The only match to reach the home green on the final round to-day was between W. A. Tuckerman of Stockbridge and F. A. Martin of Ekwanok, which had such speed that it overran to the thirty-seventh hole, where Tuckerman won. All the others stopped back of the clubhouse, the players strolling in through the trees talking it over and receiving congratulations and condolences. One beaten man stopped to empty the sand out of his shoes. "You see how I lost," he said as the crowd streamed by. They realized that the player had sampled many traps. The summary:

National Amateur Golf Championship.—Second Round, 36 Holes—H. H. Wilder, Vesper, defeated R. A. Brown, Meadow Brook, 4 up and 2 to play; W. C. Fownes, Jr., Oakmont, defeated A. M. Reid, St. Andrew's, 6 up and 5 to play; Frederick Herreshoff, Ekwanok, defeated P. W. Whittemore, the County Club, 5 up and 4 to play; Charles Evans, Jr., Edgewater, defeated D. E. Sawyer, Wheaton, 2 up and 1 to play; Warren K. Wood, Homewood, defeated P. Gilbert, Brae Burn, 3 up and 2 to play; J. G. Anderson, Woodland, defeated W. J. Travis, Garden City, 5 up and 3 to play; H. Weber, Inverness, defeated R. R. Gorton, Brae Burn, 3 up and 2 to play; W. R. Tuckerman, Stockbridge, defeated F. A. Martin, Ekwanok, 1 up, 37 holes.

The drawings to-morrow for the third round are as follows: Wilder vs. Fownes, Herreshoff vs. Evans, Wood vs. Anderson, Weber vs. Tuckerman.

MRS. ANDERSON BEATEN.

Chicago Women Only Survive in Western Association Championship.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Fine golfing weather to-day favored the contestants in the first match round of play in the eighth annual championship tournament of the Women's Western Golf Association at the Skokie Country Club.

The initial round was marked by a surprise, the elimination of Mrs. W. Frances Anderson of Hinsdale, the titleholder of 1908. She was defeated by Mrs. Harvey L. Pound of Skokie, 3 to 1.

All of the visiting players were put out in to-day's round, leaving only Chicagoans to contend for the title. The best golf was played by Miss Vida Llewellyn of La Grange, the titleholder, who scored 84.

Results of the first round:

Something Doing at McNulty Field.

The In-er-Seals and the Elizabeth Athletic Association will clash on Sunday in the first game of a double-header at McNulty Field, 149th Street and Eighth Avenue, and the winners will play Manager Durkin's fast McNulty Brothers team. The In-er-Seals have been traveling at a fast pace all season and have won twenty-eight out of their last thirty-two games. Jehle and Marshall will be on the firing line for them on Sunday, with Lyons behind the bat. For Elizabeth, Ortlieb and Rickard will do the pitching, and Brugey will catch. Durkin will present Archer and Wolin the box, with Seamon on the receiving end.

GRAYJACKET WINS TWICE.

Captures All the Honors in Races Held by Crescent Athletic Club.

Floyd C. Noble's Grayjacket, the star racing boat on the lower bay this year, gathered in additional honors in the races of the Crescent Athletic Club, held off the Atlantic Yacht Club at Sea Gate, yesterday. Two races were decided, and Grayjacket was a double winner. One was the contest for the Childs Perpetual Challenge Trophy and the other was the Corinthian championship race of the lower bay for a cup offered by Francis M. Wilson, Commodore of the navy of the New Moon Club.

Both races were sailed together over a course that gave the yachts a beat from the starting line off Sea Gate to a mark off Bensonhurst, a close reach on the starboard tack to Fort Hamilton, a run down the channel to Buoy No. 7, and a stiff beat against both wind and tide to the finish line off Sea Gate. The contse was decided in a sixteen-knot breeze from the east by south that heeled the little fellows over in true racing form.

The Atlantic Yacht Club was the challenger and the Crescent Athletic Club the defender in the race for the Childs Perpetual Challenge Trophy. The yacht club was represented by Grayjacket. The defending organization had no boat at the starting line, and so had to let the prize go by default. The Bensonhurst Yacht Club was represented, however, by Joy and More Joy. Neither boat was fast enough to bother Grayjacket in the stiff breeze of yesterday.

In addition to these yachts Alice, the property of Davis and Eagle, raced for the Corinthian championship prize. Although she had considerable handicap the boat could do no better against Grayjacket than did the other craft. The winning yacht was sailed by Floyd C. Noble, the owner, who had his young sister as a member of his crew. The summary:

CLARK AGAIN CHAMPION.

Boston Athlete Wins New England All-Around Amateur Title.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 14.—With a total of 5,442¾ points to his credit Ellery H. Clark of the Boston Athletic Association once more won the New England all-around amateur athletic championship at the Institute of Technology field this afternoon. Clark had but three competitors when the meet started. Before the last event was called there was but one left. The three contestants were P. A. Sullivan, Brookline Gymnasium; W. A. Meanix, Brookline Gymnasium, and H. P. McCarthy, St. Stephen's Association, Worcester. In all, Clark took four firsts and four seconds, Sullivan coming second with four firsts and one second. A strained tendon in practicing for the final of the broad jump put Clark out of the mile run, and Sullivan was the sole runner in that event.

No records were broken. Clark won the high jump, 120-yard hurdle, pole vault, and 56-pound shot-put, and was second in the 100-yard dash, 880-yard walk, hammer throw and broad jump. Sullivan captured the 16-pound shot-put, the 880-yard walk, hammer throw, and mile run. Meanix won the 100-yard dash. McCarthy, the Worcester entry, took the broad jump and was second in the high jump, 120-yard hurdle, and pole vault.

The points were divided as follows: Clark, 5,442¾; Sullivan, 5,140½; McCarthy, 3,175; Meanix, 1,652.

ON THE TENNIS COURTS.

William A. Larned was drawn with C. Frederick Watson, Jr., the two representing the Orange Lawn Tennis Club, yesterday in the New Jersey State championship tournament on the clay courts of the Morristown Field Club at Morristown, N. J. The six times holder of the American honors contented himself with watching the progress of the competitions as the pair of the 25 drawn that Larned and Watson are to meet were busily engaged in working their way through the singles. In this event Benjamin M. Phillips and Frederick G. Anderson coupled in the upper semi-final round. Phillips was at his best, as he had need to be, for R. P. Bennett played his slashing volleys at the net before Phillips won in two deuce sets, 8—6, 7—5. The former holder of the cup and title, Anderson, had a narrow escape at the hands of his old clubmate, Henry J. Mollenhauer, before he eliminated him from the tournament to the tune of 6—2, 3—6, 7—5. In the wedding set Mollenhauer was once within a stroke of the match.

Mrs. Walter C. Aufferman and Miss Esther Smith, the latter of the Longwood Club of Boston, coupled in the final of the women's singles for the privilege of meeting Miss Marie Wagner in the challenge round. Mrs. Aufferman scored a reversal of form as she defeated the former Hudson River champion and a holder of the New Jersey State doubles, Miss Elizabeth C. Bunce, 6—3, 6—4. The latter lacked certainty on her drives and failed to show her customary speed. The summary:

New Jersey State Championship Women's Singles.—Semi-final Round—Mrs. Walter C. Aufferman defeated Miss Elizabeth C. Bunce, 6—3, 6—4; Miss Esther Smith defeated Miss Ina A. Kissell, 6—1, 6—2.

Competitions in the annual championship singles and handicaps of the New York Lawn Tennis Club began yesterday on the courts, 123d Street and Manhattan Avenue. T. R. Pell, from the minus 40 mark in the handicap, was defeated by A. H. Smith, plus 30, setless at 6—3, 6—3. The championship contains twenty-eight competitors for the honors held by Robert T. Bryan, the former regimental champion. On the list are Robert Le Roy, Pell, and others. The summary:

Four of the New York Athletic Club's lawn tennis experts reached the semi-final round of the handicap singles yesterday on the courts at Travers Island. Paul Pilgrim, the Olympic champion at 400 and 800 meters, with the mark of plus 15, was one of those to come through. Pilgrim, in his first match, defeated W. L. Stowe of the same mark, 6—2, 6—love. BILLY BURKE WINS EMPIRE STATE STAKE

Colorado E. Scores in Trotting Division of Horse World Stallion Event.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Billy Burke, driven by E. Benyon, won the Empire State stake of $10,000 for 2:14 trotters, at the State Fair here to-day. The trotting division of the Horse World stallion stake was easily won by the crack Colorado E. Baroness Eva won in the pacing division of that event.

Ess H. Kay took the Onondaga stake for 2:06 pacers in commanding fashion. In the Chamber of Commerce stake for 2:09 trotters, Soprano took the first two heats and was just beaten out by her big half brother, Oro Bellini, in the third heat.

The course was fully two seconds slow after Tuesday's rain, and it was announced that Ed Geers had postponed until to-morrow the attempt by The Harvester to beat the world's stallion trotting record of 2:02, held by himself. The summaries:

MOTORCYCLIST BADLY HURT.

Isaac Adams's Machine Dashes Into Fence While Running Nearly Mile a Minute.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 14.—Isaac Adams of Albion, while riding a motor cycle in a race here to-day, lost control of the machine and ran into a fence while going fifty miles an hour, and was probably fatally injured.

Almost immediately following this accident Fred W. Ellis of Battle Creek, who was driving a car in a twenty-five-mile race, ran into a fence when one of his tires blew up, broke down a tree after jumping over a ten-foot embankment, and escaped without injury. His machine was wrecked.

Barney Oldfield and Jack Towar were the other entries in this race. Oldfield lost a tire, giving Towar a lead which he maintained to the end.

The twenty-five miles was run in 27 minutes and 10 seconds by Towar.

Champion Fliers at Press Club Meet.

Glenn H. Curtiss and his Hudson flier will not be the only flier at American League Park on Saturday, when the champion clans gather for the second annual athletic meet of the New York Press Club. Records also almost surely will fly. World's, Olympic, Canadian, metropolitan, collegiate, and military champions are entered. Flanagan probably will smash his own world's record with the 56-pound weight for height, Sheridan is expected to send the discus to a record distance, and Flanagan stands as good a chance in the hammer throw of making a new record as he does in the 56-pound weight for height.

George Bonhag, who broke three long-standing American distance records at Travers Island on last Saturday, will start from scratch in the three-mile race, and the general impression is that he will put Father Time down for the count. Jack Hartrait, the former champion; Jack Eller, Roy Dorland, and Bob Eller will be the leading factors for the handsome prizes offered by Hugh H. Baxter, the millionaire sport patron of the New York Athletic Club, who holds the world's record for the event established twenty-six years ago at Rutland, Vt.

Ahearn Too Clever for Dixon.

An interesting card was provided for boxing enthusiasts at the Sharkey Athletic Club last night. The wind-up was a ten-round bout between Young Ahearn and Young Dixon, a negro. Ahearn put up one of the cleverest exhibitions of fighting ever seen at the club. The negro could not locate Ahearn at all, as he was constantly on the move, but Ahearn frequently landed on Dixon's jaw five and six times in succession. The constant jabbing closed Dixon's eye and cut up his mouth so that he was in a pitiful condition at the end of the ninth round. In the tenth, however, he went at Ahearn so fast that for a minute it looked as if he would knock the white man out. He tired after a short while and permitted Ahearn to hit him at will. In the semi-final Carl Healy and Mike Carroll went six rounds to a draw.

Jack Johnson and Oldfield to Race.

It was announced yesterday that arrangements have been practically completed for an automobile race between Barney Oldfield, holder of the world's record for a mile on a circular track, and Jack Johnson, champion heavy weight pugilist. The race is to be held at the Empire City track during the latter part of the present month. Johnson has made quite a record as a speeder, but the work has been confined more to highways than to tracks. He has been anxious for some time to break into the racing game, but he was prevented by his theatrical managers, who feared an accident.

For Gaelic Football Honors.

The Gaelic football honors for this country will be at stake next Sunday at Celtic Park, when teams representing the leading Gaelic clubs in this section will come together. The Kerry football team, which defeated Tipperary at Celtic Park two weeks ago, will represent the Gaelic Athletic Association, and the Kildare team will fly the colors of the I. C. A. U. These organizations have been rivals for athletic honors both in Ireland and in this country, and the counties which furnish the athletes have likewise been rivals.

TWO MISHAPS IN SHOW RING.

Rider Thrown and Driver Upset at Westchester—Mrs. Walsh a Winner.

New York and Westchester society folk in attendance at the annual Westchester County Horse Show on the White Plains Fair Ground yesterday were furnished with plenty of excitement. There were two bad spills in the show ring, and Edward B. Long, one of the Directors of the Fair Association, was knocked down by an automobile at the entrance gate and narrowly escaped injury. Mr. Long was regulating the traffic at the gate and failed to see a big touring car driven by Frank Reiss of Haverstraw until it was upon him. He was knocked down and fell between the front wheels. The machine was stopped when one of the wheels was within a few inches of his head. Mr. Long was picked up and laughed over the affair.

In the exhibition of jumpers one of the riders was thrown from his mount, while Mr. Manning, who was driving Silver King in the harness horse class for J. Campbell Thompson, collided with another gig in such a manner that his rig turned over and he fell heavily on the sod. He was stunned, but able to drive later on.

One of the leading features of Horse Show Day was the ladies' tandem class for a silver prize cup, offered by Harry S. Bowen. Mrs. J. S. Walsh, in a natty gray suit and green hat, driving Honesty and Honor, won the prize with Emil Seelig's Peter Pan and Sunshine II.

There is much disappointment among the exhibitors that Alfred G. Vanderbilt will not show at White Plains, as he has entered his string of high-steppers at the State Fair at Syracuse.

The class for saddle horses brought out quite a string of thoroughbreds. Mrs. W. A. McGibbon, riding Ross Lind, carried off first honors, while Mr. McGibbon was second with his bay gelding, Rupert.

Keen competition marked the harness horse class for a $50 prize, given by Worthington Whitehouse, the competitors being Mrs. J. S. Walsh, Mrs. E. T. Kirkland, John Doyle, J. Campbell Thompson, and Mrs. S. N. Hexter. After the judges had studied the horses for some time they presented the blue rosette to Mrs. Walsh, who cleverly handled the ribbons over her brown gelding Honesty.

The summaries:

VANDERBILT HOLDS REINS.

Oakland Farm's Horses Carry Off Blue Ribbons at Syracuse Show.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—No sooner had Alfred G. Vanderbilt reached the horse show ring at the State fair grounds this afternoon than the luck of Oakland Farm changed. Earlier in the week George Watson's horses from Florham Stud Farm captured nearly all of the blue ribbons in the classes that the Vanderbilt horses competed in.

Mr. Vanderbilt picked up the reins just as soon as he left the automobile, which brought him out to the grounds shortly before noon, and in the first class in which he appeared he drove The Youngster, a high-stepping heavy harness horse, to victory with Florham Sovereign, from the Florham Stud Farm, second. Later Mr. Vanderbilt came out with Lord Polonious, a chestnut gelding, and won the novice class for heavy harness horses. Lord Polonious was shown by Mr. Vanderbilt to-day for the second time in any show ring in the world. The horse comes from one of the most notable hackney families in England and was purchased by Mr. Vanderbilt in Brussels this Summer.

The Oakland Farm's Park team, The Youngster, Queen's Favor, Hamlet, and Hartes, captured a blue ribbon, as did Queen's Maid and Queen's Favor.

Hamlet and Hartes captured a blue ribbon, as did Queen's Maid and Queen's Favor in the class for heavy harness horses over fifteen hands. Mr. Vanderbilt's horses captured five or six blues to-day, which was about the same number captured by the Florham Stud Farm.

Lieut. Gov. Horace White's chestnut mare, Queen Regent, won out over A. R. Gillis's Prince Larabie, and Ernest I. White won a blue with Hope Axworthy and Willow Belle; Lieut. Gov. White's beautiful chestnut mare took second place.

During the afternoon Gov. Hughes visited the horse show ring for a few minutes, and he expressed himself as greatly pleased with the exhibition.

Hoppe Accepts Challenge.

Willie Hoppe, holder of the world's championship title at 18.1 balk line billiards, has filed his acceptance of the challenge recently issued by George F. Slosson. The men will meet in a game of 500 points on the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 2 at the Madison Square Garden Concert Hall. Both experts have already started their practice work for this game.

NEW FOOTBALL AS WALTER CAMP SEES IT

Referees Will Have Their Hands Full in Watching the Forward Pass and Tackling.

In discussing the new method of football playing, primarily from the standpoint of the spectator, Walter Camp, Yale's principal athletic adviser, expresses himself very fully in an article which will appear in Outing for October.

The chief difficulty in following the game from the side lines he anticipates will be in the case of the forward pass. There the spectator must see whether the man making the pass is at least five yards back of the scrimmage line and the backfield—except the two ends—at least one yard back. Incidentally he must determine whether the ball goes over twenty yards past the scrimmage line, which is the outside limit of the forward pass. Interesting points to bear in mind are the prohibition of the defensive players against interfering with offensive players who have passed the line of scrimmage until the forward pass has been caught, or in case of a kick until the offensive player has advanced twenty yards into the territory of the defense. The man making a tackle must have at least one foot on the ground. The runner with the ball must not be pushed or aided in any way by his team mates.

As to the developments of the play under the new rules Camp says:

"Practically the new rules will put a premium upon the active and aggressive back. But it will not do to rely so much upon this as to forget the fact that without the pushing and pulling a light, aggressive back is going to become exhausted in about half the time he would tire when he had the assistance of others to drag him along and save him from hard falls. Hence the Captains and coaches had best not bank entirely upon featherweights or sprinters pure and simple.

"The same is true, in a measure, in the selection of linemen. Here once more a really good big man will probably be better than a good little man, but brains and agility are so essential that some weight may be sacrificed for these advantages. It will hardly be necessary to secure star ends as it was of old because the new end now coming down under a kick has such protection for twenty yards that even the average second-rate player will be able to get that far, whereas under the old rules it took a great deal of the cleverest kind of play for the ends to cover the kicks of his back, especially where one, two, or more men were put on him to watch him.

"To start at the basic principle, every team must, under the new rules, be possessed of a fairly good kicking game, for that is the last reliance when other moves fail, and a team certainly must be able to push its opponents back up the field by means of a kick when they find themselves in difficulties. It is equally true, however, that the teams must find out how the rules are going to be interpreted and what the officials are going to rule on before they can consistently develop their plays.

"There are so many additional things for the officials to watch that it seems almost an impossibility

POSTPONED TO NOV. 14

It Seems Uncertain That the Reorganization Plan Can Be Effected—Court Told It Is Being Revised.

The Bondholders' Reorganization Committee of the Metropolitan Street Railway went before Judge Lacombe in the United States Circuit Court yesterday asking for an indefinite adjournment of the foreclosure sale on the property covered by the 4 per cent. and 5 per cent. mortgages of the Metropolitan which the Bendholders' Committee represents. Through this application the fact became generally known which has privately been talked of downtown for some time, that the Metropolitan's bondholders are still far away from any certainty that their reorganization plan would go through.

The estimates of the Metropolitan's earnings which were made last Spring, and the capital requirements of any new reorganization plan made it apparent at that time that the only way the reorganization could be effected would be by scaling down the two bond issues and recognizing nothing but a hypothetical equity behind the stock. There were two possibilities presented, the more severe of which would have involved raising the new capital required by an issue of securities having precedence over the bond issues now in process of foreclosure.

This possibility would have meant that the present 4 and 5 per cent. bonds would receive little or nothing representing a fixed charge on the property and would have to be content with a large percentage of their face value in an income security or stock. For the stock itself, on this basis, nothing whatever was allowed. The second of the two possibilities was that the existing bonds be given new securities of a mortgage nature to the extent of a liberal percentage of their face value, and that the money be raised for the capital requirements of the reorganization by the sale of income securities to the old stockholders at a price governed largely by the alternative presented of either subscribing to the new issue or having the stock wiped out.

The Reorganization Committee rather inclined to this plan, according to the best information as to the disposition of its members. In the petition which was presented to Judge Lacombe yesterday the committee stated that the principles laid down by the Public Service Commission in its decision on the Third Avenue plan (which contemplated the issuance of income securities on which less than the stated return would be earned, and the issuance of stock for which no earning capacity was apparent,) made it necessary to revise certain portions of the plan of reorganization for the Metropolitan.

It was stated further that the finding of the Public Service Commission would oblige the Metropolitan reorganizers to recast the statement of physical valuation which they had adopted for the property in their charge. Furthermore, the reorganizers represented to Judge Lacombe that the Public Service Commission's order for the resumption of transfers between the Metropolitan and the Fifty-ninth Street crosstown line had proved a complicated factor, as had the motion of the contract creditors of the New York City Railway for immediate payment out of the funds derived by Receiver Ladd from the settlement of the litigation against the Metropolitan Securities Company and its former Directors.

So it appeared that there were a good many elements of uncertainty in the reorganization prospects, particularly as the amount which the Metropolitan Street Railway receivers will get out of Col. Ladd's settlement can only be determined after somewhat prolonged litigation. Judge Lacombe yesterday declined to grant the application for an indefinite adjournment, but did grant adjournment until Nov. 14. The previous date fixed for the sale was Sept. 27.

FIRE DUE TO FAULTY PLANT.

Death of Three Men on North Dakota Charged to Oil-Burning Machinery.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Faulty installation and design of the oil burning apparatus on the battleship North Dakota was responsible, according to the report of the investigating board, for the accident on that battleship on Sept. 8, in which three men were killed and eleven injured. The North Dakota was coming in from fleet manoeuvres off Virginia Beach and was approaching Hampton Roads when the fire started.

Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, in command of the fleet, appointed a board of inquiry immediately after the affair, the members being Capt. C. A. Cone of the Delaware, senior officer; Lieut. Commander C. V. Price of the Delaware, and Lieut. Commander A. M. Proctor of the Connecticut.

The board took much testimony, the most important coming from Lieut. Commander Orin G. Murfin, in charge of the ship's machinery. He told in a graphic way how he had personally started two of the oil burners and was at work turning on the third when there was a flash of flame which seemed to run along the pipes and around to the separating tank. He ordered "abandon fireroom" instantly, but so fierce was the fire that although every one rushed for the door in the bulkhead, three men perished, probably being cut off in the bunkers by the flame and noxious gases.

Touching the faulty design of the system, the board found that there was a leak in the pipes, which permitted the escaping oil to drop upon the superheater, causing it to flash and fire the oil in the settling tank.

The board finds that no blame for the fire or the damage therefrom attaches to any one serving on the North Dakota. Every possible precaution was taken when the test was begun and everything was done after the explosion to limit the damage. So far as the board could ascertain, all of the officers and men acted with the utmost promptness and efficiency. The damage to the structural fittings was not extensive and could be repaired in ten days by the ship's own force. No further proceedings are recommended.

The plant is of German origin and was installed by the contractors who built the North Dakota at Fore River. As they guaranteed the performance of the machinery for six months it is believed that they must make good the damage.

Capt. Cone, commenting upon the report, says that it contains nothing that will prevent the continued use of oil as a naval fuel.

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Pig Iron Furnaces Not Anxious for Business at Present Price Levels.

Commenting on general trade conditions, The Iron Age says:

Producers and consumers of iron and steel continue to keep in close step, and it is recognized that for some time distributors and buyers will work on a minimum margin of stocks.

Pig iron has had most attention in the past week, but even here it is chiefly inquiry that is reported. Normally, heavy buying for the new year would be in order this month, and consumers are showing interest, but furnaces do not want 1911 business at this level.

Billets and sheet bars are weak, and on the former buyers expect concessions from $24.50, Pittsburg.

In the main new business in finished steel is better than in August. Competition is sharper in spots, and cuts of $1 a ton have been made in narrow and medium width plates.

The United States Steel Corporation is operating 67 per cent. of its blast furnace capacity, forty-five furnaces being now idle, against forty-two on Sept. 1, thirty-nine on Aug. 1, thirty-five on July 1, and thirty-one on June 1.

The Iron Trade Review says:

The temporary activity in pig iron has aroused hopes of permanent improvement which have not been realized, and in finished lines volume of new business is not very heavy. On the whole, buyers, particularly railroads, are apparently not yet satisfied concerning the relations of the Government to business enterprises, and orders may lag until railroad rate questions and other matters are adjusted. Specifications against contracts are, however, fairly good. Actual orders placed in the pig iron market have been light.

ROBBERS GET $30,000 BOOTY IN TWO RAIDS

Take Jewelry from Houses of Judge Colt and Mrs. Burrall Near Providence, R. I.

NO SIGN OF BREAKING IN

Plunder in Both Cases Taken from Sleeping Rooms Without Awakening the Occupants—Robbers Untraced.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 14.—Two robberies, in which the burglars secured approximately $30,000 worth of jewels, were reported to the authorities to-day. The Summer home of United States Circuit Court Judge Le Baron B. Colt at Bristol was visited sometime last night and jewelry valued at $20,000 was taken. The other robbery was at Intermore, the cottage at Warehill occupied by Mrs. E. M. Burrall of Waterbury, Conn. It occurred Monday night, but was reported to the Westerly police to-day. The thieves got $10,000 worth of jewelry here, the property of Mrs. Burrall and her sister, Mrs. Thatcher of Boston.

The burglars at the Colt house in Bristol entered apparently by a kitchen door, using a false key. No windows were forced, and the doors were locked when the family got up this morning. The robbers made their way to the sleeping room of Judge Colt and Mrs. Colt on the second floor. Here they found the valuable and costly gems, some of them being heirlooms, which they carried away with them. They also took Mrs. Colt's pocketbook, which contained $35 in cash, and about $100 from Judge Colt's pockets. Neither Mr. Colt nor Mrs. Colt heard any noise.

The jewelry the burglars secured consisted of a cluster ring set with diamonds, the setting being as large as a 5-cent piece; a diamond pin weighing a carat, the largest one in the centre being set round with sixteen small diamonds; a large uncut diamond in enamel setting, weighing between seven and eight carats, set round with small diamonds; a ring set with two large diamonds, weighing three carats, Tiffany setting; a diamond pendant one inch square, containing a diamond weighing six carats, and attached to this a pear-shaped diamond weighing five carats, valued at $1,500; a large stickpin containing a pear-shaped diamond, valued at $1,800; a ring set with large pear-shaped diamond, valued at $5,000; solitaire diamond ring, Tiffany setting, weighing one carat; a ring set with five small diamonds, valued at $100; a ring set with a large diamond, and a white enamel brooch with a small diamond in the centre.

The police of Providence were notified by the Bristol authorities, and Inspector James Ahearn was detailed to aid the police of that town in the case.

The Watch Hill robbery occurred while Mrs. Burrall and Mrs. Thatcher were asleep in the room which was robbed, but neither of them was awakened. The Burrall cottage is in the centre of the fashionable quarter, and has been centre for social activity during the season. The missing jewelry is listed as follows: Handsome string of pearls, owned by Mrs. Burrall, valued at $5,000; a string of pearls owned by Mrs. Thatcher, valued at $3,000; a diamond bar pin, valued at $180; a diamond and pearl pin, valued at $300; a small diamond and pearl pin, valued at $125; a diamond solitaire ring, valued at $175; a diamond guard ring, valued at $100; three amethyst and pearl pins and a silver purse, valued at $100.

As in the case of the Colt house, none of the doors and windows show any signs of having been forced or tampered with, and the police incline to the theory of false keys or an open window.

NO UNITED RAILWAY DIVIDEND

North American Subsidiary Fails to Declare on Preferred Stock.

The United Railways Company of St. Louis, a subsidiary of the North American Company, has passed the 1¼ per cent. dividend on the preferred stock due at this time. The company, which was formed in 1899 to take over the St. Louis Transit Company, has outstanding $16,983,200 5 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and $24,918,800 common, the latter never having received dividends.

The question of discontinuing temporarily the preferred dividends to apply the funds to reduce the floating debt has been under consideration for some time. A year ago it was decided to continue the payments in the belief that earnings would increase sufficiently to obviate the necessity or that an improvement in financial conditions might enable the funding of the floating debt on advantageous terms.

Western Union Earnings Higher.

Earnings of the Western Union Telegraph Company for the quarter ending Sept. 30, as estimated in the official report issued yesterday, show gains over the previous quarter and over the corresponding quarter last year. With September estimated the net earnings are $1,566,987, compared with $1,516,938 for the quarter ended June 30 and $1,406,213 for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1909.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

PROFIT TAKING A FACTOR

Sales Follow Tuesday's Sharp Rise—Cotton Bills of Lading Situation—Currency Shipments Heavy.

It was to be expected that Tuesday's sharp upturn in prices following the announcement of the Maine election results should attract profit taking, and sales for this purpose yesterday explain the fractional declines exhibited by the list at the close of the session. In the early dealings the momentum acquired by the market on Tuesday carried prices forward to still higher levels, bringing about in the case of active and leading stocks advances of from 2 to 4 points over Monday's quotations. The volume of trading was somewhat under that of Tuesday, but was still much larger than in recent weeks, although it was noticeable that as the market fell away from the morning level business grew dull. There were few features of especial interest in the trading; Hide and Leather preferred weakened again, closing down 2½ points, while losses of a point or more were also scored by American Smelters, American Sugar, St. Paul, and Union Pacific.

In the news items of the day of more or less direct bearing upon financial markets were several matters deserving comment. This was particularly true of the unofficial announcement by the cables that the foreign bankers who have been in conference upon the cotton bill of lading question had determined to stick to their original demand for a guarantee of such bills by American bankers, thus rejecting, of course, the validation certificate plan which had been brought forward by our bankers as a substitute for the guarantee asked. Inasmuch as it is impossible under the laws to provide the guarantee which the foreign bankers insist upon, the question of the financing of our cotton crop must become a very serious one in case English and Continental bankers stand by yesterday's decision. Just what the outcome will be is still a matter of doubt, but it seems impossible for our bankers, who meet to discuss the matter to-day, to satisfy this particular demand for a guarantee. There is still time for further negotiations, since the old system will obtain until Oct. 31. The usual weekly reviews of the iron trade by its leading organs spoke once more of quiet conditions and the possibility of price concessions. The St. Louis street railway system announced the passing of the dividend upon its preferred shares, while of much more real interest was the weaker grain markets, with heavy selling of corn based upon the failure of the much talked of frosts to materialize.

Local banks were called upon for funds by Western and Southern institutions. The demand from Southern points has some connection doubtless with the cotton financing, which must become a heavy burden if the present dispute over export cotton bills is not cleared up. Foreign exchange was lower and discounts were easier in London, with no suggestion from any quarter that any change will be made in the Bank of England's discount rate at to-day's meeting of the Directors.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE. Wednesday.

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange exhibited much strength in the earliest dealings. There was belated covering by shorts who had failed to buy in during the price rush-up of Tuesday. Commission houses also handled a good many buying orders. Profit taking on a large scale was, however, induced by the advance, and was the chief factor in bringing about the afternoon decline. Transactions aggregated 59,060 shares, with forty-four different issues represented on the list.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

New York & Harlem Dividend.

The New York & Harlem Railroad announced yesterday a dividend of 1½ per cent. out of the rental received from the Metropolitan Street Railway. This is the first dividend paid out of this source since October, 1908. The rental received from the New York Central for the steam line of the Harlem Railroad pays 10 per cent. a year on the company's stock, and in addition 4 per cent. was paid annually out of the rental from the street railway line owned by the Harlem Railroad. The failure of the Metropolitan to pay the franchise tax on the Harlem's property resulted in a decision by the Harlem Railroad Directors to withhold the payment of dividends previously provided out of street railway funds until the company was able to protect itself against any action which might be instituted under the franchise tax law.

Clover Leaf Dividend.

The Directors of the Toledo, St. Louis & Western announced yesterday the usual quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. on the preferred stock, upon which dividends at the rate of 4 per cent. a year have been paid since 1907. Up to April this year the dividends were paid semi-annually, but in July the dividend was changed to a quarterly payment, the dividend declared yesterday, payable Oct. 15, being the second quarterly declaration on the stock. The passing some weeks ago of the dividend on another of the Hawley stocks had caused more than usual interest in the action of the Clover Leaf Directors.

Guesses at Pig Iron Stocks.

In connection with the weekly reviews of the iron and steel market which the Street is accustomed to watch for as a means of keeping in touch with conditions in this basic industry the unsatisfactory condition indicated in further cuts in prices was supplemented by an estimate of pig iron stocks made by The Engineering and Mining Journal, which put the unused and unsold stocks at 1,900,000 tons. It has been well known that the great curtailment of production which has been in force since the Spring months has not done all that was expected by the producers in the way of eliminating surplus or of inducing a brisker market, but there has been a general feeling that the conditions in the pig iron market were much better than such a heavy supply as that named would indicate. It was pointed out in the trade yesterday that there is no such sure source of information on stocks of the metal as that relied upon by the trade journals, and that, while the monthly output may be estimated with approximate accuracy, the guesses at stocks offer a wide range for error. The Engineering and Mining Journal does not disclose the means by which the estimate was arrived at, simply attributing it to "good authority."

Chicago National Banks.

The consolidation of the Continental National and the Commercial National Banks of Chicago last month, giving that centre in the merged institution the third largest bank in the country, makes interesting the figures of the Controller's call of Sept. 1 as a means of comparison with the status of the Chicago banks on the same date in the previous year. Since Sept. 1, 1909, the capital of the Chicago banks has increased from $29,900,000 to $41,750,000, and loans and discounts have grown from $227,940,635 to $291,885,646. In contrast is the showing of the surplus funds. Since Sept. 1, 1909, this item has grown by only $5,149,653, being $29,421,407 on Sept. 1, 1910. At this figure the surplus is $12,328,593 less than the capital. Here the National banks have a total surplus of more than $5,000,000 in excess of capital.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat made new low levels and closed near the low point. The selling was due to disappointment at the cables and to reports of increasing offerings of Russian wheat at low prices abroad, while the domestic demand was not sufficient to offset the influence of the foreign report. The cables continued heavy, and notwithstanding the recent American decline export business is still out of line. There were reports of free offerings of Russian wheat abroad, one cable claiming that low grades were offered at equal to 69¾c., cost, insurance, and freight Western European markets. A report from the West was that Canadian wheat was within 5c. of an import basis at eastern points, notwithstanding the 25c. duty. The receipts of wheat were again lighter than last year, and in three days Western receipts have decreased 1,400,000 bushels compared with a year ago, offset by nearly as much decrease in the interior shipments. Reports on the flour trade were conflicting. A dispatch from Minneapolis stated that some of the mills last week sold more than their output. The total grinding last week at the three Northwestern points was on account of the holidays somewhat less than the previous week. Cash wheat quoted No. 2 red Winter $1.03¾, elevator; No. 2 red spot, nominal; new, $1.03½ free on board, afloat, for export; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.22, nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, new, $1.04½, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.10.

Corn was weak and active. The weather map showed no frosts in the corn States, but instead the temperatures were higher, showing that the cold wave had practically disappeared without further injury. As a result the corn market was active and weak, particularly for the new crop deliveries, and final prices were at about the lowest. Claim was made that there were large reserves of old corn in the country, and that this corn would soon move. Receipts, however, are not increasing, especially while shipments from the West are rather heavy. Cash corn quoted No. 2 64½c, nominal, elevator, to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight, domestic basis; and steamer, nominal, elevator, export basis. Sales included 24,000 bushels No. 2 mixed to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight, private terms, free on board.

Oats were quiet and easier, influenced by the decline in other grains, although there was no special pressure. Receipts are decreasing at the interior, while the shipments continue good for distribution. Cash oats quoted standards 38¾c; No. 2 white, 39¼c.; No. 3 white, 38@38½c.; No. 4 white, 38c.; natural white, 38@39c., and white clipped, 39@42½c. Provisions were fairly active and weak. The live hog receipts were in excess of expectations, and there was a break of 15c. to 40c. in live hog prices, and this had a decided influence on the entire market, and induced considerable speculative liquidation.

COTTON.

The cotton market was very quiet, with no important change in price. The fluctuations were narrow and the action of the market without particular tendency. The market early was influenced a little by the reports regarding the Texas storm. The storm was reported off Southern Texas, working inland, and there were quite heavy rains on the Southern Texas Coast. The Texas weather prediction was not very disturbing, however, and the influence of the weather news was soon exhausted. The receipts of cotton were fairly liberal, but owing to the lateness of the crop the port movement is less than last year. The movement in the Eastern belt is considerably delayed. There seems to be a growing feeling that the cotton crop outside of Texas is a very promising one if the frost date is delayed a little beyond the normal, and in Texas the results may not be so disastrous as the bulls have claimed. It is seldom now that estimates are given out under 11,750,000. A great many predictions are being made of over 12,000,000, and with a late frost and favorable weather even higher figures are not considered impossible. Local stocks were again reduced, declining 11,000 bales from the previous day, and are 46,000 bales less than last week. Southern spot cotton was unchanged to 3-16c decline.

New York spot cotton quiet, 10 points decline. Middling uplands, 13.75c; middling Gulf, 14c.

COFFEE.

Coffee was very active yesterday, with a further big gain, the close being at an advance of from 20 to 34 points. Sales were reported of 188,750 bags, representing the largest day's business for the current bull movement. The opening was firm at an advance of 20@30 points.

The French market was 1¾ to 2¼ francs higher at the opening here, but reacted later, with the close at a net advance of 1@1¼ francs. Hamburg was 1@1¼ pfennigs higher, and the Brazilian markets were unchanged to 100 reis higher, although there was a further advance of 1-16d in the rate of Brazilian Exchange on London. Rain was again reported in all districts of Sao Paulo.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Money was easy and discount rates were weak to-day.

Traders on the Stock Exchange were chiefly occupied with the settlement. The recent firmness was maintained, the cheap money outlook inducing fresh buying of foreign bonds, foreign rails, and gilt-edged securities at hardening prices. Rubber and diamond shares and home rails closed easy.

American securities opened a fraction higher, but immediately declined. Later covering and professional support caused a reaction and prices improved. The market eased off again near the close.

Bar silver, steady at 24½d per ounce

Money ¾@1 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2¾ per cent.; for three months' bills is 2¾ per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: At Madrid 7.40; at Lisbon 4.50.

India Council bills were allotted to-day at is 4 132d.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Trading was dull and prices were steady on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes 97f. 80c. for the account.

Exchange on London 25f. 22½c. for checks.

The private rate of discount advanced ⅛ to 2⅜ per cent.

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—A better tone prevailed on the Boerse to-day. American securities closed higher.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Although heavy buying of United States Steel, Reading, and Lehigh Valley was the feature of the local Stock Exchange session this morning, in the afternoon the tone became distinctly heavy and prices eased off all around in sympathy with the reaction in Wall Street. Lake Superior displayed a tendency toward improvement today, advancing to 23, while the income bonds were bid up slightly. United Gas also hardened further, crossing 82. The tractions were quiet and slightly irregular. The recent advance in United States Steel, which to-day crossed 70, can scarcely be said to be based upon present conditions in that industry.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Large Sale in Bennett Avenue in Fort Washington District—Activity in Penn Terminal Zone—More Land for New Times Square Theatre—Big Jamaica Bay Deal.

Trading in the realty market was of a varied character yesterday, involving some important sales, not only in Manhattan, but in other boroughs. The stimulus of the projected Jamaica Bay improvement was reflected in the sale of twenty-five acres to an investing syndicate.

In the Fort Washington district, which has been characterized by large apartment-house building operations in the last two years, further improvements of this character were revealed in the sale by Albert C. Mitchell of two plots of about sixteen lots fronting on both sides of Bennett Avenue, one block west of Broadway, between 188th and 190th Streets. The plot on the west side of Bennett Avenue has a frontage of 137.5 feet, with a depth of about 205 feet. The other parcel is directly opposite, on the east side of the avenue, and measures 100 by 100.3. The property is part of the Anna B. Gilson holdings, which were sold at auction about three months ago.

Sale in Pennsylvania Terminal Zone.

Evidences of continued activity in the Pennsylvania terminal zone were reflected in the purchase by the Adams Realty Company, Milton E. Oppenheimer, President, for improvement in the near future, of the property 235 and 237 West Thirty-seventh Street, 50 by 98.9, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues. The old buildings there are leased to various tenants. The sale was made by S. B. Goodale & Son for Boehm & Boehm and Arrow, Smith & Dunn.

Increases 46th Street Theatre Plot.

J. B. English announced the sale yesterday of the four-story dwelling 214 West Forty-sixth Street, on plot 18.7 by 100. The seller was Kate Bissell and the buyer was Maurice Wertheim, representing the interests who are erecting the new theatre in the Times Square district, adjoining the Gaiety Theatre, on the southwest corner of Broadway and Forty-sixth Street, for H. B. Harris and Jesse L. Lasky. The houses adjoining the one recently sold, from 206 to 212, were bought some time ago, and the total frontage for the new amusement house is 100 feet. Mrs. Bissell held her property at $80,000. The old buildings have been torn down, and it is expected that the new theatre will be opened early in the year.

Magistrate Wells Sells Residence.

Pease & Elliman have sold for City Magistrate Frederick De Witt Wells the four-story American basement residence 117 East Sixty-second Street, on plot 16 by 50 by 67.11, to a client for occupancy.

Resells 26th Street Property.

The Duross Company have resold for Frederick Ochse the property 432 and 434 West Twenty-sixth Street to Louis Schramm, who owns the nine-story warehouse adjoining. Mr. Ochse purchased this property about two months ago.

Sale in Greenwich Village.

James M. Zunino has sold for J. T. Clark the three-story and basement house at 42 Bedford Street, adjoining the corner of Leroy Street.

Buyer for East Side Flat.

Mrs. Annie Strull has sold to Hyman Monness the six-story flat, 237 East Ninety-fourth Street, on plot 25.5 by 101. M. Davidow was the broker.

Sales in Harlem.

The three-story and basement residence, 133 West 118th Street, on plot 20 by 100.11, has been sold for the Freehold Construction Company (Nevins & Perelman) by Gladstone & Feinberg to Samuel Kaufman for occupancy.

Henry Barnett & Co. and Edward Schoenberg have sold 183 West 134th Street, a five-story double flat, on lot 25 by 99.11.

Synagogue Sold at Auction.

Among the auction offerings yesterday was the three-story synagogue at 89 Henry Street, on lot 29 by 75. It was sold by Daniel Greenwald under foreclosure and was purchased for $24,110 by Hyman Pollock, representing the Nesvis congregation of 49 and 51 Pike Street.

Important Jamaica Bay Sale.

A deal of more than ordinary interest in the Jamaica Bay district, in view of the fact that it is the first big realty transaction there since the definite announcement of the great Jamaica Bay improvement, has been made by E. C. M. Fitzgerald, who has sold 25 acres of his large holdings in that locality to a syndicate.

The property sold is on Gerritsen's Creek, below the Old Red Mill and Mill Pond. The property lies on the east side of the creek and about half of it is under water. It is between Avenues V and W and comprises nearly a mile of water front.

The Mill Pond, which is famous for its oysters, is crossed by a bridge in Avenue U. The westerly side belongs to the W. C. Whitney estate, and that property adjoins the Coney Island Jockey Club.

Gerritsen's Creek is the first inlet from Jamaica Bay east of Coney Island and Sheepshead Bay. It connects with Dead Horse Inlet, on one side of Barren Island.

Big Sale in Queens.

The Edgar Improvement Company, controlled by David Michael and his associates, has sold to out-of-town investors more than 500 lots in Wyckoff Park No. 1 and in Wyckoff Park No. 2, at Woodhaven. The amount involved is about $800,000. The lots are practically the only two tracts in the Wyckoff Park property which are not developed.

Brooklyn Sales.

The Ridgewood Realty and Amusement Company has bought through S. Blume & Co. the plot, 75 by 90, on the northeast corner of Covert Avenue and Madison Street and will erect upon the property a fireproof vaudeville and moving picture house, with accommodations for 850 persons.

George E. Lovett & Co. sold for Louis Bonert to Edward Butler the three-story and basement residence, 19 by 45 by 131, at 307 Sterling Place, between Underhill and Washington Avenues.

Suburban Sales.

The Wilkins estate at Annandale S. I., consisting of a house and several acres of land, has been sold to an investor by P. G. Ullman, Jr., & Co.

William R. Donaldson has sold the double house known at 20 and 21 Butler Avenue, Far Rockaway, to Charles Arata.

The Cascades Brings $15,000.

The sixty-acre estate, known as the Cascades, at Highmount, Delaware County, N. Y., with four modern cottages on the grounds, was sold at auction yesterday by Joseph P. Day and purchased for $15,600 by A. B. Price, a party in interest. The property was first offered in five separate parcels, the aggregate amount of the bids being $15,500.

New Home for Women's Club.

Albert B. Ashforth has leased to the Women's University Club the Finn Property, at 99 Madison Avenue, on the northeast corner of Twenty-ninth Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, on plot 37. 6 by 78. The club is at present located at 17 East Twenty-sixth Street, which forms part of a larger plot purchased a couple of months ago by Henry Corn for improvement.

Big Auction List To-Day.

A number of good properties will be offered at the Vesey Street salesroom to-day by Joseph P. Day and the results are being looked forward to with interest by real estate men as an indication of the Fall market. An important offering will be that of 26 East Ninety-second Street, a four-story dwelling, near Madison Avenue, not far from the Carnegie mansion. The southeast corner of Lenox Avenue and 112th Street, two elevator apartment houses known as the Romeyn and the Chester will be sold as one parcel. Other properties will be the four-story dwelling at 3 West Seventy-fourth Street, the five-story dwelling at 698 West End Avenue and tow parcels in the Bronx.

Notes.

Mortimer M. Singer was the broker in the sale of the eleven lots on Fourteenth and Fifteenth Streets near Grove Street, Jersey City, by the E. D. Colwell Company to a brass manufacturing company. A factory for the new owners will be erected on the property.

Brank & Kreielsheimer were the brokers in the sale of the new loft at 152 to 156 West Twenty-fifth Street.

The heirs of the Simon Borg estate have purchased the interest held by Charles Minzesheimer in the property, comprising about fifteen acres at Broadway and McLean Avenues, Yonkers, near the city line.

The following brokers have been elected to membership in the Real Estate Board of Brokers: R. Frank Brooks, Frank H. Tyler, Dominick A. Troota, Mark Rafalsky, and E. P. Gaillard.

Leon S. Altmayer has placed for William Gartner a first mortgage of $10,000 at 5 per cent. on the property 239 East Eightieth Street, a five story apartment house with two stores on lot 25 by 100.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Madras Curtains Get Lower Duty—Rulings on Linen Imports.

The local Custom House authorities were reversed yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers when it was held that error was made in the classification of madras curtains imported by Ryan & McCahan. Collector Loeb returned the merchandise for duty at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem as "embroideries," whereas the importers set up several contentions, among them being that the goods are entitled to enter at the appropriate rates under Paragraphs 305 and 313 as cotton cloth.

General Appraiser Cooper, who writes the decision for the board, finds that the articles are unbleached, that they count between 50 and 100 threads to a square inch, and further that they have had other than ordinary warp and filling threads introduced in the process of weaving to form a figure. Such being the fact the board holds that the claims of the importers under Paragraphs 305 and 313 are well taken, the protests being sustained. Instead of the 60 per cent. duty as imposed by the Collector the board finds that the proper rate is 25 per cent. of the value of the goods and 2 cents per square yard in addition.

Protests filed by Calhoun, Robbins & Co. and the American Trading Company were overruled. The merchandise, which consisted of scalloped articles, was assessed for duty by the Collector at 60 per cent. as "embroideries" under the provisions of the Payne act. The importers alleged lower duty as manufactures of flax. George Riggs & Co., Solinger & Co., and R. Blankenburg & Co., and Dezell & Helwig were successful in securing from the board a reversal of a high rate of duty imposed by Collector Loeb on linen goods.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

PUBLIC NOTICE.
BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT, CITY OF NEW YORK.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment held this day the following proceedings were had:

Whereas, The Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway Company has, under date of June 3, 1910, made application to this Board for the grant of the right, privilege, and franchise to construct, maintain, and operate two additional tracks, together with the necessary bridge or viaduct therefor over and across Western Avenue in the Third Ward, Borough of Richmond; and

Whereas, Sections 72, 73, and 74 of the Greater New York Charter, as amended by Chapters 629 and 630 of the Laws of 1905, provide for the manner and procedure of making such grants; and

Whereas, In pursuance of such laws this Board adopted a resolution on June 10, 1910, fixing the date for public hearing thereon as July 1, 1910, at which citizens were entitled to appear and be heard, and publication was had for at least two (2) days in the "New York Press" and the "New York Herald," newspapers designated by the Mayor, and in the "City Record" for ten (10) days immediately prior to the date of hearing and the public hearing was duly held on such day; and

Whereas, This Board has made inquiry as to the money value of the franchise or right applied for and proposed to be granted to The Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway Company and the adequacy of the compensation proposed to be paid therefor; now, therefore, it is

Resolved, That the following form of the resolution for the grant of the franchise or right applied for by The Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway Company containing the form of proposed contract for the grant of such franchise or right be hereby introduced and entered in the minutes of this Board as follows, to wit:

Resolved, That the Board of Estimate and Apportionment hereby grants to The Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway Company the franchise or right fully set out and described in the following form of proposed contract for the grant thereof embodying all the terms and conditions including the provisions as to rates, fares, and charges upon and subject to the terms and conditions in said proposed form of contract contained and that the Mayor of The City of New York be and he hereby is authorized to execute and deliver such contract in the name and on behalf of The City of New York, as follows, to wit:

PROPOSED FORM OF CONTRACT.

THIS CONTRACT, made this day of 19 , by and between The City of New York (hereinafter called the City), party of the first part, by the Mayor of said City, acting for and in the name of said City, under and in pursuance of the authority of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of said City (hereinafter called the Board), and The Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway Company (hereinafter called the Company), party of the second part, witnesseth:

In consideration of the mutual covenants and agreements herein contained, the parties hereto do hereby covenant and agree as follows:

Section 1. The City hereby grants to the Company, subject to the conditions and provisions hereinafter set forth, the right and privilege to construct, maintain, and operate two (2) additional tracks, together with the necessary bridge or viaduct therefor over and across Western Avenue, Third Ward, Borough of Richmond, said tracks to be constructed immediately to the south of the present track of the Company crossing over and above such avenue, all as shown on a map entitled:

"Map Showing Proposed Tracks Over and Across Western Avenue In the Third Ward, Borough of Richmond, City of New York, to Accompany Petition of The Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway Co. To The Board of Estimate & Apportionment."

signed by Geo. H. Campbell, Vice President, and Wm. B. Redgrave, Division Engineer, attached to the contract and made a part hereof.

Section 2. The grant of this privilege is subject to the following conditions, which shall be complied with by the Company:

First—The said right to construct, maintain, and operate said railroad tracks shall be held and enjoyed by the Company from the date on which this contract is signed by the Mayor to and until October 28, 1934, with the privilege of renewal of said contract for the further period of twenty-five (25) years, upon a fair revaluation of such right and privilege.

If the Company shall determine to exercise its privilege of renewal it shall make application to the Board, or any authority which shall be authorized by law to act for the City in place of the Board. Such application shall be made at any time not earlier than two (2) years and not later than one (1) year before the expiration of the original term of this contract. The determination of the revaluation shall be sufficient if agreed to in writing by the Company and the Board, but in no case shall the annual rate of compensation to the City be fixed at a less amount than the sum required to be paid during the last year prior to the termination of the original term of this contract.

If the Company and the Board shall not reach such agreement on or before the day one (1) year before the expiration of the original term of this contract, then the annual rate of compensation for such succeeding twenty-five (25) years shall be reasonable, and either the City (by the Board) or the Company shall be bound upon request of the other to enter into a written agreement with each other fixing the rate of such compensation at such amount as shall be reasonable, but in no case shall the annual rate so fixed be less than the sum required to be paid for the last year prior to the termination of the original term of this contract, and if the parties shall not forthwith agree upon what is reasonable, then the parties shall enter into a written agreement fixing such annual rate and at such amount as shall be determined by three disinterested freeholders selected in the following manner:

One disinterested freeholder shall be chosen by the Board; one disinterested freeholder shall be chosen by the Company; these two shall choose a third disinterested freeholder, and the three so chosen shall act as appraisers and shall make the revaluation aforesaid. Such appraisers shall be chosen at least six (6) months prior to the expiration of this original contract, and their report shall be filed with the Board within three (3) months after they are chosen. They shall act as appraisers and not as arbitrators. They may base their judgment upon their own experience and upon such information as they may obtain by inquiries and investigation, without the presence of either party. They shall have the right to examine any of the books of the Company and its officers under oath. The valuation so ascertained, fixed and determined shall be conclusive upon both parties, but no annual sum shall, in any event, be less than the sum required to be paid for the last year of this original contract. If in any case the annual rate shall not be fixed prior to the termination of the original term of this contract, then the Company shall pay the annual rate theretofore prevailing until the new rate shall be determined, and shall then make up to the City the amount of any excess of the annual rate then determined over the previous annual rate. The compensation and expenses of the said appraisers shall be borne jointly by the City and the Company, each paying one-half thereof.

Second—The Company shall pay to the City for the privilege hereby granted the following sums of money:

(a) The sum of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150) in cash within three (3) months after the date on which this contract is signed by the Mayor and before anything is done in exercise of the privilege hereby granted.

(b) From the date on which this contract is signed by the Mayor until October 28, 1914, the annual sum of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150).

(c) During the succeeding term of ten (10) years the annual sum of two hundred dollars ($200).

(d) During the last term of ten (10) years the annual sum of three hundred dollars ($300).

The annual charges shall commence from the date upon which this contract is signed by the Mayor.

All annual charges as above shall be paid into the Treasury of the City on November 1 of each year, and shall be for the amount due to September 30 next preceding. Provided that the first annual payment shall be only for that portion of the first annual charge as the time between the date upon which this contract is signed by the Mayor and September 30 following shall bear to the whole of one year.

Any and all payments to be made by the terms of this contract to the City by the Company shall not be considered in any manner in the nature of a tax, but such payments shall be made in addition to any and all taxes of whatsoever kind or description, now or hereafter required to be paid by any ordinance of the City, or resolution of the Board, or any law of the State of New York.

Third—The annual charges or payments herein provided for shall continue throughout the whole term of this contract (whether original or renewal), notwithstanding any clause in any statute or in the charter of any railroad or railway company providing for payment for railroad or railway rights or franchises at a different rate, and no assignment, lease, or sublease of the rights or privileges hereby granted, or of any part thereof, shall be valid or effectual for any purpose unless the said assignment, lease, or sublease shall contain a covenant on the part of the assignee or lessee that the same is subject to all the conditions of this contract; and that the assignee or lessee assumes and will be bound by all of said conditions, especially said conditions as to payments, anything in any statute or in the charter of such assignee or lessee to the contrary notwithstanding, and that the said assignee or lessee waives any more favorable conditions created by such statute or its charter, and that it will not claim by reason thereof or otherwise exemption from liability to perform each and all of the conditions of this contract.

Fourth—The consent hereby given shall not be assigned, either in whole or in part, or leased or sublet in any manner, nor shall title, interest, or property therein pass to or vest in any other person or corporation whatsoever, either by the acts of the said grantee, its successors or assigns, or by operation of law, without the consent in writing of the City, acting by the Board, or its successors in authority.

Fifth—Upon the termination of this contract, or if the same be renewed, then upon the termination of the said renewal term, or upon the termination of the rights hereby granted for any cause, or upon the dissolution of the Company before such termination, the tracks and equipment of the Company constructed pursuant to this contract within the street shall become the property of the City without cost, and the same may be used or disposed of by the City for any purpose whatsoever, or the same may be leased to the Company or any other company or individual.

If, however, at the termination of this contract as above, the Board shall so order by resolution, the Company shall, upon thirty (30) days' notice from the Board, remove any and all of its tracks and other equipment constructed pursuant to this contract and the said street shall be restored to its original condition at the sole cost and expense of the Company.

Sixth—The Company shall commence and complete the construction of the tracks and appurtenances herein authorized within three (3) years from the date upon which this contract is signed by the Mayor, otherwise the rights herein granted shall cease and determine.

Seventh—The Company shall pay the entire cost of the construction and maintenance of the tracks and bridge or viaduct herein authorized to be constructed, and in addition shall pay the following:

(a) The cost of the protection of all surface and subsurface structures which shall be in any way disturbed by the construction of such tracks, and the bridge or viaduct.

(b) All changes in sewer or other subsurface structures made necessary by the construction of the said tracks and the bridge or viaduct including the laying or relaying of pipes, conduits, sewers, or other structures.

(c) The replacing or restoring the pavement in said street which may be disturbed during the construction of the tracks, and the bridge or viaduct.

(d) The inspection of all work during the construction or removal of the tracks, and the bridge or viaduct, as herein provided, which may be required by the President of the Borough of Richmond and the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

Eighth—Before the construction shall be begun the Company shall obtain permits to do the work from the President of the Borough of Richmond and from the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. The Company shall perform all the duties which may be imposed upon it by these officials, as conditions of such permits, provided such conditions are not inconsistent with the provisions of this consent. The Company shall submit to these officials working plans, which shall include and show in detail the method of construction of said railroad tracks and the bridge or viaduct, and the mode of protection or changes in all subsurface structures required by the construction of the same.

Ninth—The bridge or viaduct to be constructed under this contract shall, subject to the approval of the President of the Borough of Richmond, be constructed in a single span from house-line to house-line, and there shall not be any supporting columns erected in the street. Such viaduct or bridge shall have a vertical clearance of not less than sixteen (16) feet above the centre of the street, and shall have drip pans placed under the same for the entire width of the street. The said tracks and bridge or viaduct shall be constructed, maintained, and operated at the expense of the Company, subject to the supervision, control, and inspection of the proper authorities of the City of New York who have jurisdiction over such matters under the Charter of the City or by this contract.

Tenth—The Company shall be liable for all damages to persons or property, including the street and subsurface structures therein, by reason of the construction and operation or maintenance of said railroad tracks and appurtenances, and it is a condition of this consent that The City of New York assumes no liability to either person or property on account of this consent.

Eleventh—Free and uninterrupted access to and passage over the street shall be maintained at all times, both during construction and thereafter, and no cars shall be allowed to stand upon said railroad tracks within the limits of said street.

Twelfth—This consent is granted on the further and express condition that all laws or ordinances now in force, or which may hereafter be adopted, shall be strictly complied with.

Thirteenth—This grant is upon the express condition that the Company, within thirty (30) days after the signing of this contract by the Mayor, and before anything is done in exercise of the rights hereby conferred, shall deposit with the Comptroller of the City the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) either in money or securities, to be approved by him, which fund shall be security for the performance by the Company of all of the terms and conditions of this contract, especially those which relate to the payment of the annual charge for the privileges hereby granted, and the proper construction, maintenance, and operation of the structures hereby authorized, and in case of default in the performance by the Company of such terms and conditions the City shall have the right to cause the work to be done and the materials to be furnished for the performance thereof after due notice, and shall collect the reasonable cost thereof from the said fund without legal proceedings; or after default in the payment of the annual charges, shall collect the same, with interest, from the said fund after ten (10) days' notice in writing to the Company, or in case of failure to keep the other terms and conditions of this contract, the Company shall pay a penalty of ten dollars ($10) per day for each day of violation.

The procedure for the imposition and collection of the penalties in this contract shall be as follows:

The Board, on complaint made, shall give notice to the Company, directing its President or other officer to appear before the Board on a certain day not less than ten (10) days after the date of such notice, to show cause why the Company should not be penalized in accordance with the foregoing provision. If the Company fails to make an appearance, or, after a hearing, appears in the judgment of the Board to be in fault, said Board shall forthwith impose the prescribed penalty, and without legal procedure direct the Comptroller to withdraw the amount of such penalty from the security fund deposited with him. In case of any drafts made upon the security fund the Company shall, upon ten (10) days' notice in writing, pay to the City a sum sufficient to restore said security fund to the original amount of five hundred dollars ($500), and in default thereof this contract shall be annulled at the option of the Board, acting on behalf of the City. No action or proceeding or right under this or any other provision of this contract shall affect any other legal rights, remedies, or causes of action belonging to the City.

Fourteenth—In case of any violation, or breach or failure to comply with any of the provisions herein contained, this contract may be forfeited by a suit brought by the Corporation Counsel, on notice of ten (10) days to the Company, or at the option of the Board by resolution of said Board, which said resolution may contain a provision to the effect that the railroad tracks and other structures constructed and in use by virtue of this contract shall thereupon become the property of the City without proceedings at law or in equity. Sixteenth—The word "street," wherever used herein, shall be deemed to mean such streets, avenues, highways, driveways, concourses, boulevards, or public places across and over which the Company is hereby granted the right to construct its tracks.

The New York Times:

I have noticed many times the commendations of The New York Times printed under the heading "Results" on top of the Want page. It is gratifying to know that there is at least one newspaper published in New York City that strictly scrutinizes all Want advertisements offered for publication.

When placing an advertisement in a newspaper it is well to feel that it will be read and answered by people of reliability. Chas. J. Wolfe, 232 Rich Ave., Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Strict censorship over all advertisements offered for publication in The New York Times makes the Want Page of The Times the most reliable published. Go to any advertising agency or telephone 1000 Bryant.

SCHOOL BOARD WANTS $35,944,298 FOR 1911

Budget for Next Year as Adopted Exceeds This Year by More Than $7,282,600.

SOME SALARIES INCREASED

More Pay for District Superintendents Splits Board, but Is Granted—Lower Grade Teachers Also Benefit.

In an extended and wordy session yesterday afternoon the Board of Education adopted its budget for 1911, amounting to $35,944,298, an increase over the budget for this year of $7,282,629. Of this $6,014,814 is increase in the general fund, and the remainder increase in the special fund.

The increase for the general fund covers the normal growth of the school system and provides for the proposed increase of salaries to teachers in lower grades, who are the worst paid. The board, which is pledged to try to put this item through, has worked for it for several years, and though the Board of Estimate has refused hitherto, the Commissioners will fight for it more vigorously. The total amount of the advances is $3,618,873, distributed among classes of teachers in this manner:

Training schools for teachers	42,817
Special branches in day elementary schools	48,407
Parental and truant schools	648
Evening schools	171,107
Vacation activities, (including evening recreation centres)	96,403
Supervisors, Directors, &c.	2,375
Additional teachers (clerks)	41,952

The increase made necessary by the growth of the system amounts to $2,395,941.

Presenting the budget, Chairman Greene of the Finance Committee explained that several new features had been provided for. One was the payment of twenty-five visiting teachers. This innovation is said to have grown out of the excellent work done in the homes of the foreign-born by visiting nurses of the Health Department and charity organizations. Teachers for the deaf, dumb, and blind also will be added, Mr. Greene said.

One serious argument over the budget found Supt. Maxwell and the more prominent members of the board on opposite sides. Dr. Maxwell wanted to increase the appropriation for twenty-six District Superintendents from $130,000 to $156,000 to enable the board to advance their salaries from $5,000 to $6,000.

Dr. Maxwell was opposed by Chairman Greene, President Winthrop, Commissioners Kanzler, Harrison, Barrett, Thomas, Gen. Wingate, and others. Chairman Greene said it would be a serious mistake to ask for an increase for already highly paid officers. Both he and Gen. Wingate said there were scores of teachers and Supervisors who would be glad to get the District Superintendents' places at $5,000 a year, and it was far more important, Mr. Greene argued, for the board to get increases for the ill-paid lower grade teachers than for the $5,000 men. He thought that a plea for Superintendents' increases would turn the financial body against appropriations for the relief of the teachers.

Commissioner McGowan favored the increases, saying New York employes ought to have the best pay in the country, but Mr. Greene said he wasn't in favor of foot races in the salary line with other communities. Mr. Greene thought the District Superintendents were getting enough, and he said the pressing of the matter then was an "insidious attempt" to commit the board to the increases proposed. Commissioner Somers at once wanted to know if any underhanded work had been done, if so, he wanted it aired then and there.

Supt. Maxwell spoke of the Superintendents' services to the city, saying that in 1909 by practicing economy they had saved the city $500,000. The number of Superintendents had not been increased since 1902, he said, yet the number of pupils had increased by one-third. He thought, therefore, the increases should be asked, and by a vote of 17 to 12 carried his point.

It developed that Controller Prendergast is holding up the August salaries of School Board employes, including janitors, to the amount of about $2,000,000, and the cry from the unpaid is insistent. The Corporation Counsel is upholding the Controller, and it is expected that the matter will go to the Court of Appeals before it is settled. The Controller contends that the board salary list, exclusive of teachers, must be approved by the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen, which hitherto has not been regarded necessary.

A committee was appointed to advance a settlement as soon as possible, and above all to get the August payroll disposed of without delay.

FIRED IN AIR AND HIT A COW.

Her Good Intentions Not Doubted and Prosecution Is Lenient.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, N. J., Sept. 14.—County Agent Henry Johnston of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is willing to accept mere costs of court from Mrs. Isabella Tismer of Knowlton Township, who recently shot her neighbor's cow. The agent accepts the statement of Mrs. Tismer that she did not mean to hit the cow, being quite convinced that, being a woman, Mrs. Tismer very likely hit the very thing at which she did not fire.

Mrs. Tismer asserts that she meant to fire in the air.

FRUSTRATE, A KIDNAPPER.

Sisters Frighten Off a Woman Taking Away a Jamaica Doctor's Child.

A mysterious woman, dressed entirely in black and heavily veiled, who had been loitering about the home of Dr. Shirley N. C. Hicks, a physician, whose home is at 28 Hardenbrook Avenue, Jamaica, Queens Borough, made a bold attempt to kidnap Ruth, the physician's three-year-old daughter, last Thursday afternoon, but her efforts were frustrated by the Misses Minnie and Jennie Lewis, neighbors. No report of the attempted kidnapping was made to the police, and the news of the attempted kidnapping did not become known until last night.

Persons who have heard the story recall that a woman similarly attired played an important part in a shooting case of which Dr. Hicks was a victim about a year ago. Dr. Hicks was shot by Mrs. Elizabeth Condon, of Baker Avenue, Dunton, L. I., a patient. She was also shot. She and the doctor said they were alone in the house and that Mrs. Condon, in a fit of nervous hysteria, shot him while he was trying to prevent her from killing herself, and that she then fired a bullet into her own breast. Both recovered.

After the shooting neighbors were found who told of a woman in black who was seen entering the house just before the shooting, and who hurried out of it by the back door immediately afterward. Several of the neighbors who saw the woman said that from her appearance they believed that, instead of being a woman, "she" might have been a man in disguise.

From the descriptions of the woman in black given to Capt. John Barnes of the Richmond Hill precinct, at the time of the shooting, and the description given by the Misses Lewis of the woman who attempted to make off with little Ruth Hicks, it is believed that only one woman, or disguised man, was active in both cases.

The Misses Lewis were sitting on the porch of their home at 23 Hardenbrook Avenue, directly opposite the physician's home, last Thursday afternoon when Miss Jennie Lewis noticed a woman walk up and down the block several times, each time looking closely at little Ruth Hicks, who was playing on the lawn. Finally the woman went up to the child and, taking her by the hand, started rapidly toward Fulton Street.

"I believe that that woman is trying to kidnap Ruth," said Miss Jennie Lewis to her sister.

Miss Minnie Lewis followed the woman, whereupon she dropped the baby's hand and hurried away. Then Miss Lewis took the child to her mother.

Mrs. Hicks made light of the occurrence last evening.

"The reason I did not make a report to the police was because I am not sure that any attempt was made to kidnap Ruth," she said. "I did not see this stranger, and only know what the neighbors told me."

Mrs. Hicks was asked if she thought the attempt to lead Ruth away had anything to do with the shooting of Dr. Hicks a year ago.

"No, I don't," she said sharply.

When the shooting occurred Mrs. Hicks was away on a month's vacation. Dr. Hicks said he had been treating Mrs. Condon some time for nervousness. He refused to make a complaint against her and the case was never taken to court.

TIE-UP ON THE LACKAWANNA.

Track Sinks, Dumping Earth on Express Line and Holding Up Commuters

Several thousand New Jersey commuters who hold commutation tickets on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad suddenly made up their minds to use the Pennsylvania Road last night to get home in time for dinner. And in doing so they had to pay trip rate fare for the first time in a great while.

About four miles out from Hoboken and completely covering a section of the westbound Lackawanna tracks was a mound of earth six feet high which formed a barricade for all outgoing trains leaving the Lackawanna station between 4:50 and 5:15 P. M. It was dumped there about 5 o'clock, when a work train of eight cars which had halted on a temporary track just west of the Hackensack River Bridge suddenly began to settle and dumped its load of earth across the rails.

The work train was one used in removing earth from the excavation now being made for the new Lackawanna station at Bloomfield, N. J. Each car in the train was piled high with dirt, which was to have been dumped on the Hackensack Meadows, near the bridge.

A portion of the tracks over which the work train traveled was placed on newmade land, soft and spongy. Although the work train crew did not notice it, the end of the temporary track began to settle just as the train came to a stop. The forward car soon sank and toppled over. In toppling it released the automatic dumping arrangement on each of the other cars, and their contents, instead of spilling to the east, went with a rush in the opposite direction. The crew of the work train jumped out of harm's way and no one was injured.

Looking along the westbound track in the direction of Hoboken, the train crew saw the Dover express, which left the Lackawanna Station at 4:50 o'clock, rushing toward them. The workmen pulled off their coats and waved them madly, and the express came to a stop a few feet away from the mound of earth.

Soon other trains filled with commuters began to pull up behind the stalled express. In fifteen minutes there was a line of stalled trains reaching from the bridge far to the eastward, and thousands of commuters left the coaches to examine the cause of the delay and speculate on how late they were likely to be for dinner.

Although the obstruction was removed from the westbound tracks in half an hour after the accident, the train movements out of the Lackawanna station were slow until after 6 o'clock. It was after 7 P. M. before the regular schedule could be resumed.

TWO YEARS FOR GERBRACHT

Convicted Sugar Refinery Superintendent Must Pay $5,000 Fine Also.

United States Judge Martin yesterday sentenced Ernest W. Gerbracht, former Superintendent of the Williamsburg plant of the American Sugar Refining Company, to two years in the Atlanta Penitentiary and to pay a fine of $5,000. Gerbracht was convicted on June 10 of conspiring to defraud the Government in connection with the importation of sugar, on all six counts, which indicated, Judge Martin said, that he had aided in the continued violation of the statutes.

After pronouncing sentence Judge Martin granted a stay of execution until an appeal can be prepared. Gerbracht's attorneys agreed to be ready when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals convenes in October, and Gerbracht was released on his old bond of $25,000.

In the case of Charles R. Heike, former Secretary of the sugar company, who was convicted on one count in the same trial with Gerbracht, Judge Martin is considering an immunity plea. He will announce his decision on Monday. Heike's case, which once has reached the Supreme Court, therefore may go there again on the immunity plea.

HIGGINS MUST PAY $3,000 IN DUTIES

He Pleaded That He Didn't Know Tariff Law When He Failed to Declare Clothing.

FOREIGN VALUE IS $1,980

When the Seized Goods Are Released They Will Have Cost Him $5,000 —Dr. Menn Loses Jewelry.

It cost Eugene Higgins $3,000 because of his failure to declare the dutiable articles he brought across the Atlantic with him on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie. Mr. Higgins, accompanied by his lawyer, spent much of yesterday at the Custom House, where he was ordered to appear when his effects were sent to the public stores from the steamship pier in Hoboken on Tuesday.

Mr. Higgins pleaded, through counsel, that he was not familiar with the tariff law and that the articles he had brought over had been in use for some time. When he visited the Custom House in the morning the Appraisers had not finished the examination of his baggage, and the Surveyor postponed the hearing until the afternoon.

The declaration made by Mr. Higgins was the subject of much inquiry by Deputy Surveyor George Smyth. It was explained that for a number of years Mr. Higgins's business interests have been looked after by his representatives. His arrival on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie was the first time he had returned from Europe on a steamship in several years. He had always crossed the Atlantic on his yacht Varuna, which was wrecked off Madeira last November. On previous visits he made his yacht his residence, and though he lived ashore many of his effects remained on board. For this reason he was not acquainted with the method of making out a declaration and so neglected to declare much of his clothing, which he had worn, and, therefore, thought was entitled to free entry.

He repeated that he did not consider the clothing of much value. The officials differed with him, the Appraiser valuing it at $1,980, foreign price. After a conference between Surveyor Henry, Mr. Smyth, and Mark P. Andrews, head of the legal department, it was decided that Mr. Higgins could have his goods upon the payment of their home value. This is the foreign value, fixed at $1,980, plus the duty, making $3,000. As the articles coast abroad $1,980, this makes them stand as having cost their owner about $5,000.

No intent to evade the payment of duty, the customs men say, is shown by the fact that Mr. Higgins in his declaration wrote that he was bringing in only articles of personal use and the added statement that he had with him no presents or articles for sale. Upon the payment of duty and the penalty Mr. Higgins's case ends, and he can obtain the return of his effects, which, until such payment is made, have been declared officially seized.

Another caller at the Custom House yesterday was Dr. Rudolf Menn of 1,872 Lincoln Avenue, Chicago, who was a fellow-traveler with Mr. Higgins. Dr. Menn failed to declare all his foreign purchases. Upon his person was discovered two gold watches, two pair of diamond earrings, and several brooches. After the examination of his baggage upon the pier Dr. Menn paid $18 duty above the amount declared. As a result of reappraisal of his effects made yesterday he had to pay an additional duty of $70.

The $900 worth of jewelry found upon his person was ordered seized.

PAUL KELLY NOW VACCARELLI

Court Allows Former Gangster to Resume His Father's Name.

Paul A. Kelly, for years the object of police attention as head of the "Paul Kelly" gang, got an order yesterday from City Court Judge La Fetra by which he will reassume his own name, Vaccarelli. Judge Delehanty on March 27, 1905, gave him permission to call himself Kelly.

In his affidavit Kelly said he lived at 345 East 116th Street, where he is in the real estate business as the junior member of the firm of Joseph P. Vaccarelli & Co. He was born, he said, Dec. 23, 1876, and took the name Kelly when he entered the prize ring.

His parents, he declared, repeatedly have reproached him for changing his name, and his Italian patrons have asked him whether he did not consider his family name good enough. In his papers Kelly did not mention his connection with the gang.

DELAY FOR INDICTED BROKER.

Connolly, Who Blames a Partner for His Acts, Gets a Brief Respite.

Counsel for Alfred J. Connolly, Secretary for C. D. Morgan & Co. of 20 Broad Street, who is held for stealing a $25 check, asked Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday that the pleading be adjourned until next Friday. He said the defendant was an officer of the company and privileged to do many of the things alleged in the indictment. His request was granted.

Connolly, who lives at 731 Carroll Street, Brooklyn, was arrested in August on complaint of James J. Haviland, President of the company. Connolly confessed to signing checks and taking securities valued at $3,200, but said J. J. Bamberger, a stockholder in the company, under threats of dismissing him and promises of rewards, made him do so. Bamberger also was indicted.

HIS CARGOES FULL WEIGHT.

Government Employe Madden Kept Away from Bribes for 23 Years.

Much testimony was taken yesterday at the trial before Judge Martin in the United States Circuit Court of C. De Witt Drew and C. H. Wardell, United States Weighers, and Chief Deputy Surveyor of Customs George E. Bedell for conspiracy to defraud the Government, but few facts which the lawyers, either for the Government or for the defense, believed important were brought out.

James P. Hyland, an ex-foreman of a weighing district, who told on Tuesday how easily the Government had been defrauded of duties due it on Mediterranean imports, was cross-examined at length and was made to explain in detail how weighers were assigned to ships.

At the conclusion of his testimony he was asked by counsel for the defense whether any motive other than a desire to save himself had prompted him to give his testimony.

"Nothing else," responded Hyland.

Frederick B. Sawyer, a former assistant weigher, practically corroborated the testimony which has been given by others. W. H. Madden, a weigher for twenty-three years, who was called to testify as to the assignment of various weighers on piers, declared that in the years of his connection with the service he never had received a penny except his salary and never had underweighed a cargo.

The trial will be resumed to-day at 10 o'clock.

ARREST DEED COMMISSIONER.

Accused of Overcharging an Immigrant Boy for Drawing an Affidavit.

"I shall hold you in $500 bail for trial at Special Sessions," said Magistrate Kernochan in the West Side Court yesterday afternoon to Samuel Auster, an insurance broker and Commissioner of Deeds, living at Avenue C and East Sixth Street, "and I think the matter should be brought to the attention of the District Attorney."

"That is what I propose to do," interrupted Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith. Your Honor, I shall have a copy of the minutes sent to Mr. Whitman, and I believe that the appointment of the defendant as a Commissioner of Deeds will be revoked."

The case which aroused the sympathy of the two court officials was that of Solomon Freeman, aged 17, a young Russian immigrant who had been charged 50 cents for the making of an affidavit by Auster when Freeman sought his assistance in obtaining a warrant against a man for assault.

The legal fee for witnessing an affidavit is 12½ cents, although 25 cents is the usual charge. Detectives Cassetti and Boyle learned, however, that notaries public and Commissioners of Deeds on the east side were in the habit of overcharging the ignorant people who came to consult them.

The arrest of Auster on a charge of petit larceny followed the detectives' investigation.

CATCH A HUNDRED IN A RAID.

Detectives Break Into an Alleged Gambling Place Opposite Tammany Hall.

Detectives Cody and Murphy and eight others of Inspector Schmittberger's staff raided an alleged gambling house yesterday afternoon in East Fourteenth Street, near Third Avenue, opposite Tammany Hall. They had warrants for five men, but found only two of them. These were Frank Kelly, 124 Second Avenue, and George H. Stone, Preston Hotel, Twenty-sixth Street and Fourth Avenue. They were locked up at Headquarters. A patrol wagonload of paraphernalia was confiscated.

The raid was over the head of Capt. John F. O'Connor of the Fifth Street Station. About 100 men were in the place, but they made no trouble. The detectives said the first and second floors were used by the gamblers. The building is being rebuilt and the proprietors of the resort had a short lease and apparently did not expect to remain long. The first floor was used as a poolroom and the second floor for roulette, crap, and klondike.

When the raiders broke in the door with a crowbar one or two of the crowd appeared ugly, but clubs impressed them and they stood quietly, while the police picked out the two they wanted. The others were allowed to depart.

FOUR DEER SLAYERS FINED.

A Jersey Constable One of Those Who Hunted Out of Season.

MAYS LANDING, Sept. 14.—Constable Joseph Leach of this place and Mordecai Thompson, Capt. William Somers, and William Leach of Atlantic City were arrested yesterday afternoon by Game Warden Loder of Egg Harbor City for shooting deer out of season and were fined $2.50 each to-day by Magistrate William Mischlich of Egg Harbor City. The men were represented by a lawyer, who served notice that they would appeal the case.

Warden Loder arrested the men as they were walking along a road, their guns in their hands, after having come here from Atlantic City in an automobile. There have been many complaints here of so-called sportsmen who shoot deer out of season.

LIEUT. VACHRIS GETS BLACK HAND THREATS

"Professor" Italiano Closely Questioned by District Attorney—Scimeca Family Afraid to Talk.

The persistency of Lieut. Antonio Vachris, head of the Italian branch of the Detective Bureau, in trying to learn the secret of little Michael Scimeca's return to his parents by kidnappers, has resulted in his receiving two Black Hand letters in which he is threatened with the fate of Lieut. Giuseppi Petrosino unless he drops the case at once. The second of these letters reached Lieut. Vachris yesterday, a few moments before he started for the office of District Attorney Whitman with Dr. Mariano Scimeca, father of the kidnapped boy, and Dr. Michael Petrella, the child's grandfather.

In substance the writer, who illustrated his letter with the usual black hand and dagger, warned Lieut. Vachris that he would be assassinated unless he promptly forgot all about the Scimeca affair. The Lieutenant appears to be not alarmed. He says that the threatening letters have had just the opposite effect from that intended, and that he will leave no ground unsearched in his hunt for the kidnappers of the Scimeca child. The Lieutenant says he and his men are quite convinced that Dr. and Mrs. Scimeca, as well as Mrs. Scimeca's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Petrella, are aware of the identity of the blackmailers.

For the last three days an inquiry has been in progress at the office of District Attorney Whitman and facts have been gleaned which both Lieut. Vachris and the District Attorney believe indicate that the parents and grandparents of the Scimeca child fear to reveal the identity of the kidnappers or their agents, lest revenge be visited upon some member of the Scimeca family.

The investigators say that several discrepancies have become apparent in the stories told by the various witnesses, which lead to the assumption that the Scimecas and the Petrellas are holding back information which might lead to the capture of the kidnappers. For instance, the Italian detectives say that Mrs. Petrella says that she was driving in her carriage past the corner of Fifty-fifth Street and Second Avenue on Friday night when she saw little Michael on the street. This story is denied, the detectives say, by Di Jania, the coachman in Scimeca's employ.

Di Jania says that for two hours on Friday night he drove Mrs. Scimeca through the streets in the neighborhood of Fifty-fifth Street and Second Avenue, allowing his horse to walk. He says that finally he saw a man with a bundle in his arms approach the carriage and hand the bundle, which proved to be little Michael, to Mrs. Scimeca. Then the man disappeared and Mrs. Scimeca ordered the coachman to drive her home.

The detectives say they expect to strike the right trail to the kidnappers shortly.

Fall Styles Now Showing

(Facsimile of Letter to Our Clothing Customers.)

Dear Sir:—

Before introducing the subject of Fall Clothing, may we ask if the clothes purchased from us last season have proved entirely satisfactory? This department is a new venture for us, and while we know the values we are giving, we are naturally interested in following up the result of our first season's efforts.

On our "buy back" policy, we regard the purchase as the beginning only of the transaction and our obligation does not end until the goods have proved themselves in the wear. Satisfaction is therefore up to you, and if the Clothes have not made good, we will.

Our Fall Styles are now showing, and we can invite inspection with full confidence that in designs, fabrics and workmanship their like will not be found outside the better custom shops. Prices $25 to $40.

Thanking you for past favors, we are,
